HANDLING OF FAIR HIT AS BOARD MEETS

HALE ANSWERS CRITICS

'Fireworks' Looms For Annual Election of Fair Board Officers This Month.

Rumblings of dissatisfaction with the way the Richland County fair has been handled in the last few years broke out Saturday afternoon when the Richland County Agricultural society met at the courthouse to elect seven directors.

Several members of the society, which sponsors the fair, labeled the recent expositions as "the laughing stock of the community," and indicated that "fireworks" might develop at the annual election of fair board officers late in December.

Cite Financial Problem.

At least a half dozen members of the agricultural society, including H. K. Lanehart and W. A. Pfeifer, both of Washington township, and C. C. Hammett, who was defeated for re-election to the board of directors from Jackson township, joined in the criticism and predicted the end of the fair "unless something is done about finances."

The county commissioners were credited with keeping the fair in operation since it has shown financial losses for the last few years.

R. D. Hale, president of the fair board, rapped critics who "have knocked the fair for years without doing anything to help it."

Promises Financial Report.

Hale promised a complete financial report at the organization meeting. Pfeifer charged the board had neglected to publish a financial report last year.

"Despite complaints from members of the society, the Richland County Fair board has never been criticized by the state examining board for an infraction of the laws in conducting its business," Hale said.

Walter W. Shafer of near Lexington, secretary of the fair board, answering Pfeifer, also denied that the board had failed to publish its 1936 financial report.

Postponement of Saturday's meeting was threatened for a while when Pfeifer charged that notice of the election was not given three weeks before the date as required by law.

He accused fair board officers of disregarding regulations in conducting elections and said he received his notice only two days

Davey Hikes Pensions by 10 Per Cent

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Gov. Martin L. Davey today announced a state-wide increase of ten per cent, effective with the December payment, in disbursements to Ohio's 104,608 old age pension recipients.

The chief executive said the order was designed to "take care of increased costs of living."

Increases will average $2.12 monthly a person and will bring total payments to $2,219,390 a month in the state. Pensions average $21.22 a month per persons.

The increase order was announced through Henry Berrodin, director of the state division of aid for the aged.

Checks providing for the increases are to be delivered to pensioners before Christmas, Berrodin said.

AIDS 1,300 HERE

The 10 per cent increase in old age pensions ordered today by Gov. Martin L. Davey will affect 1,300 pensioners in Richland county who will receive approximately $2,750 more this month than in November, according to M. W. Conley, manager of the county aid for the aged office.

Conley said pensioners here have been receiving their checks on schedule, usually during the last week of each month. He expected December checks to be here in time for Christmas, he said.

December checks for Richland county will total $22,830 with average payments amounting to $20.46.

They'll Sing Sweetly In Christmas Show

Three reasons why everyone should buy tickets early for the annual Christmas charity show, are the Three Grace Notes, who will surprise the home town folks with their ability. It hasn't been so long since they were school girls, singing in the school glee clubs, and now they are training for professional work under the tutelage of Fred Wilson, music director of WTAM, Cleveland, and a former Mansfield boy. The trio goes to Cleveland once each week for training. They are all employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, and are heard frequently in the company's shows. They will be featured in the Passing Parade of 1937, which the Three Muster-Cheers will present Saturday, Dec. 18 at the Ohio theater for the Community Christmas Fund. Left to right the Three Grace Notes are Jane Weuthrich, Dorothy Clingan and Ruth Cox.

OPPOSE LAW TO BAN RAW MILK

Producer-Distributor Group to File Protest Tonight With Health Board.

The Richland County Raw Milk Producer-Distributor association today took definite action to oppose a measure now before the Mansfield Board of Health that calls for the complete pasteurization of the city's milk supply.

While Dr. Roy C. Rehder, public health commissioner, is expected to call for the second reading of the ordinance at tonight's meeting of the board, the producers and distributors drafted a protest that will be presented to the board.

Neil S. Robinson, president of the organization, said the resolution backed by the 20 distributors of raw milk in the city, incorporated 12 definite reasons why the

'March of Time' to Add Laughs to Passing Parade

Public Figures To Be Shown In Looking Glass That Reflects Humor Of Year's News Events.

What was the funniest thing that happened in 1936-37? What "faux pas" gave the town the biggest giggle?

You can't remember off hand? Then come to the midnight charity show at the Ohio theater Dec. 18, and you'll see them all in hilarious array on Mansfield own's "March of Time."

In it you'll see public figures—the people who make Page One news—and they'll see themselves as "as if through a looking glass." But it will be the kind of looking glass that reveals the humor of their actions and reactions.

Who Are They?

Do you know, for instance, who are Mansfield's "nine old men"? Do you know who are "the ladies' choice"? You'll find out from the March of Time.

BAD DRIVING

Snowfall Brings Danger to Motorists; Mercury Dives.

The "worst driving conditions in two years" prevailed in Mansfield and throughout Ohio today, as the result of a heavy snowfall, which was accompanied by a drop in temperatures over the weekend.

Col. Lynn Black, head of the state highway patrol, was authority regarding the condition of the road, and Mansfield drivers were inclined to agree with him. Black advised extreme caution in driving.

The snowfall in Mansfield measured 1.7 inches according to Observer Otto Sprunger. General throughout the state, it measured as much as two inches in other places.

The mercury dropped to 15 in Mansfield last night, and at noon stood at 20. The forecast said it would be colder tonight, but the temperatures would rise slowly Teusday.

BANDITS ELUDE POLICE BARRIER

Gunmen Who Held Up Finance Company Vanish Despite State-Wide Hunt.

State highway patrolmen and police in half a dozen northern Ohio cities continued their search today for a pair of bold bandits who have staged at least 12 holdups within the last two weeks—and who escaped Saturday through a police barrier set up within a 50-mile radius of Mansfield after robbing the Franklin Finance company of $150.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates hurriedly left at noon today on a mysterious trip that he said was a clue on the gunmen who seemed to vanish into thin air after they sped north on route 39 Saturday noon.

Bates declined to reveal what the clue was or where he might be going.

He said he had been informed that two men, possibly the same who were in Mansfield Saturday, had held up a loan company in Akron and escaped with $50 several hours after the Franklin Finance firm was robbed.

Bates was of the opinion, he said that the hold-ups are the work of an organized gang operating out of one of the larger cities in the northern part of the state and that they make their trips into the smaller towns, "pull a job" and then go back into hiding.

BELIEVE FLIER, WIFE VISIT AT MORROW HOME

GONE NEARLY TWO YEARS

Establishment of Atlantic Air Routes Seen as Likely Purpose of Voyage.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J.—(UP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were back in their native land today after an absence of nearly two years.

The purpose of their visit—it was presumed to be a visit because they had left their children in England—and its length were known only to themselves and they were not telling.

Even their whereabouts had been left a matter for speculation by Lindbergh's strict secrecy, but there was a great deal of evidence to indicate that they were at the closely-guarded estate of Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow. This was denied, however, by Mrs. Morrow's secretary.

Passengers Surprised.

The Lindberghs returned to the United States on the liner President Harding. Only a vice president of the United States lines knew when they engaged passage, the captain of the vessel did not [illegible] until a few minutes before he sailed, and fellow passengers did not know it until the ship was well at sea. To guard against any passenger sending the news ahead, Col. Lindbergh asked that the ship refuse any radio message in which his name was mentioned. No such message was offered, so the captain was spared the necessity of ruling on the question.

Hence the few casual spectators to their clandestine landing yesterday—via the President Harding's third class gang plank—were astounded. A small sedan licensed to an employe of the Morrow estate was awaiting for them. It was seen crossing the George Washington bridge to New Jersey. The bridge is a few miles above the Morrow estate. Later a Morrow station wagon called at the pier for their luggage.

Sailed In 1935.

Lindbergh, his wife, and their infant son, Jon—their second son, Land, was born in England—sailed secretly for England just before Christmas in 1935 soon after Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey had expressed doubt that Bruno Richard Hauptmann had been the only person involved in the kidnap-murder of their first

LIGHTS WORKING

4 New Traffic Signals In Use at Park Avenue East Subway.

Four new traffic lights today regulated traffic at the hazardous intersection of routes 30 and 42 at the subway on Park avenue east.

Installition of the new type flasher signals was completed Saturday by City Electrician Ernest Adams and they were immediately placed in operation.

The new signals, purchased by the city at a cost of $600, are of the two-bulb type that change without the amber light. Before a chance, the red light flashes several times as a warning.

Two lights installed at either end of the subway are designed to control east-bound traffic on both routes. One light, on a seven-foot steel pole will direct west-bound traffic on route 42, while the fourth, hung from a utility pole at the east end of the subway, will control west-bound traffic on route 30.

Back In America

Shown above are Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife, the former Anne Morrow, who are back in the United States, presumably for a visit with Mrs. Lindbergh's mother. The Lindberghs left nearly two years [illegible] maintained the customary secrecy regarding his plans. They arrived yesterday aboard an ocean liner on which they had booked passage as "Mr. and Mrs. Gregory."

ICY HIGHWAYS BOOST TOLL IN STATE TO 21

Loudonville Youth Escapes Death as Auto Is Struck By 2 Passenger Trains.

ONLY 2 HURT IN RICHLAND

Death of Middletown Couple and Injured Driver Sends Ashland's Toll to 27.

Death rode into Ohio with a snowstorm over the week-end, when at least 21 persons, including three in Ashland county, died in traffic accidents on snow and ice-coated streets and roads, a survey showed today. The accident toll was the greatest since Labor day.

Despite numerous collisions as a result of the slippery driving, only two persons were reported injured in Richland county, neither seriously. Two 19-year-old youths escaped death in freak accidents in the Richland county area.

Has Miraculous Escape.

Near Perrysville, John T. Kaffman, 19, of Loudonville, miraculously escaped with minor injuries when the car he was driving was struck by two fast Pennsylvania passenger trains going in opposite directions.

Kaffman's car was struck by a westbound Chicago train about 3:20 a. m. today when he drove onto the tracks at the Guthrie crossing north of Perrysville. The machine was knocked into the path of an eastbound train from Detroit that passed a few seconds later. The youth was thrown clear of the wreckage and suffered only scratches and bruises. The car was demolished, and both trains stopped while the wreck-

Guy Benneman, 19, of Nashville, Holmes county, escaped with bruises when his car skidded 40 feet on the ice and landed on its top in a creek. The youth crawled out through a door after the car hit a rock in the water. The accident occurred near Loudonville.

Ashland county's traffic toll for the year climbed to 27 when a Middletown couple died in a crash on route 42 near West Salem Sunday afternoon and Arthur H. Coleman, 45, of Ashland, succumbed to injuries suffered in an accident Friday night.

Killed in the accident near West Salem were James M. Steiner, 27, and his wife, Winifred, 24, of Middletown. Their car skidded on the snow and crashed into

GRANTED 'STAY'

Night Clubs Given 30 Days to Comply With Curfew.

Night club owners and liquor permit holders today were granted "30 days of grace" in which to comply with the 1 a. m. curfew order issued by Police Chief Meade K. Bates last Friday.

In issuing the extension, Chief Bates said he had been obliged to use the "no discrimination" policy because it would not be fair to close one place at 1 a. m. and allow another to stay open because they had a band and floor show under contract.

He said he wanted to co-operate with all establishments and for that reason was extending the period for 30 days until they all had time to adjust their contracts.

"After that the lid goes on and stays on," the chief said.

He said he understood council would be asked to amend the closing ordinance, but until a change is made, the 1 a. m. closing ban will go into effect shortly after the first of the year.

Fugitive Spends Honeymoon Alone In Cell At O. S. R.

Less than 24 hours after his marriage in Canton, a Mansfield reformatory inmate who escaped from the Sandusky honor camp more than eight months ago was back behind the walls of the institution. He was returned by reformatory guards yesterday.

The fugitive, Clifford Thompson, 23, and his Canton fiancee were married by Mayor James Seccombe shortly before he was released to reformatory authorities. The ceremony was performed in the mayor's office, with two city detectives as witnesses.

Thompson was received at the reformatory Nov. 14, 1932, from Miami county on a charge of breaking and entering, and is under sentence from one to 15 years. He escaped from the honor camp on April 2.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said Thompson was apprehended by Canton authorities in connection with the theft of an automobile. Additional time would be added to Thompson's sentence as penalty for his escape, the superintendent added.

Government Scores Victory In Aluminum Anti-Trust Suit.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The government won in the supreme court today in its effort to continue with anti-trust proceedings in the southern New York federal district court seeking dissolution of the Aluminum Company of America.

A decision by a three-judge circuit court at Philadelphia permitting the department of justice to go ahead with the litigation was affirmed in an opinion delivered by Justice McRaynolds. Chief Justice Hughes and Justice Stone did not participate.

The Aluminum company contended the litigation, if any were needed, should have been brought before the federal district court at Pittsburgh where a consent decree against the concern was entered in 1912.

Tickets For News-Journal Grid Banquet On Sale Today

Tickets go on sale today for the annual "Victory banquet," staged by The News-Journal in honor of the Mansfield high football team.

The banquet, you'll recall, will be on Dec. 15 at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, with W. F. (Pete) Henry, Mansfield's most famous gridder, an all-time All-American selection, as the principal speaker, Henry is athletic director at Washington and Jefferson college.

The tickets, costing $1.55 (tax included), go on sale at The News-Journal office, at the senior high school office, at Bates on West Fourth street and at Tawse pharmacy in the Mansfield-Leland building.

Just 250 of them have been printed—and when these are gone, there won't be any more. That's as many as can be accommodated for the dinner.

There'll be a lot of other interesting things on the program beside Henry's talk. We can't tell you right now what they are, but they'll be announced in plenty of time. One attraction will be football motion pictures—we'll tell you that much. And they'll be dandies.

So get your tickets, if you want to have a really big evening, and give Mansfield High's Tygers the hand they so richly deserve.

Meet Karen Mallare In Our New Serial Story Wednesday

Wednesday The News-Journal is going to introduce you to Karen Mallare. And we're sure you're going to like her.

Karen is a small town girl, with a longing to be an actress, who goes to New York. All right, we'll agree with you that lots of girls who want to be actresses go to New York—there's nothing new in that.

But this time there is something new about it.

Karen, you see, is the "leading lady" in The News-Journal's new serial story, "Remember That Night," written by Margaret Gorman Nichols, who has long been a favorite serial story author with readers of The News-Journal.

Something unusual happens to Karen on her second day in New York. She meets Philip Ashley, a successful playwright. And from there on, the story really moves. So fast, in fact, that it'll leave you breathless—breathless, that is, for the next installment.

The story will start Wednesday. We know you'll like it.

It'll soon be too late for early Christmas shopping.

A philosopher doesn't bother to sweep away the snow; he knows the sun will melt it sooner or later.

This year's Christmas Health Seals are regarded by many as the most attractive ever issued—but their real beauty lies in what they do.

Why the Building Program Lags.

NEED for several million new "low cost" homes in the United States, as well as for a large number of medium cost, and more expensive homes, is being widely discussed.

President Roosevelt and Congress are earnestly at work trying to devise some feasible plan for a gigantic construction program to be encouraged by federal financing.

Various theories have been advanced to account for the failure of the 1937 building program to measure up to anticipations—or hopes.

In this—as in many other things during the past several years—it appears that the greatest deterrent is FEAR!

Decision to build a new home must be made by the person who aspires to home ownership.

Before this decision is made the prospective home-builder gives much thought to the subject and gets all the information possible, which includes learning of the experiences of friends who have built a home.

All too frequently the information gained is not encouraging. If the home planned for is in the low or medium price range it is often found that material and labor costs, plus the customary equipment of a new home, brings the total to a prohibitive figure—to say nothing of the probable "extras," the constant watchfulness required to guard against poor workmanship, and the likelihood of delays long past the date set for completion and occupancy.

Then again, in the case of a small cash payment, with a loan requiring monthly payments through eleven years, or more, the prospective home-builder faces an obligation which he FEARS he may not be able to meet—in which event he might lose the home and all that he had paid into it.

Mansfield is fortunate in its proportion of home-ownership and the extent to which there has been new residential building during the present year—but there is still need for many more homes that can be well built at costs that can be met by average wage-earners—which may be roughly estimated at between $3,000 and $4,500, exclusive of lot cost.

There is also need, of course, for a considerable number of new homes in the next higher price level of from $4,500 to $6,500—and some at from $6,500 to $8,500.

In these higher brackets, however, there is little need for public concern—it is those who aspire to ownership of low- and medium-cost homes who should be given all possible encouragement to build as well as they can afford.

Co-operation Should Supplant Conflict.

ONE of the most reassuring recent developments is the beginning of co-operation between the government and the power companies. These utilities are said to be ready for a great expansion program which, in the course of three or four years, might run into a couple of billion dollars. Such new capital obviously will not be expended if there is continued warfare in this field.

Immediate expansion of private electric power would provide work for many idle men and much idle capital and could be a big factor in returning prosperity. The tonic effect on business would help as much as the immediate outlay, perhaps more.

There has been unnecessary obstreperousness here on both sides. The government has been charged with persecuting the private electric utilities and the latter have been charged with monopolistic practices and prices. The results of the warfare, on the whole, may not be harmful, provided it ends now.

Records show that distributors of electric power have usually made more money, rather than less, after rate reductions, whether the reductions were voluntary or forced. There is no field of enterprise in which cheaper price more surely broadens the base of demand. But obviously this principle must not be pushed too far or too fast.

If peace and co-operation can be assured in this great and rapidly growing industry, on terms inviting rapid expansion yet safeguarding the public against excessive rates, benefits would accrue in many ways.

More Killed But Percentage Better.

TRAFFIC accidents have increased so much in some communities, with the multiplication of cars, that we sometimes have a discouraging picture of the whole situation. It is a pleasant surprise, therefore, to have the National Safety Council say motorists really are becoming better drivers. Although the fatalities for the first nine months of 1937 were more than the total for the same months of 1936, the death rate per 100,000,000 miles of travel was 1 per cent lower than last year. There was a 9 per cent increase in the use of cars with only an 8 per cent increase in deaths.

In sixteen states there were actually fewer accidents in the period ending with October than in the same months of 1936. The Safety Council says this means a saving of 365 lives.

Normal Trade.

A SURPRISING FACT regarding world trade is revealed in the latest monthly bulletin of the League of Nations. International trade, instead of being greatly diminished, is almost as great as it was in the busy days of June, 1929. If the volume of that year is figured as 100, the index of June of the present year was 99.

This, it must be remembered, is the volume of goods exchanged. The actual money received for them, figured in gold, was only 47 per cent of the 1929 record. It is the valuation of the world's trade, not its quantity, that has fallen.

Here is one reason why, with all this interchange of goods, the receipts will not go far in paying international debts. The other reason is that so much of the proceeds is being diverted to pay for armament.

Housing Campaign Handicapped By High Costs

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt's housing campaign is starting to the accompaniment of a general chorus of expressions of good-will.

It has an excellent press.

In congress even anti-New Dealers, including Republicans, with few exceptions, are friendly to the plan.

Business and industry mostly like it.

HIGHER RAIL COSTS

For example,

The railroads are screeching loudly for higher rates, which must add to the cost of construction material, delivered on the vacant lot, for transformation into domiciles, great and small.

Producers of such materials simultaneously are wailing that these sought-for rate advances, if granted, will make their stuff so expensive that house building will be discouraged before it begins. The president suggests that mass production should cut prices in the field of home construction, as in other industries. Building material men agree—but not if the cuts they make are offset by correspondingly higher transportation charges.

SO—IT'S A PUZZLE:

I have had occasion to refer to this transportation difficulty before.

The railroads reply that it is immaterial how the building folk feel; they (the railroads) will go bankrupt unless they are paid higher rates

As a matter of abstract justice the ridiculously watered stock railroads doubtless ought to "go broke," but it certainly would be economically very disorganizing to have them do it. The next generation but one or two probably would benefit by it, but not the generation right now.

It would take a tremendous building boom to maintain national prosperity in the face of the financial collapse of practically all of the country's railroads.

And the railroads doubtless are correct in saying that they must have higher rates to pay dividends on their over-capitalization—or "bust."

Contrariwise, the building material men are correct in saying that, if railroad rates are advanced, the housing program will fizzle without ever having started in.

AS TO LABOR

The president's opinion is that building labor charges more per hour that would-be home builders can afford to pay.

He reasons that, on a lower scale, there would be much more building; thus the worker, while getting less hourly, occasionally considered would have a steady job, and make more per annum.

The workers' unions admit that this may be true, but they ask a guarantee It isn't forthcoming It is only theory.

AS STEWART SEES IT

Well, notwithstanding all this, suppose you decide to build a home

Washington is a typical city.

As to its down-town area, it is somewhat overbuilt in high-priced apartment houses. Nevertheless, rentals are high, because of an airtight landlord's monopoly. The small home builder must hunt the suburbs.

He picks, let us assume, outlying Maryland or Virginia.

The monthly payment that he makes on his shack is a trifle less than he would have to pay in rental in the District of Columbia. And he figures that he is building an equity into his property—will own it some time, if he lives to the age of 150.

It sounds attractive.

POOR HOME OWNER!

What next?

He has that place to keep up. He has, in summer, his grass to cut. He has his own heating plant to stoke. And fuel to pay for. He has water and electricity and gas bills to meet He has local taxes to pay—real estate, personal, income and capitation. State sales taxes also.

And transportation!

As an apartment house dweller I could walk to work if I had to. Once, if I had to ride, I could do it for a nickel. Now it's a dime each way—plus another dime for each side trip—easily $1 daily for myself and family. Thirty or forty dollars monthly, at the least calculation.

Believe me, while a home owner, I wish, for financial reasons, that I was a slum dweller.

Slum dwellers don't know what they have to be thankful for.

WHY HAVE THE GLOOMS? Several million unemployed? Relief broken down—many persons have nothing to eat? Business men are worried?

Well, then, explain this:

Early Christmas shopping is swamping stores in many cities. The stores are unprepared, have not enough clerks.

Travel on Pullman cars instead of slumping as usual after Labor day has risen against the trend. And one barely is able to get a seat in diners, where food is expensive

The Metropolitan Opera can sell out twice over every performance

Concerts in all key cities are so heavily attended that when I went to purchase two seats, I was informed: "All good seats were sold six months in advance for the entire series." That means week after week.

Helen Hayes touring the United States in "Victoria Regina" could sell out three times over. All seats are bought up in key cities six months in advance.

I tried to get in to a theater a rainy Saturday night in New York—and tried six theaters before I could get a seat Of course, I tried only successes

But that's it—America will pay "any price" for successes.

Give the nation—the world—a successful economic system, and we shall see the greatest prosperity ever imagined.

We are not going to doom. We merely are beginning on the path to the Golden Age.

The wants of the people are rising higher and higher.

LET ALL SHARE

No plan, however, will succeed unless all people can share in the resources of the world.

A plan and a plea are put forth by Arthur Meighen, twice prime minister of Canada.

"The barriers of immigration must be lowered for the sake of world peace," says Meighen.

"This applies even more to our country (Canada) than to yours (the United States).

"We people in possession of the world's richest and widest territories with comparatively thin population can hardly expect the world to remain at peace if we stand on our own shores and forbid all others to come.

"There is much to be said from our own immediate standpoint for this policy, but I don't believe it can be continued compatible with our expectation of peace."

Labor need not fear if wage and hour standards are set by law. No man from Europe or anywhere else comes to lower a standard by choice.

And it is axiomatic of economists "the more hands the more wealth." The more production, the more consumption. We need both, not less, as at present (a very foolish age).

It is significant that the greatest progress ever made in America was during the period of the largest immigration. And what better citizenry is there today than the descendants of that immigration?

VITALITY OF THEATER

The American theater has assumed an immense new vitality. A people may be judged by its theater. Thus, we may assume, American thought has taken on a new vitality that will lift the people far beyond where they are now.

Such productions as the Mercury theater's "Julius Caesar" and such regular Broadway productions as "Of Mice and Men" and "Golden Boy" and "Susan and God" are worthy of the highest traditions.

And, on tour, Maurice Evans in "Richard II" gives high hope to the "hinterlands."

The Mercury theater, in New York, is the result of the genius of a 22-year-old director, Orson Welles. New York is singing his praises high. And well it might—for it is he who has given the theater its greatest vitality this season.

Young America Asks—

Must Youth Pay the Tragic Price of Ignorance?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

CAN YOU SAVE YOUR DAUGHTERS FROM "THE SORDID FACTS OF LIFE"?
SHOULD YOU EVEN TRY?

Here's a 16-year-old girl who says "NO!"—Helen Sincavage of Tunkhannock, Pa.—in a letter every mother should read.

"Dear Elsie—

"Parents who fail to warn their daughters of life's pitfalls are just as responsible as the girl if she comes to grief.

"NATURALLY, PARENTS WANT TO PROTECT A DAUGHTER; BUT THE BEST WAY TO SAFEGUARD HER IS TO TELL HER THE WHOLE TRUTH, SHRINKING FROM NOTHING.

"Mothers say they 'hate to have the clean minds of their daughters soiled by reading and seeing sex and scandals in books and papers and on the screen.' But such knowledge is healthy. It helps sweep away the glamour of illicit love. The girl sees the shame and misery that lie ahead of such adventures. It guards her against scheming men.

"My mother never told me about life, but my older brother did. Through him, I learned what to avoid, how to take care of myself, how to be self-respecting and independent. I wish all girls could be prepared as I have been."

Helen Sincavage—age 16,
Tunkhannock, Pa.
($10 prize winner)

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"I think it's dreadful the way young people marry without proper knowledge — particularly the girls. In small communities, the child quits school as soon as old enough to have working papers—and with only the most distorted ideas about life. As a result of such ignorance, many babies are born out of wedlock, and many girls are forced to marry years before they should.

"I am thinking particularly of two young people I know, aged 17 and 15, who were married on the day their twin babies were born. One of the babies was born dead. Now, at the age of 20, the girl has had 6 children, 3 of whom were born dead. The husband doesn't work—they live mostly with his mother. What a prospect for them and their children!

"The ignorance concerning social diseases is also awful. Some think they know, but their twisted ideas are worse than utter ignorance. I was married at 17, after working out since 12. I had never even heard of diseases. After 5 years, I have two babies—4 and 1—and believe me they shall have all necessary information as soon as they understand."

(Mrs. Peter) Viola Wizes—age 22,
Binghamton, N. Y.
($10 prize winner.)

A brave, fine letter. Here's hoping it reaches the thousands who so deeply need it.

SEX CRIMES AGAINST LITTLE CHILDREN...that is the ghastliest result of this same public ignorance and indifference. Priscilla N. Adams of Sheveport, La., voices the terror which clutches many another mother's heart these days.

"Dear Elsie—

"As I sat reading your column about SEX FIENDS, I looked out of the window at my golden-curled baby girl of six, playing so happily with her mud pies, and I shuddered. My darling goes to school this year. For the first time, she won't be under my eyes every hour.

"Suppose—oh, I can't even think of it! I can only pray in terror that God will watch over her.

"THE AWFUL PART IS, THE FIENDS WHO HAVE DONE THESE THINGS HAVE BEEN EXPOSED BEFORE AND SET FREE AGAIN!

"Every degenerate who is caught should be put away for life. Those who are even suspected should be watched constantly — and given every test. WE MOTHERS OF AMERICA MUST DO SOMETHING TO SAVE OUR CHILDREN! ARE YOU WITH ME, YOU OTHER MOTHERS?"

(Mrs.) Priscilla N. Adams,
Shreveport, La.
($5 prize winner)

We are indeed, Priscilla. And the best and the first step toward saving these beloved little ones is for us to inform ourselves about the truth...learn what degeneracy really is and does...see how easily it may mask itself...learn, also, the truth about the social diseases and how they may lead to rotting brains, fiendish desires and deeds—

AND THEN SPREAD THE TRUTH EVERYWHERE...PARTICULARLY TO OUR CHILDREN THEMSELVES, AS SOON AS THEY ARE ABLE TO UNDERSTAND.

We have laws, we have courts and police ...BUT NONE OF THESE WILL SAVE OUR LITTLE ONES UNLESS WE OURSELVES ARE ENLIGHTENED.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

The Cart Before the Horse.

By ERNEST M. PATTERSON,
President, American Academy of Political and Scoial Science.

President Roosevelt has again emphasized the low living standards of a large percentage of the American people. Such reminders are salutary. Our national income as a total and on a per capita basis is the largest in the world. Our resources and our capital are enormous. Labor is intelligent and skillful as well as management. Yet there are millions of people whose living standards are very low and their economic positions are highly precarious.

All this is admitted. Unquestionably every effort should be made to bring about improvement. The argument should be only over the means. How can such a situation be remedied?

There is, however, no simple remedy. Life in modern times is highly involved Any action that is taken has countless ramifications. Even the best trained statesmen and economists cannot anticipate all the consequences of a given act of legislation or of an administrative ruling. Anything that is done starts reactions in all directions and these in turn affect something else and so on and on.

One of the most harassing experiences of persons in public life during the last few years has been the receipt of a flood of proposals for taking us out of the depression and for reforming society. Many are fascinating in their simplicity but for the same reason they are dangerous. Unfortunately there is usually no way to convince the untrained authors of these plans.

A second point to emphasize is that results may often be secured better by indirect methods rather than by direct. This is discouraging. It calls for patience and for careful planning of intricate matters. There are not many who have the skill and the patience to approach life in this way.

Now let us come back to the problem of the underprivileged. There are two reasons for concern. One is that all of us revolt at poverty. We desire for humanitarian reasons to see higher living standards secured and maintained. The other reason is that, unless a large volume of purchasing power is distributed in some way among great masses of people, business breaks down and our intricate economic machinery ceases to operate or else operates in a partial and irregular manner.

An easy but dangerous answer is to approach the matter directly by giving more purchasing power to the general public. The crude way of doing this is to print government paper money and distribute it widely in return for little or no work.

Only a short time ago another way was tried. It has failed but there is always the danger that it will be tried again, perhaps in a slightly different form. Under the operation of the NRA, the plan was to raise wages and shorten hours of labor. This was done on the theory that the higher wages would promptly be spent in the purchase of goods and these purchases would stimulate business activity.

Results were quite different from these expectations. Higher wages could be paid by some employers who operated at low costs or who had ample reserves. But there were many whose costs were high and who lacked reserves. They were at the "margin" and could not stand the extra burden until after business had improved. All through our economy actions and reactions were started that tended to defeat rather than to help the main purpose. An indirect approach would have been far better. Then, too, a manufacturer of capital goods, say of wire cables, would at the best have had to wait months before higher wages to laborers in general would work around to the point where he would have more orders for his product.

If it is proposed to try again this direct approach, the idea should be fought. There are many business practices that all good citizens should condemn and that government should check. But the basic thing to keep in mind in such a society as ours is that those things should be done that will stimulate honest business men to their best efforts. As business is more active, higher wage can and will be paid. This will be in part because many employers are glad to do it but also because they will have to.

Timely Editorial

Warning in the Job Losses.

Ever since recovery started five years or more ago the country has been accustomed to periodic reports of men going back to work, of larger pay rolls and an increased volume of wage money. The reverse of that condition is genuinely disturbing. There is a suggestion of it in the report of the national industrial conference board that in October there was a loss of 293,000 jobs. Estimates of larger losses in November and in the months ahead now are being made, even by government economists.

So the upward spiral of more jobs, more wage money, more purchasing power and more production has been converted for the moment into a possible downward spiral that easily could gain dangerous momentum. There is a solemn warning in it which had better be heeded. At this stage the reverse movement could be checked. If allowed to gather power in succeeding months it would be something else — which nobody can want.—Kansas City Times.

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

DIARY: Betimes and a forlorn Hollywood letter from the stricken Eva Tanguay sighing for contact with former friends. Also an autographed copy of gentle David Grayson's "Adventures in Contentment" and a note from Grover Whalen to serve on a world fair committe.

Martha Deane, the popular radio chatter lady, came by and over a crumpet we recalled the days when she was Mary Margaret McBride, an Evening Mail reporter, and I trembled in fear of my job on the outer rim of a copy desk. And came a telegram from the Inimer Percy Crosby which I shall treasure.

To dinner with my wife at The Colony and talked to Adolphe Menjou and Verree Teasdale, the Herbert Swopes, Byron Foy and Clare Booth, the playwright. Then through the park so the dog could bark at the bronze tiger on a rock he has suddenly discovered. Home finishing the profile of Luscious Lucius, the gorgeous gazeteer.

Many of us somehow always associate Fanny Brice with the plaintive song she sang in the Midnight Frolic, called "My Man." A shawled Niobe, she leaned against the post holding a dull blob of gas light that revealed a mean Paris street. While she sang, a nation-wide man-hunt for her husband, the notorious Nickey Arnstein, was in progress and naturally added to the poignancy of her lament. The theme of that song—no matter what happens, the maid still loves her man—has threaded Miss Brice's life. Her most recent headline flare-up concerned the intention of her second husband, Billy Rose, to ask her to divorce him so he could marry another. The show-must-go-on and the Pagliacci touch are not press agent imaginings in her unhappy career. She is a true and beloved trouper.

Harry Evans, New York's typical man about town via Jacksonville, Fla., might appear one of the frivolous social butterflies of the cafes and night clubs. He seems omnipresent where lights are brightest. Yet he is the alert editor and sponsor of a free circulating magazine that is the talk of the publication field. He began his New York career as a movie critic on old Life and five years ago launched a periodical called The Family Circle, devoted to the grocery and allied trades. It clicked from the kick-off.

William Huntington Wright is regarded as the most versatile of the writing folk. And one who salvaged happiness, fame and wealth from almost complete despair. He was seeking relief from the tedium of a complete nervous breakdown when he decided to write detective stories merely to divert the agony of his travail. Thus, under the pseudonym S. S. Van Dine, he created the Philo Vance tales that became constant best sellers. Before his illness he had been a high blown authority on art, philosophy and Egyptology. Now that he can roam the world, live in his choice of several country estates, his diversion is breeding fine dogs, especially the Scottie. He is also an authority on tropical fish. O, yes, he sports a Van Dyke

The Hotel Seville on 29th street is a delight to those who enjoy the out-moded oil paintings of yesterday Such as "The Stag at Bay," "In Love," etc. The lobby and bar are hung with many of these long ago treasures. And especially there is one fruit picture to end all fruit pictures. It centers around a juicy slice of watermelon and shoots the works. Fruity, no end!

Bagatelles: Amon Carter likes Roquefort cheese dressing on his grapefruit salad, and it is swell. ...Peter Arno is being basted for a big romantic part in a Hollywood film...Russell Patterson, magazine illustrator, has become a production manager in Hollywood...Tommy Lyman, best known of the "torch singers" is near 50 and a confirmed bachelor.

My personal vanity is nothing to shoot at any more, although it had its day. Still, I find it rather difficult to pass one of those expansive window mirrors without sneaking a peek. So it tickled me when a stroller indulging this subtlety on West 49th street today heard a taxi-driver at the curb, call: "Looks pretty hopeless, eh Buddy?"

Becker, Davis Collide, Main Match at Armory Tonight

Tonight will be another big night for the followers of the demons of the mat.

At 8:30 p. m., Promoter Tim Nolan of the Quality club will present another all-light-heavyweight show at the Armory and one of the old Mansfield favorites will appear in the headline bout.

He is George Becker, handsome German boy of New York City, who caught the fancy of Mansfield mat fanatics last winter. Becker's opponent will be Sterling Davis, a rough 'n' tough hombre from the cow country of Oklahoma.

While not popular with Mansfield fans because of his rough tactics, Davis is quite a grappler, and should offer the favored Becker a lively tussle.

This match will be a two- out-of-three-fall affair with a 90-minute time limit.

The semi-final match pitting Jose Rodriguez, Mexican mat artist, against Clyde (Slash) Clifford of Texas is scheduled for the same distance, and it is expected to provide practically as much action.

Rodriguez has compiled an enviable record on the mat since his invasion of this country, and may pack too many guns for Clifford.

Fred Donley, who hails from Indianapolis, a newcomer to the Mansfield ring, will meet Joe Wolfe of Columbus in the curtain raiser, a one-fall 20-minute bout.

AT ARMORY TONIGHT

Hunting Tags To Be Ready This Month

Hunting license tags, which will be displayed on the backs of hunters during the 1938 season, will be ready for distribution sometime this month, but it will not be necessary to wear them until Jan. 1. The tag bears the wording, "Hunting license, number, Ohio 1938. Display on middle of back."

The number of the hunter's license will be large enough so it can be read from aistance of approximately a half mile through field glasses.

The purpose of the tags is to allow for an easier identification of hunters by landowners and game protectors.

Now comes Homer Austin of Falmouth with a report of having found five young squirrels in a leaf nest in a tree, the little fellows being hairless and did not have their eyes open. Others have reported young squirrels seen late in November. This is said to be unusual and some of the weather prophets claim that it indicates a mild, open winter.

Trappers desiring to obtain top prices should prepare pelts carefully before selling. Saveral simple rules are given here and if followed will bring greater returns.

Dry skins in a cool, airy place—never in the sun or by a fire. Never use salt or any preparation for curing skins. Skin each kind of a pelt in the manner it is supposed to be, following the method established by the manufacturing trade. Never cut off heads, except rabbits. Tails and legs of muskrats, opossum and rabbit should be cut off. Never overstretch. This thins the fur and it appears poor. Get a square effect on raccoon. This is to be done by stretching and not trimming. Feet and claws should be left on fox.

Inmates Drop Second Tilt

The Ohio State Reformatory quintet dropped its second game of the season Saturday night, bowing to the strong Worthington Dry Cleaners of Elyria, 39 to 33, on the Reformatory court.

The Elyria club hopped into the lead in the opening frame and was never headed. Trailing 18-10 at the half, the Inmates, who recently bowed to the Yuncker Sports, put on a 15-point rally to cut the invaders lead to a 27-25 count. Moore led the Reformatory team with 15 points, and Roach paced the winners with nine.

King Levinsky, Broke, To Try Grunt Sport

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO—(AP)—King Levinsky, one time night mayor and pride of Maxwell street, swelled his chest with a sucking-in sound today until the buttons of his coat nearly popped off.

It was preliminary to an announcement of tremendous importance to him. "Hey, you louse," he bellowed, pulling up in front of a beer tavern. "You're just the guy I'm looking for."

"I want to make it a wrestle," he parried, squinting his eyes. "There ain't no more mazuma for me fighting any more. From now on I'm a wrestle, a murder of the mat."

The strapping Kingfish, who earned $300,000 with his fists since 1929 and then lost it, is going in for what he regards as important dough grunting and groaning on the mat.

"I gave all them big guys hell in the ring, didn't I?" he quizzed. "You tell 'em pal. Now, I'm going to do the same thing in a wrestle. I'm still the king. I'll pin their ears lopsided. Too bad my sister Lena ain't here to back me up. She knows I'm a tough guy. Hot cha."

Big-Time Official Praises Pete Henry

J. Y. Clinton Regards Mansfield Boy As One of Greatest Tackles of All-Time; Slated to Appear at Banquet.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

THEY were talking about football the other evening in the lobby of the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Included in the group was a big, white-haired fellow, who looked as though he might have played a little football in his day.

Who was the greatest tackle you ever saw, he was asked? "The greatest tackle I ever saw?" he answered. "Why, that's easy."

"Pete Henry, of course," said the man without a hesitation. Knowing Pete, or "Fats," as he called him, was a Mansfield boy, the broad-shouldered talker explained that his choice was not made because of this fact.

"There was only one tackle who can be compared with Henry," he continued. "I mean Arthur Brides, who played for Yale back in 1906, '07 and '08."

Who was this rather grayish gentleman, still, apparently, on the sunny side of 50, who could answer ever question on football? Where did he learn about Henry, or about football in general?

Clinton—that was his name. Not familiar around these parts, but the name is pretty well established in football circles in the east.

He was J. Y. (Jack) Clinton, a recent addition to the sales promotion department of the Mansfield Tire & Rubber company. Jack is a former football star—at Yale, many years ago. Now he is ranked as one of the leading officials in the east.

Clinton never played against Henry, but he officiated in many games in which the Mansfield boy participated in professional football.

"Henry's on my all-time All-America . . . along with Brides at the tackles," Clinton said as the conversation continued.

Who are Clinton's other choices on his all-time All-America. Clinton, who has seen them all during the last 27 years, thought a minute. "You couldn't keep Huntington Hardwick off the team."

Hardwick is just a name to modern football fans, but "he was quite a player at Harvard" a few years ago. "He was the greatest all-around player I ever saw," Clinton thought.

* * * * *

Picks Jock Sutherland at a Guard.

HARDWICK and Skladny of a recent Pittsburgh team were his choices for ends. "I'd place Jock Sutherland, who played at Pitt before becoming a coach, and Jack Tobin of Dartmouth would make a fine pair of guards for any All-America team," Jack contended.

Picking a backfield was easier than selecting a line. "My backfield would be Eddie Mahon of Harvard, a great kicker and defensive player; Ted McCoy of Yale. Bronko Nagurski of Minnesota and, of course, Jim Thorpe, the old Indian star."

They were all great backs, Clinton said. "But the best of them all was Nagurski."

Clinton, who hails from Philadelphia, has been officiating in big-time football for 26 years. He figures he has worked in 500 games. His busiest year was in 1928 when he handled 55 games.

He officiated in the Pittsburgh-Pen State, New York U.-Georgetown, Dartmouth-Brown, Dartmouth-Harvard, Syracuse-Penn State, Duquesne-West Virginia Wesleyan, Michigan State-Temple, Michigan State-Manhattan, Princeton-Cornell, Yale-Cornell and Penn State-Cornell games this year.

While he has confined activities mostly to college games, Clinton has also officiated in pro and scholastic contests.

His record also includes four officiating appearances in the Army-Navy series, the last being in 1936, and twice in the Rose Bowl. He handled the Columbia-Stanford affair a couple of years ago and the Harvard-Oregon game in 1920.

Handled Odd Lafayette-Pen State Game.

CLINTON has witnessed many oddities on the gridiron. "The most unusual game in which I ever officiated was in 1929—the Lafayette—Pen State game," he said.

"Perhaps you remember it. Lafayette was leading Penn 3 to 0 with only five seconds of play remaining. It had the ball on its own 18, and first or second down."

"Time for only about one play remained and Lafayette surprised everybody by punting, instead of bucking the line to stall for the end of the game."

"The punt was taken by French of Penn State on the other side of the 50-yard line, and he lateraled to Deitrich, who went all the way to score and win the game."

Clinton has seen all of the great teams of the east in action. "The greatest team I ever saw was the Pittsburgh club of this year," he claimed." It had power to burn."

The group was still talking football at past midnight, and how long the conversation continued is a question.

But every little while the talk would return to Pete Henry, who will be the principal speaker at the third annual banquet to be tendered Mansfield high school football squads by The News-Journal at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Wednesday, Dec. 15.

Although on a business trip at present, Clinton agreed to be here for the banquet, and he will be on the speaking program. You'll like Clinton, we know.

MT. EVRNON SEEKS PEDAN

MT. VERNON — The annual banquet honoring the Mt. Vernon high school football team will be held Dec. 13. An attempt is being made to secure Don Pedan, Ohio U. coach, as speaker.

NAMED CO-CAPTAINS

"FOLDING MONEY" BACK

Big Ten Receipts Expected to Exceed $2,000,000 Mark.

CHICAGO — (AP) — Return to general circulation of what the boys call "folding money" is reflected in football attendance and receipts for 1937 in the Western conference.

Receipts probably will exceed the $2,000,000 mark for the season just closed—the highest figure since the peak year of 1927, Major John L. Griffith commissioner of the athletics for the "Big Ten" said today. The all time high was $2,770,600 in 1927. Last year the receipts were $1,750,000. The bottom was reached in 1932 when the cash amounted to $972,389.

ANOTHER TOUGH SKED

Notre Dame to Again Tackle Back Breaking Card Next Fall.

NOTRE DAME, Ind. —(UP)— Notre Dame will play another "back breaking" football schedule in 1938 according to the card released today by Elmer F. Layden, athletic director.

The Irish will play on successive week-ends Kansas, Georgia Tech, Illinois, Carnegie Tech, Army, Navy, Minnesota and Northwestern and then have an open date before tangling with Southern California in the final game.

Murphy May Change Lineup For Columbus South Game

Shelly, Dials May Figure In Tyger Plans for Second Game of Season Here Friday Night; County, N. C. O. Team Continue.

MANSFIELD court athletes returned to hard work today to smooth-en up their play for their tussle with Columbus South basketeers on the Tyger boards Friday night.

Coach Russ Murphy was not disappointed over the performance presented by his new cage edition in the opener with Akron Kenmore, which it lost, 22 to 20, but he believes he can strengthen the lineup with a change or two.

Murphy did not mention the players who might be involved in the shake-up, but indicated that he was dissatisfied with a few departments of the team's performance.

More Experienced.

Dave Shelly and Elmer Dials will be given opportunities to win starting berths for the Columbus game. While Jack Dugger shows considerable promise at center, Dials is more experienced, and the football end may get the call at center this week.

Murphy is by no means dissatisfied with Dugger, who is a sophomore, and figures he will develop into a dependable center. However, his lack of experience will make it necessary for him to share the pivot post with others.

Dials is the other No. 1 center prospect on the squad, but Shelly may be used at the position as an experiment. Shelly has been used mostly at forward in drills, but has the height of a center.

Freddy Lewis and Tommy Scott fared well in the opener. Lewis' shooting was sensational, and the ball handling of the little Scott boy was spectacular. It may be difficult for the other candidates to oust either from a first-string berth until mid-season when Lewis graduates.

Hallabrin Steady.

John Hallabrin is a steady player at a guard, but not a dangerous scoring threat. His experience serves to steady his teammates, however. Jack Lyons is expected to develop into a good scoring guard.

Mansfield faces anything but an easy assignment Friday against the Columbus club, which opened its campaign with a 39 to 25 victory over Columbus Grandview last week.

Four Games Billed in County League.

THE Richland county league teams will swing back into action this week with a program of four games.

On Friday night, Ontario, which handed Lucas its first setback last week, travels to Lexington. Madison, victorious over Bellville by a one-sided score, is host to Butler, and Lucas attempts to regain its winning stride at Bellville.

Union, still seeking its initial victory, will go to Bellville Saturday night.

N. C. O. Cage Quints Play This Week.

ALL of the N. C. O. conference quintets will be in action this week in non-league conflicts. Galion plays at Willard, Ashland invades Norwalk, Bucyrus entertains Plymouth and Shelby is host to Bellevue on Friday night. A Saturday night engagement will find Mt. Vernon entertaining Columbus North.

Cage Leagues Attract 150

More than 150 boys are participating in the intramural basketball leagues at John Simpson junior high school, according to Athletic Director Bob De Haven.

The three leagues include 16 teams of seventh, eighth and ninth grade players, and a regular schedule is played by each circuit. The schedule opened last Monday, and two games are played each day. The season will end March 4.

Members of the Simpson varsity squad do the officiating, score keeping and timing for the games.

LEXINGTON LOSES

The Lexington Minutemen bowed to the sharpshooting Johnsville cagers, 63 to 47, Saturday night, before a large crowd on the winners' court.

Although being swamped in the first frame, 20 to 6, the Minutemen were able to hold their opponents on even terms, with 11-all, in the second period.

Shaffer and Ferguson led the winners with 29 and 18 points, respectively, while Rule and France were high scorers for Lexington.

Johnsville also won the preliminary game, 25 to 18.

REDSKINS WIN, 49-14

Baugh, Battles Lead Club to Eastern Title.

NEW YORK—(AP)—What possibly is the most effective scoring combination in football history—Cliff Battles, the ball-carrying will o' the wisp, and Sammy Baugh, the peerless passer—has shot the surprising Washington Redskin through to the championship of the eastern division of the National Professional Football league.

Sammy and Cliff and the rest of the remarkable Redskins did it the terrific way yesterday, terrorizing the New York Giants, 49 to 14, before 58,000 enthralled fans at the Polo Grounds. Among those who witnessed the electrifying battle were 7,000 wild-eyed Washington rooters, who ripped up the goal posts and everything.

The way Cliff and Sammy cut didoes behind their savagely thrusting forward wall, it is difficult to picture them as losers next Sunday, when they meet the Chicago Bears, champions of the western division, at Chicago's Wrigley Field in their play-off for the league title. The Bears, with nothing at stake, steam-rollered the Chicago Cardinals, 42 to 28, in their final yesterday.

Battles and Baugh took the Giants' line apart and held it up so the crowd could get a laugh. Battles, a wraith in silk panties, carried the ball 170 yards in 24 tries from scrimmage, not counting a 76-yard run-back of an intercepted pass. Baugh completed 11 passes for a total gain of 135 yards, running his total completions for the season to 81 and breaking a previous league record of 77.

Shelby Loses Opening Game

SHELBY — The Shelby Whippets got off to a bad start Saturday night, bowing to Norwalk, 26 to 21, in their opening game at Norwalk. Norwalk rallied in the last chapter to edge the Shelby quintet.

Shelby held a 13 to 11 advantage at the half, the only time it was ahead. The two outfits went into the final stanza with the score deadlocked at 17-all. Called Norwalk with 10 points, while Lehman topped the Whippets with eight.

LIBRARY ADDS EL INDIO, PRIZE WINNING NOVEL

The book, a dramatic story of the life of Indian tribes in Mexico, is illustrated by Diego Rivera, and the atmosphere and vivid descriptions of the Indians and their home life, affords interesting reading.

"The Imperial City," by Elmer Rice is a kaliedoscope of life in New York City. The activities of the Coleman family makes up most of the story. The family is important in financial circles because of their investment house. The book follows the battle as they attempt to gain society's top rung.

Other New Fiction.

Among the other fiction books on the new library list are "No Hearts to Break," by Susan Ertz, the story of Jerome Bonaparte's first wife, Elizabeth Patterson of Baltimore; "Rumelhearts of Rampler Avenue," by DeLavan; "Murder at Government House," by Huxley; "King of the Bush," by Raine, and "Lost King," by Sabatini.

"The Life of Paul Gauguin," by Robert Burnett, which tells the true story of the famous artist's life, tops the non-fiction additions. Since Gauguin's death in 1903, numerous tales have been told which make him a romantic figure, but Burnett's book reveals the artist to be the opposite.

Other non-fiction includes: "Human Mind," by Menninger. "Story of Tunnels," by Black. "Social History of American Agriculture," by Schafer. "Hungarian Dances," by Viski. "Plays of Story and Legend," compiled by Sanford. "Uncle Toby's Christmas Book." "After the Genteel Tradition, by Cowley. "Old Churches and Meeting-Houses in and Around Philadelphia" by Farris. "Road My Body Goes," by Gessler. "Lord Bothwell & Mary Queen of Scots," by Gore-Browne.

FINANCING PLAN VITAL FACTOR IN GROWTH OF AUTO INDUSTRY

It has often been remarked that the growth of the automobile industry has been one of the wonders of the modern world. In 1895 there were but four automobiles registered in the United States. Today there are over four million, eighty percent of them owned in the United States.

Many factors have contributed to this modern colossus—mass production and labor saving machinery together with scientific sales organizations, each of which has played its part in bringing the automobile to the American family.

Another vital factor in this great growth has been the development of installment buying or what is more commonly known as automobile financing. Starting as the industry itself did in a small way, it has gradually grown and spread out from its early beginning until it has taken in almost every article that goes into furnishing a home.

The companies which originally engaged in financing automobiles were small and they moved cautiously. They were local in their operations and operations were spread out to take in wider and wider territory. Small local companies multiplied and the business seemed to be on the verge of stumbling over its own feet.

Gradually, however, the larger companies, formed in some cases, by the combining of small ones, began to dominate the field.

The disadvantage of this condition is that in a typical town of 45,000 people, perhaps 25,000 own cars, each one of which is insured for certain things to the amount of perhaps $30. The money for the payment of the automobile comes back to the dealer but the great volume of insurance premiums goes out of town.

The insurance is placed in the hands of some agent or company totally unknown to the purchaser and in case of an accident, the real service of the local agent is lost to the person whose car is damaged.

There is the trite stying that anyone can deliver a policy and collect the premium but the real service which is to be given with the policy which a person buys can only be rendered by someone who is interested in carrying out the promises made in that policy. Your local agent is the one to whom you should naturally turn and as he is your agent, he will be interested in you and in your claim. It is, therefore, of great advantage to the purchaser of a new car that his financing and his insurance arrangements be made by someone who has these interests in mind.

The Davis Agency, 207 Bowers building, is equipped to take care of these arrangements and it has for many years prided itself for the service that it renders to its clients. This has been the foundation upon which the agency was builded and the principle factor in its growth.

DO YOU KNOW DRY CLEANING?

Garment Must Be Thoroughly Rinsed In Solvent to Be Properly Cleaned.

Do you know that when a garment is properly dry cleaned, there is or should be, hundreds of gallons of clean solvent passed over it.

The purpose of this is to remove all the loose dirt and dry cleaning soaps that will cling to the garment during the cleansing process.

Use of the solvent treatment is one of the features of the dry cleaning system of the Sowash Bros., 125 North Main street, who operate not only the city's oldest dry cleaning establishment in years of service, but also in northcentral Ohio.

After the garment is rinsed thoroughly in the solvent, Sowash's use the germfree treatment of hot air until the clothing is free of cleaning odor and germs. The garment is then ready for spotting and pressing.

Every step in the Sowash cleaning system has a definite part to play so that the garment can be sent back to the customer looking as good as new.

Celenese, a material of which many of women's dresses are made today, needs skillful and competent operators to clean, as material of this type calls for extremely careful application of chemicals in removing spots and stains.

INSURANCE AND SAVINGS

In 1900 only one person out of ten in the United States had a life insurance policy and only one in six had a savings account. This year every other person has both.

Reviving A Tire With Electric Treader

HE'LL SAVE YOUR FAVORITE CHAIR

Bechtler Specializes In Rebuilding Furniture as Well as Making New.

If your favorite chair or davenport looks like it has seoen better days and appears headed for the junk-heap—don't discard it. There's a place in town whire it can be rebuilt and made into a new piece of furniture.

Bechtler's Upholstering Shop, 104 North Mulberry street, specializes in this kind of work. It not only repairs and recovers furniture, but it builds it from the ground up.

If you have some particular design or idea for a davenport, chair, table or any other piece of furniture, it can be made to order at a nominal price. Custom made furniture is another specialty at Bechtler's.

When it comes time for new coverings on a chair or davenport, there is a wide variety of patterns to choose from at this shop. Samples of scores of tapestries, velours, mohair and friezes are on hand from which to make a selection.

The "hospital" department for broken furniture is another service maintained by Victor Bechtler, proprietor of the shop who has had years of experience in the upholstering and furniture making business, during all of which time he has served Mansfield and Richland county.

According to the Bureau of Census, the country's population is only 700,000 short of 130 million population estimated for '37.

CHAIRS, TABLES!

This Company Has Them For Rent by Hundreds.

When it comes to chairs or tables, the Chair Rental company, 258 South Main street, can answer your problems.

The firm rents chairs and tables for all occasions. The euipment is suitable for social gatherings, public meetings, card parties, or any size event. More than 1,000 chairs are available in addition to a large number of bridge tables and banuet tables.

Chairs are rented for five cents each or 50 cents a dozen, while the charge for tables is 15 cents each. The charges are even lower if the euipment is rented in large numbers. Orders amounting to 50 cents and up are delivered free.

Both plain folding chairs and chairs with leather seats are available. The latter rent at a few cents a piece more than the plain chairs.

The Chair Rental company was organized three years ago and follows the trend in larger cities of having firms handle exclusively the rental of chairs and tables.

Business and Industry in Brief

By the end of this year, nearly 4.4 million motor trucks will be registered in the U. S., as compared with 2.7 million in '26 . . . Xmas toys this year will have a total value of $230 million, 10 percent greater than '36 . . . During the last fiscal year, over 22,000 miles of modern roads were completed with Federal funds amounting to $337 million . . . 578 miles of road have been constructed with special cotton fabrics . . . More than ½ of auto owners in the U. S. earn less than $30 weekly . . . At the present rate of coal consumption, U. S. reserves are sufficient for about 3,000 years to come.

NATION'S STEEL PRODUCTION UP

Output for First Half of 1937 42 Per Cent of World Total.

Steel mills in the United States produced a larger share of the world's output of steel during the first half of 1937 than during the same period last year, production figures show. During the first half of this year 41.9 per cent of the world's steel was made here as against 39 per cent last year.

Approximately 69,800,000 tons of steel were made throughout the world during the first six months this year. American mills, the world's largest producers, furnished 29,265,000 tons of the total.

COFFEE ON THE RUN

Approximately 1,000,000 pounds of coffee and 250,000 pounds of tea are consumed annually on dining cars operated by American railroads.

Books For Children . . . (Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Christmas is only three weeks away, and everyone is busy shopping for the family and relations. Books always make ideal presents. For the youngest children we suggest:

Dick Whittington and His Cat—Holiday.
The Night Before Christmas—Holiday.
How Percival Caught the Python—Holiday.

Other new children's books are: Twin Kids by Inez Hogan, Ezekiel by Elvira Garner; The Stage-Struck Seal by James Hull; Walter the Lazy Mouse by Marjorie Flack; The Castle Number Nine by Ludwig Bemelmans; The Polar Bear Twins by Jane Tompkins; Hans Christian of Elsinore by Eva Kristoffersen and The Pig With a Front Porch by Emma Brock.

GEM FOR MUSEUM

LONDON, (U.P.)—A rare Byzantine gem, said to be the finest in any museum, has been acquired by the Victoria and Albert museum, South Kensington. The gem is a cameo, in jasper, of the crucifixion, with the Virgin and St. John. The 12th century has been suggested as its date.

SONS OF CHINA IN PHILIPPINES 'DO THEIR BIT'

Natives, Rich and Poor, Show Patriotism With Money and Service.

MANILLA — (U.P.) — The Far East's catastrophe means almost as much to the 100,00 Chinese in the Philippines as it does to the millions in China.

Manilla's 50,000 Celestials are constantly excited by a stream of extras pouring from the presses of the city's five Chinese newspapers and rushed to outlying districts on trucks and bicycles.

They take their patriotism the hard way—out of their pockets. Relief and war chests receive money, clothing, bandages and medicine from thousands of Chinese, ranging from magnates to the poorest laborers.

Printer's devils and newsboys voluntarily contribute from 10 to 20 per cent of their meager earnings. Small girls sell flowers and join Chinese Boy Scouts in soliciting relief contributions.

Financial drives are under the direction of the National Salvation Board. An estimated $600,000 has been sent to China's relief and war funds. Estimated subscriptions in the Philippines to the Nanking government's Liberty bonds run as high as $1,500,000.

Gifts Anonymous.

Liberty bond subscriptions are hard to estimate because many Chinese, traditionally reticent to advertise their patriotism, send money to Nanking but decline to accept bonds, preferring that the bonds be turned over to the families of dead and wounded soldiers.

Chinese women, who look to Madame Chiang Kai-Shek as their example, are constantly active. Dozens of young women in split skirts are busy preparing Red Cross bandages. The Chinsse Women's Relief association has raised about $25,000 to help war sufferers

Vernacular newspapers show remarkable enterprise. Editors of the Chinese Commercial News and Fookien Times estimate they can translate United Press war dispatches, print them o none-page tabloid extras and have them on the streets within 15 or 20 minutes after the dispatches arrive.

Sinces the war began, editor have prepared some 500 special headline characters giving the translation of commonly used names. One is saving a 2-inch character meaning Idzumo for use "when Chinese bombers sink the Japanese flagship at Shanghai."

BRITISH TOY RUSH ON

LONDON—(U.P.)—In factories all over Great Britain expert craftsmen are now making nearly 20,000,000 toys to meet the demand expected at Christmas. The output represents another great advance in the development of the British toy industry.

George Arnold whose last known address was, 627 East State Street, Hammond, Indiana, and Henry Arnold, whose last place of residence, is unknown, and both of whom are heirs of Elizabeth Munch, deceased, will take notice that Frank Arnold, et al., on the 28th day of November, 1937, filed their petition in the Court of Common Pleas of Richland County, Ohio, for the cancellation of deed from Elizabeth Munch to Jacob Schmidt and Edna Schmidt, and for other equitable relief.

Lot Number 3416 of the consecutive numberings of lots in the City of Mansfield, Ohio, and further described as being located at what is commonly called 220 Johns Ave in the City of Mansfield, Ohio.

The prayer of said petition is for the cancellation of this said deed and the possession of this and other property. The above mentioned parties will take notice that they have been made party defendants to said petition and that they are required to answer the same on or before the 10th day of January, 1938.

GALBRAITH & NICHOLS,
Attorneys for Plaintiffs.

DIXIE DUGAN—Dire Plot. By J. P. McEvoy and J. H. Striebel

AFTER MRS. GRUNTLEY SO CAREFULLY PLANTED HER MOTHER'S PEARLS IN DIXIE'S ROOM, MRS. HACKET REFUSED TO BELIEVE DIXIE DELIBERATELY STOLE THEM
I CAN'T UNDERSTAND MOTHER—SHE SAW THAT DUGAN GIRL WITH THE PEARLS IN HER HANDS YET SHE DIDN'T QUESTION HER HONESTY!
MRS. GRUNTLY DIDN'T GET RID OF DIXIE—BUT NEVERTHELESS MRS. HACKET IS TORN BETWEEN LOVE AND MISTRUST, SHE CONSULTS STEVE DON'T GIVE IT A THOUGHT, MOTHER—NATURALLY DIXIE IS INNOCENT!
BUT HOW DO YOU EXPLAIN THE FACT THAT MY PEARLS WERE IN HER ROOM?
MAYBE SHE'S A SLEEP-WALKER—THAT'D EXPLAIN WHY SHE SAID SHE DIDN'T KNOW HOW THE PEARLS GOT IN HER ROOM
(SIGH)—WELL—THAT'S A PLEASANTER THOUGHT, ANYWAY
HMPH—TONIGHT I'LL FIX YOU SO YOUR OWN MOTHER'LL MISTRUST YOU!

LEADING STOCKS SLIP FRACTIONS ON WEARY MART

Ticker Tape Moves Slowly as Dealings Fall Off; Steel News Cheering.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Stock market leaders appeared a bit weary today and most slipped fractions.

Dealings were exceptionally slow with the ticker tape barely moving near the second hour. Wide spreads between bids and offers in several instances again exemplified the "thinness" of the market as a whole.

Wall Street derived mild cheer from the relaxation of some of the federal reserve's margin regulations, but buyers apparently were uninspired.

Bonds and commodities were quiet and uneven. A sharp drop in silver prices of Bombay reflected doubts regarding Washington's silver purchasing policy after the turn of the year.

Pleasing to the boardrooms was the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said some indications are appearing that the present low production rate may be close to bottom.

The review pointed out that consumers are continuing to operate largely from inventories. Small buying now cropping up, it was added, was a sign stocks were being rapidly depleted in many lines. Some mills were found to have booked as much business in November as in October. Much better demand was looked for in the first quarter of next year.

TRAFFIC KILLS 3 IN ASHLAND

Icy Highways Boost State's Week-End Toll to 21; Only 2 Hurt In Richland.

another driven by J. G. Carruthers, of Cleveland, officers said.

Steiner died five minutes after arriving at the Lodi hospital and his wife succumbed while en route to the hospital. Crruthers suffered a fractured knee and other injuries. With him in the car was Mrs. Marie B. McCardle, also of Cleveland, who was hurt but not seriously.

Coleman died late Sunday in Samaritan hospital at Ashland, 24 hours after he suffered chest injuries when his car crashed into a tree south of Ashland. Miss Virginia Louise Kopp, 24, of Ashland, was killed in the same accident.

Coleman's body was removed to the Shaw funeral home in Ashland. Funeral arrangements are incomplete. He is survived by his wife, Maude; one son; his father, John Coleman of Shelby, and several brothers.

Slippery thoroughfares were blamed for injuries suffered by Mrs. Nannie Thomas of R. D. 1, Shelby, and Arthur Conrady, 27, of 173 Bowman street, Mansfield, only persons reported injured in Richland county.

Mrs. Thomas is in Shelby Memorial hospital with a leg fracture and bruises suffered when she was hit by a car driven by Roger Dick, jr, Shelby, as she crossed a street in Shelby.

Conrady was treated at General hospital for back injuries suffered at 3:30 a. m. Sunday when his car skidded off route 30-N near Crestline. He returned to his home yesterday.

4 Young Couples Hurt.

Four Loudonville couples escaped with minor injuries in two accidents caused by ice-coated roads. A car driven by John Elliott skidded and turned over near Loudonville at 10:30 p. m. Saturday, throwing Miss Thelma Shoudt out of the machine. Miss Pauline Marsh and Carl Kaufman, occupants of the same car, were bruised as were Elliott and Miss Shoudt.

When the automobile in which they were riding skidded and crashed into a guide post near Hayesville four young people from Loudonville suffered minor injuries. They were Misses Kathryn Yeager and Blanche Hamm and Virgil Craig and William McClure, driver.

Struck by a car operated by L. S. Towers, Bucyrus building contractor, Mrs. Maude Rice, 53, of Bucyrus is in Bucyrus hospital suffering from head injuries.

Police said the accident occurred at 7 p. m. Saturday at Sandusky and Rensselaer streets, Bucyrus, when Towers' car skidded on the paving.

Boy Sets Up Ladder to Rescue Blaze-Trapped Family.

AKRON—(AP)—A box of shotgun shells and an alert Boy Scout combined today to save Ross J. Wertz, 38, his wife, Clara, 36, and their 11-year-old son, Neil, when fire trapped them in their home.

Heat exploded the shells to waken Wertz, whose shouts were heard by Dillard Francisco, 13-year-old Boy Scout in a neighboring house. The boy brought a ladder and the trapped family escaped.

MARCH OF TIME TO PROVIDE FUN

It Will Be Mirror Reflecting Humor of News Events In Christmas Show.

depict the most successful financial operation of the year—and will you be surprised at that one!

Who said "I never heard of him"?

You don't have to turn to the back of the book for the answers, because they will all be found in the "March of Time," one of the acts of the Passing Parade of 1937, which the Three Muster-Cheers will present a week from next Saturday night to raise money for community Christmas baskets.

The show will be in three acts, two in the modern revue style, and the March of Time. An amplifying system, covering the entire theater, will be installed, so that every word can be heard at the back of the house.

More than 60 Mansfielders will take part in the biggest charity entertainment of the year.

GOOD COAL IS NOT HIGH PRICED!

Good Coal gives you dependable heat, long burning qualities, less ash and smoke and it's clean burning. Cheap coal may save you a few pennies per ton, but the damage it does to your home is more than hundreds of dollars worth. That's why the wise householder buys National Ice Coal. Because it's GOOD COAL!

THE STATE vs. ELNA JEPSON

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

(Copyright 1937)

CHAPTER XXXI

"But you must see there was nothing I could do. If I had tried, there would have been a most awful mess. You must try to understand my position. It got worse and worse—"

"It did," Elna answered calmly.

"But it came out all right, my brilliant child. After six months' waiting for appearances' sake we can get married."

Slowly Elna said, "I watched you when you testified against me and when you left the courtroom as soon as you saw that I would go to any lengths to protect you."

She was standing erect, her elbow on the mantel. The stab of memory was gone. She submitted quietly when he dragged her to the chair and laid his head on her lap.

"Elna—Elna—it can't be that you don't love me. I counted on you so, and now you are free!"

Her hand dropped on his bowed head, but her fingers had no feeling. "Roger," she said, "I will try to tell the truth as strictly as I can. I did love you, trust you, until you showed me, bit by bit, that I was mistaken. Your one thought was to remove all traces of your presence from this room when Holly died. I promised, and I kept that promise. I kept it, not so much because it was to you, but because I was taught to keep promises. I made a mess of it, of course, but you were responsible for leaving me to carry out your plan. Then you, of all people, testified against me, sure that you could trust me to lie for you."

"But don't you see it was necessity. . . .?" Roger lifted a ravaged face.

"Certainly I see that it was necessary—for you."

"But I thought you would love me—would wait—"

"If that transcript had ever gone to the supreme court, on appeal, an old man would have lost the reputation that has been dearest to him for many years—it was riddled with errors because that old man rose above law to justice and believed, because it was true, that I was innocent. If an old woman I had never seen had not rescued me, that first night in jail, I honestly believe I would have been in the psychopathic ward by morning. If a friend had not come to me one noon recess I should have pleaded guilty as an escape from more horror."

"But"—Roger rose to his feet, his hands clenched—"it can't be like this! I've been counting so—"

Elna held out her hand. "There is nothing left between us. But come," she smiled, "let us not part in anger." She poured another cup of coffee and saw Roger's fingers tremble as he took it. Suddenly he set down his cup. "But what shall I do—what shall I ever do without you?"

"I will tell you what will happen to both of us. I shall remember you always as the man I once admired, worshipped, if you like. I would not be like that with you. You will remember for a while that you betrayed a friend for your own sake and got away with it. Then you will begin to be proud of getting away with it. Then, shortly, you will find a way to make the woman to blame. And all the while you will keep on studying law until you are the terror of judges who would like to disbar you but know they can't. You will be a shell of greatness then, with only a little core of reality, of betrayal long forgotten inside."

"That is what you think of me—deeply?"

"I am sorry, but that is what I think—most deeply." Elna could hardly lift her voice to be heard. "All the rest was faith and illusion."

"Then you are wrong!" he shouted. The door slammed.

The quest of Judge Ashton's car, after he had been left at home, was wild and fruitless. It whirled around corners to back alleys, where James insisted that Graham take a "look—see" and ask questions of bartenders in obscure saloons. Finally James stopped the car with a jolt.

"Look here, it's time to quit running around in circles and do some heavy thinking. We both know Roger's been drinking a lot around the courthouse. Tonight it took three stiff jolts to steady his fingers. I gave him a couple more and he began to loosen up. Then he suddenly said, 'Excuse me, just a minute' and was gone."

"Looks as if he felt his tongue was loosening and ran away for fear we'd drink him into telling something. I'd swear that three blocks of walking in this brisk air would bring him to his senses."

"Three blocks—the key! But the nerve of it!" Graham exclaimed.

"Tired of riddles," said James crossly. "The answer please."

"Last year, when I went to Elna's to suggest a duck party, Roger used his own key when we went out. He went there now to use the brilliant Ainsworth tactics to make up with Elna."

They had not even reached Elna's apartment before they spotted Ainsworth on the sidewalk. They stopped the car and called out to him.

"Where'd you go? I was just looking for you. How about another drink?" he proposed.

"My uncle left me his car for the night, but it's time we took it back. He's a night owl and if he's up he has the best bourbon you ever drank. Shall we have a try?" Graham suggested.

"It will take a great deal of any kind of bourbon to get me as drunk as I want to be." Roger's voice was grave.

"Here's a start, anyway." Graham drew a bottle from the car pocket as Ainsworth clambered in.

Even in the dark they could see from the tilt of the bottle that he took a large swig. "I'm tired of thinking," he said a moment later. "How about another hit of the bottle—the uncle might be in bed, you know."

The "uncle" however, had turned on the hall light and had the door open, ready for the three roistering youths.

"Hello, Uncle." Graham held out his hand. "May we come in for a nightcap?"

"Certainly." Judge Ashton drew them inside just in time. Ainsworth caught the arm of a chair and lurched into it.

"A little bourbon?" Judge Ashton suggested, rolling in a two-story tea table.

"No, lots of bourbon, straight," Ainsworth said with a drunken leer. He pulled the judge down by his lapel and whispered into his ear: "Listen, they think they did this, but they didn't. There's something I want to say, but I can't say it until I'm drunk enough."

He drank another glass of bourbon, lapsed back in his chair. "I'd hate to have a drink of ginger ale and seltzer most of the night just to get me drunk enough to do what I intend to do anyway. Another bourbon, you think, Judge Ashton?"

Gravely the judge placed the glass before him. It was the first time Ainsworth had called him by name.

"Quick, while it's clear, turn on your gadget. I know you have it. I was a young assistant counsel in the gangster case—remember? I may be drunk—I had to be—but I am telling the truth. Ready?"

Roger leaned forward, his eyes red and bulging. Then he began in a steady, impersonal, almost legal voice, as if he were dictating a document:

"This is the statement of Roger Ainsworth, former husband of Holly Ainsworth. I was present at the death of Mrs. Ainsworth and witnessed her death. . . ." On and on, sparing himself nothing. When he found himself hesitating, he reached automatically for another glass of bourbon.

"This statement is made voluntarily, with full knowledge that it comes too late for any purpose except the full clearing of Miss Jepson's name, action and character. Witnesses to this statement are Judge Ashton, L. M. James, reporter, and Curtis Graham."

Roger's head drooped toward heavy slumber. He could sleep now. Sleep. Maybe stay asleep.

James shouted, "Hey, Miss Hetty! Snap into it. Judge, keep him going—just a minute."

Miss Hetty, Judge Ashton's middle-aged secretary, came in on such a scene as she had never before witnessed in her employer's living room. The judge was shaking Roger back to consciousness. "One thing more," she said persuasively. "You made a statement a few minutes ago—now see if you can sign it—each sheet."

Roger held out the first long sheet of paper, typed on a silent typewriter in the judge's study. The paper rattled in his hand. "No, it all rattles."

Mayor Who Fought Utility Battle Leaves Jail.

MARION, Ind.—(AP)—Clare W. H. Bangs, who served several months in jail on behalf of his cause to sell electric power from a municipally-owned plant, has been freed to resume his duties as mayor of Huntington, Ind.

Circuit Judge O. D. Clawson ruled there had been no malfeasance or misfeasance in Bangs's office as his councilmen had charged in impeachment proceedings, and said he could serve the remainder of his term expiring Dec. 31, 1938.

Judge Clawson warned Bangs against repetition of his antics in defying court orders—an activity which kept him behind bars during more than half the time he held office.

LEGION SPONSORS HIGH SCHOOL ESSAY CONTEST IN COUNTY AGAIN

McVey Post No. 16, American Legion, and the Legion Auxiliary will sponsor an essay contest for high school students in Mansfield and Richland county, again this year, Herman D. Bishop, assistant principal of Senior high school and chairman of the essay contest committee, announced today.

The contest as in past years, is being conducted in high schools throughout the state by the American Legion, and is being sponsored locally by McVey post.

The subject on which contestants will be required to write their essays is, "My Responsibility As a Citizen."

The event will be open to all high school students in Mansfield and Richland county, of the 9th, 10th, and 12th grades, Bishop said.

Prizes for the best essays will be awarded by the American Legion of Ohio, and McVey post. To the 12 best essays in the state, written by six boys and six girls, the Legion will give all expense trips to Washington, D. C.

McVey post will award prizes of $5 for the first, $3 for the second, and $2 for the third best essays in each of the four grade groups. The local contestants will also be able to compete for one of the state prizes.

DENTISTS FROM 15 COUNTIES TO MEET IN CITY

State Leaders to Address All-Day Session Wednesday of Central Ohio Society.

Dentists from 15 counties will assemble in Mansfield Wednesday for an all-day meeting of the Central Ohio Dental society, according to Dr. John H. Bristor, secretary of the group.

Highlights of the sessions, to be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, will be addresses by Dr. A. C. Heibert, Akron, chairman of the special committee of the Ohio State Dental society, and Dr. Hugh W. MacMillan of Cincinnati.

Talks on Security Set-Up.

Dr. Heibert will speak on "Medical and Dental Relief for Dependent Children Under the State-Federal Social Security Set-Up," and Dr. MacMillan's topic will be "Recent Advances in Oral Surgery, Local Anaesthesia and Impression Techniques."

Dr. W. H. Wolford, Mansfield; Dr. I. E. Henry, Cardington, and Dr. O. M. Young, of Marion, are members of the program committee.

The meeting will open at 10 a. m. with a session of the society's executive committee, to be followed by a business session at 10:30. The talks will be in the afternoon.

Members of the Lorain, Stark and Tuscarawas county dental societis have been invited to attend the meeting. The three county groups, with the Central Ohio Dental society, comprise the Sixth district of the Ohio State Dental society.

'PROBLEM' BOYS AIDED ON RANCH

Colorado Rancher Seeks to Restore Youths Threatening To Be Delinquents.

BOULDER, Colo.—(U.P.)—W. H. Mitchell, former psychiatrist at the Kansas state penitentiary, has gone into the business of rehabilitating youths who are on the verge of losing control of themselves at his Sunset ranch here.

His aim is to restore youths to normalcy when they are threatened with losing their grip on contact with others.

He accepts commitments by juvenile judges, but prefers to discover boys who are on the "ragged edge" before they appear in court. This contact is made through parents who realize that their sons are taking steps which are leading them toward trouble and beyond the barriers accepted by society.

Mitchell operates through consistent discipline in helping the boys solve problems with which they are confronted. The "split" discipline exercised by a doting mother and a stern father or the reverse is of no help to the maladjusted youth, Mitchell believes.

The Sunset ranch youths who become adjusted to school life are enrolled in Boulder high school, while those faced with maladjustment in their school work are tutored at the ranch.

Each boy has two horses for which he must care. He makes his own bed. Each has certain obligations to meet.

PEG LEG INTO REVERSE

DALLAS —(U.P.)— D. E. Hedgecock, of Dallas, was taken to an emergency hospital after his car hit a telephone pole, and Dr. Gus Schrieberg was startled to see his leg turned around, the toes facing backward. But Hedgecock wasn't worried, it was his wooden leg.

WINS PRIZE IN SAFETY CONTEST

Western Union Messenger Here Receives District Award.

The Mansfield office of the Western Union won one of the nine prizes awarded in a safety contest conducted by the company for messengers during the third quarter of the year, R. G. Clarke, Mansfield manager, announced today.

Paul Wade, a messenger, attached to the Mansfield office, received the prize, $5 in cash. During the period, Clarke said, none of the Mansfield messengers was involved in a traffic accident.

Rules of the contest require that messengers on bicycles observe all traffic rules and signals and that their bicycles be lighted at night. On short trips through downtown districts, where traffic is congested, they are required to walk instead of ride, eliminating a traffic hazard. The eighth district, of which the Mansfield office is a part, includes northern and eastern Ohio.

STEEL COMPANY REAFFIRMS TIN PLATE PRICES

Announcement Is Factor Considered by Holders In Mixed Mart.

Among other factors considered by holders of steel shares was the action of the Carnegie-Illinois Corp. principal subsidiary of U. S. Steel, in re-affirming current tin plate prices to the end of the third quarter next year.

In line with the move for peace between the administration and business, the financial district read with interest the address of Chairman Jesse Jones of the Reconstruction Finance Corp., in which he advocated more co-operation as a step toward ending the present trade slump.

Richland Grads Name Officers At Ohio State Day Dinner.

Dr. Harry L. Knox was elected president of the Richland County Alumni association of Ohio State university at the annual dinner meeting of the group last night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Dr. Knox succeeds Herbert R. Slough.

Other officers elected were James Miller of Shelby, vice president; Miss Hester Robinson, Mansfield, secretary, and Dr Stanley Taylor, Mansfield, treasurer.

The meeting last night was one of similar gatherings held throughout the country in observance of Ohio State day, celebrated yesterday. About 46 alumni of the university attended the meeting.

Dr. Edison L. Bowers, associate professor of economics at the university was the principal speaker.

ATTEND OHIO BAR MEETING

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston and three Mansfield attorneys were in Delaware today to attend a regional meeting of the Ohio Bar association. With Judge Huston in the delegation from Mansfield were Attys. L. H. Beam, William M. Weldon and Edwin Mansfield.

Hold-up Victims

L. B. HAMILTON

JAMES BAILEY

James Bailey and L. B. Hamilton, shown above, are two of the Franklin Finance company who were among the eight persons lined against the wall by two bandits who held up the firm at noon today.

A description of the car was given by Mrs. Hamilton. She said that it was a dark sedan and apparently had New York license plates and that the licenses were dark orange.

"I only caught a fleeing glimpse of it," she explained.

Hamilton, who dashed out of the office as the robbers left, said he saw the car turn north at Mulberry and Third streets.

Detectives Harry Copper and E. C. Fuller, said from descriptions given them of the pair, they apparently were the same men who held up the two Atlantic and Pacific Grocery stores on Thanksgiving eve.

Both were "fairly well dressed," employes said. One of them wore glasses.

The gunmen entered the office a half hour before closing time, which is noon on Saturdays.

State highway patrolmen were notified to block all highways throughout northeastern Ohio. Police at Shelby, Upper Sandusky, Bucyrus, Crestline, Fremont, Fostoria and Tiffin also were notified.

Highway patrol headquarters at Massillon reported that records showed the same pair were being sought for similar hold-ups in the Fostoria area and in Akron.

Passing shoppers were not aware what had transpired at the company until police cruisers arrived. A crowd quickly gathered outside.

"When he came into my office and I looked at the gun I saw it was loaded," Hamilton said. "I could see the shells in the cylinder, and I knew that he meant business."

Detective Copper said the pair's descriptions checked with those given by employes of the A. & P. stores on Springmill street and Park avenue west which were robbed Thanksgiving eve.

They obtained $100 at the Park avenue store after looting two cash registers, and $41 and 25 cartons of cigarets at the Springmill store.

Hold-ups in Fremont and Fostoria last Saturday also were believed to be the work of the same pair. Their tactics in these grocery robberies were similar to those executed here.

they finish their sentences, but we do believe that the program is a progressive one and a step in the right direction.

"It will give the inmate a chance to earn his own living. He will have spending money, the lack of which frequently leads them to one of the hundreds of cells in our institution. If successful in obtaining a job, he won't be lounging in idleness, often the cause of crime itself."

Patterned after vocational schools, now a major function of public education, the reformatory plan calls for certain hours of classroom instruction and certain hours of work in the shops.

The system was inaugurated with the assistance of Fred Dannefelser, principal of a vocational high school in Toledo. He spent three months at the reformatory in installing the trades courses.

Under the program, inmates are given up to 18 months of intensive training, along the subjects they select. Promotions are made every three months.

Text books used in the courses are compiled and written by institution instructors. The contents are taken from various recognized texts and consolidated into volumes printed in the prison printery.

This procedure not only has resulted in a saving of institution funds but provides the inmate with a text containing only the essentials for the apprentice course, the superintendent pointed out. Briefness of the courses will not permit study of voluminous texts.

'Hardened' by Farm Work.

Glattke explained that after an inmate completes his class and shop course, he is given three months of farm duty to "harden him up."

"After his course is completed, work on the farm or in the dairy is assigned the inmate so that he will acquire the necessary muscular development and get accustomed to outside elements," the superintendent said.

"There are a very few inmates who leave with a prison pallor due to the outside life permitted during the final months of his sentence," he added.

They are sent to the Osborne state farm at Huron, the Soldiers' and Sailors' home at Sandusky, the state farm at Grafton and to farms located on institution grounds here

Glattke asserted the fact that 65 per cent of prison's population is sent from seven industrial counties was a factor considered when the trade school program was first planned. Cuyahoga, Hancock, Franklin, Montgomery, Stark Summit and Lucas counties send the most inmates, he said

Trades offered under the program include: tailoring, automobile mechanics, barbering, building construction, agriculture, plumbing, stationary engineering, drafting, business administration, culinary arts, laundry, machine shop, shoe making, furniture construction, sheet metal, and electricity.

HANDLING OF FAIR HIT AS BOARD MEETS

HALE ANSWERS CRITICS

'Fireworks' Looms For Annual Election of Fair Board Officers This Month.

Rumblings of dissatisfaction with the way the Richland County fair has been handled in the last few years broke out Saturday afternoon when the Richland County Agricultural society met at the courthouse to elect seven directors.

Several members of the society, which sponsors the fair, labeled the recent expositions as "the laughing stock of the community," and indicated that "fireworks" might develop at the annual election of fair board officers late in December.

Cite Financial Problem.

At least a half dozen members of the agricultural society, including H. K. Lanehart and W. A. Pfeifer, both of Washington township, and C. C. Hammett, who was defeated for re-election to the board of directors from Jackson township, joined in the criticism and predicted the end of the fair "unless something is done about finances."

The county commissioners were credited with keeping the fair in operation since it has shown financial losses for the last few years.

R. D. Hale, president of the fair board, rapped critics who "have knocked the fair for years without doing anything to help it."

Promises Financial Report.

Hale promised a complete financial report at the organization [illegible] Pfeifer charged the board had neglected to publish a financial report last year.

"Despite complaints from members of the society, the Richland County Fair board has never been criticized by the state examining board for an infraction of the laws in conducting its business," Hale said.

Walter W. Shafer of near Lexington, secretary of the fair board, answering Pfeifer, also denied that the board had failed to publish its 1936 financial report.

Postponement of Saturday's meeting was threatened for a while when Pfeifer charged that notice of the election was not given three weeks before the date as required by law.

He accused fair board officers of disregarding regulations in conducting elections and said he received his notice only two days

Fugitive Spends Honeymoon Alone In Cell At O. S. R.

Less than 24 hours after his marriage in Canton, a Mansfield reformatory inmate who escaped from the Sandusky honor camp more than eight months ago was back behind the walls of the institution. He was returned by reformatory guards yesterday.

The fugitive, Clifford Thompson, 28, and his Canton fiancee were married by Mayor James Seccombe shortly before he was released to reformatory authorities. The ceremony was performed in the mayor's office, with two city detectives as witnesses.

Thompson was received at the reformatory Nov. 14, 1932, from Miami county on a charge of breaking and entering, and is under sentence from one to 15 years. He escaped from the honor camp on April 3.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said Thompson was apprehended by Canton authorities in connection with the theft of an automobile. Additional time would be added to Thompson's sentence as penalty for his escape, the superintendent added.

Davey Hikes Pensions by 10 Per Cent

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Gov. Martin L. Davey today announced a state-wide increase of ten per cent, effective with the December payment, in disbursements to Ohio's 104,608 old age pension recipients.

The chief executive said the order was designed to "take care of increased costs of living."

Increases will average $2.12 monthly a person and will bring total payments to $2,219,390 a month in the state. Pensions average $21.22 a month per persons.

The increase order was announced through Henry Berrodin, director of the state division of aid for the aged.

Checks providing for the increases are to be delivered to pensioners before Christmas, Berrodin said.

AIDS 1,300 HERE

The 10 per cent increase in old age pensions ordered today by Gov. Martin L. Davey will affect 1,300 pensioners in Richland county who will receive approximately $2,750 more this month than in November, according to M. W. Conley, manager of the county aid for the aged office.

Conley said pensioners here have been receiving their checks on schedule, usually during the last week of each month. He expected December checks to be here in time for Christmas, he said.

December checks for Richland county will total $22,830 with average payments amounting to $20.46.

Producer-Distributor Group to File Protest Tonight With Health Board.

The Richland County Raw Milk Producer-Distributor association today took definite action to oppose a measure now before the Mansfield Board of Health that calls for the complete pasteurization of the city's milk supply.

While Dr. Roy C. Rehder, public health commissioner, is expected to call for the second reading of the ordinance at tonight's meeting of the board, the producers and distributors drafted a protest that will be presented to the board.

Neil S. Robinson, president of the organization, said the resolution backed by the 20 distributors of raw milk in the city, incorporated 12 definite reasons why the Government Scores Victory In Aluminum Anti-Trust Suit.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The government won in the supreme court today in its effort to continue with anti-trust proceedings in the southern New York federal district court seeking dissolution of the Aluminum Company of America.

A decision by a three-judge circuit court at Philadelphia permitting the department of justice to go ahead with the litigation was affirmed in an opinion delivered by Justice McRaynolds. Chief Justice Hughes and Justice Stone did not participate.

The Aluminum company contended the litigation, if any were needed, should have been brought before the federal district court at Pittsburgh where a consent decree against the concern was entered in 1912.

They'll Sing Sweetly In Christmas Show

Three reasons why everyone should buy tickets early for the annual Christmas charity show, are the Three Grace Notes, who will surprise the home town folks with their ability. It hasn't been so long since they were school girls, singing in the school glee clubs, and now they are training for professional work under the tutelage of Fred Wilson, music director of WTAM, Cleveland, and a former Mansfield boy. The trio goes to Cleveland once each week for training. They are all employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, and are heard frequently in the company's shows. They will be featured in the Passing Parade of 1937, which the Three Muster-Cheers will present Saturday, Dec. 18 at the Ohio theater for the Community Christmas Fund. Left to right the Three Grace Notes are Jane Weuthrich, Dorothy Clingan and Ruth Cox.

What was the funniest thing that happened in 1936-37? What "faux pas" gave the town the biggest giggle?

You can't remember off hand? Then come to the midnight charity show at the Ohio theater Dec. 18, and you'll see them all in hilarious array on Mansfield own's "March of Time."

In it you'll see public figures—the people who make Page One news—and they'll see themselves "as if through a looking glass." But it will be the kind of looking glass that reveals the humor of their actions and reactions.

Who Are They?

Do you know, for instance, who are Mansfield's "nine old men"? Do you know who are "the ladies' choice"? You'll find out from the March of Time.

BAD DRIVING

Snowfall Brings Danger to Motorists; Mercury Dives.

The "worst driving conditions in two years" prevailed in Mansfield and throughout Ohio today, as the result of a heavy snowfall, which was accompanied by a drop in temperatures over the weekend.

Col. Lynn Black, head of the state highway patrol, was authority regarding the condition of the road, and Mansfield drivers were inclined to agree with him. Black advised extreme caution in driving.

The snowfall in Mansfield measured 1.7 inches according to Observer Otto Sprunger. General throughout the state, it measured as much as two inches in other places.

The mercury dropped to 15 in Mansfield last night, and at noon stood at 20. The forecast said it would be colder tonight, but the temperatures would rise slowly Tuesday.

Establishment of Atlantic Air Routes Seen as Likely Purpose of Voyage.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J.—(UP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were back in their native land today after an absence of nearly two years.

The purpose of their visit—it was presumed to be a visit because they had left their children in England—and its length were known only to themselves and they were not telling.

Even their whereabouts had been left a matter for speculation by Lindbergh's strict secrecy, but there was a great deal of evidence to indicate that they were at the closely-guarded estate of Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow. This was denied, however, by Mrs. Morrow's secretary.

Passengers Surprised.

The Lindberghs returned to the United States on the liner President Harding. Only a vice president of the United States lines knew when they engaged passage, the captain of the vessel did not [illegible] until a few minutes before he sailed, and fellow passengers did not know it until the ship was well at sea. To guard against any passenger sending the news ahead, Col. Lindbergh asked that the ship refuse any radio message in which his name was mentioned. No such message was offered, so the captain was spared the necessity of ruling on the question.

Hence the few casual spectators to their clandestine landing yesterday—via the President Harding's third class gang plank—were astounded. A small sedan licensed to an employe of the Morrow estate was awaiting for them. It was seen crossing the George Washington bridge to New Jersey. The bridge is a few miles above the Morrow estate. Later a Morrow station wagon called at the pier for their luggage.

Sailed In 1935.

Lindbergh, his wife, and their infant son, Jon—their second son, Land, was born in England—sailed secretly for England just before Christmas in 1935 soon after Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey had expressed doubt that Bruno Richard Hauptmann had been the only person involved in the kidnap-murder of their first

BANDITS ELUDE POLICE BARRIER

Gunmen Who Held Up Finance Company Vanish Despite State-Wide Hunt.

State highway patrolmen and police in half a dozen northern Ohio cities continued their search today for a pair of bold bandits who have staged at least 12 holdups within the last two weeks—and who escaped Saturday through a police barrier set up within a 50-mile radius of Mansfield after robbing the Franklin Finance company of $150.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates hurriedly left at noon today on a mysterious trip that he said was a clue on the gunmen who seemed to vanish into thin air after they sped north on route 39 Saturday noon.

Bates declined to reveal what the clue was or where he might be going.

He said he had been informed that two men, possibly the same who were in Mansfield Saturday, had held up a loan company in Akron and escaped with $50 several hours after the Franklin Finance firm was robbed.

Bates was of the opinion, he said that the hold-ups are the work of an organized gang operating out of one of the larger cities in the northern part of the state and that they make their trips into the smaller towns, "pull a job" and then go back into hiding.

WIFE PROTESTS

Mate's Room Cluttered Up With Love Letters, She Testifies.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—It was too much, Mrs. Simon Bryan testified today, when she found her husband's mail was crammed with letters from a matrimonial bureau.

Too, her husband's dresser was covered with photographs of prospective brides listed by the bureau. Mrs. Bryan, 64, got a divorce.

ARSON TRIAL SET

NEW LEXINGTON — (AP) — Robert E. Thompson, volunteer fireman under indictment for arson, pleaded innocent by reason of insanity at a hearing before Judge U. S. McGonagle today, and his trial was set for next Monday.

Back In America

Shown above are Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife, the former Anne Morrow, who are back in the United States, presumably for a visit with Mrs. Lindbergh's mother. The Lindberghs left nearly two years [illegible] maintained his customary secrecy regarding his plans. They arrived yesterday aboard an ocean liner on which they had booked passage as "Mr. and Mrs. Gregory."

JAPS APPROACH NANKING WALLS

Nipponese Officer Says Troops Will Launch Attack on Capital Tomorrow.

BULLETIN

NANKING—(U.P.) — Seventeen Japanese bombing planes dropped tons of explosive on the Nanking waterfront today not far from where the American gunboat Panay waited with steam up to remove Americans from the capital.

SHANGHAI—(AP)—A vanguard of Japanese troops approached today within sight of the ancient walls of Nanking, China's evacuated capital.

A Japanese army spokesman announced the advance tonight. He declared there probably would be fighting within the city tomorrow.

The force, he said, carried Japan's rising sun banner to within three miles of Nanking. He said the united was advancing from Tanyang, on the Grand canal about 45 miles east of Nanking.

He announced also that Japanese had advanced toward Wuhu, Yangtze river port about 60 miles south-southwest of Nanking, and toward Chinkiang, where the Grand canal and Yang-

PAPER PRICE UP

Cincinnati Newspapers Announce Increase In Prices.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—All Cincinnati daily newspapers were sold at three cents today. The Cincinnati Times-Star and the Cincinnati Post announced increases from two to three cents while the Cincinnati Enquirer, which previously sold at that price, advanced its home delivery price for daily and Sunday from 22 to 28 cents.

LIGHTS WORKING

Four new traffic lights today regulated traffic at the hazardous intersection of routes 30 and 42 at the subway on Park avenue east.

Installition of the new type flasher signals was completed Saturday by City Electrician Ernest Adams and they were immediately placed in operation.

The new signals, purchased by the city at a cost of $600, are of the two-bulb type that change without the amber light. Before a chance, the red light flashes several times as a warning.

Two lights installed at either end of the subway are designed to control east-bound traffic on both routes. One light, on a seven-foot steel pole will direct west-bound traffic on route 42, while the fourth, hung from a utility pole at the east end of the subway, will control west-bound traffic on route 30.

Loudonville Youth Escapes Death as Auto Is Struck By 2 Passenger Trains.

Death of Middletown Couple and Injured Driver Sends Ashland's Toll to 27.

Death rode into Ohio with a snowstorm over the week-end, when at least 21 persons, including three in Ashland county, died in traffic accidents on snow and ice-coated streets and roads, a survey showed today. The accident toll was the greatest since Labor day.

Despite numerous collisions as a result of the slippery driving, only two persons were reported injured in Richland county, neither seriously. Two 19-year-old youths escaped death in freak accidents in the Richland county area.

Has Miraculous Escape.

Near Perrysville, John T. Kaffman, 19, of Loudonville, miraculously escaped with minor injuries when the car he was driving was struck by two fast Pennsylvania passenger trains going in opposite directions.

Kaffman's car was struck by a westbound Chicago train about 3:20 a. m. today when he drove onto the tracks at the Guthrie crossing north of Perrysville. The machine was knocked into the path of an eastbound train from Detroit that passed a few seconds later. The youth was thrown clear of the wreckage and suffered only scratches and bruises. The car was demolished, and both trains stopped while the [illegible]

Bruised As Car Overturns.

Guy Benneman, 19, of Nashville, Holmes county, escaped with bruises when his car skidded 40 feet on the ice and landed on its top in a creek. The youth crawled out through a door after the car hit a rock in the water. The accident occurred near Loudonville.

Ashland county's traffic toll for the year climbed to 27 when a Middletown couple died in a crash on route 42 near West Salem Sunday afternoon and Arthur H. Coleman, 45, of Ashland, succumbed to injuries suffered in an accident Friday night.

Killed in the accident near West Salem were James M. Steiner, 27, and his wife, Winifred, 24, of Middletown. Their car skidded on the snow and crashed into

GRANTED 'STAY'

Night Clubs Given 30 Days to Comply With Curfew.

Night club owners and liquor permit holders today were granted "30 days of grace" in which to comply with the 1 a. m. curfew order issued by Police Chief Meade K. Bates last Friday.

In issuing the extension, Chief Bates said he had been obliged to use the "no discrimination" policy because it would not be fair to close one place at 1 a. m. and allow another to stay open because they had a band and floor show under contract.

He said he wanted to co-operate with all establishments and for that reason was extending the period for 30 days until they all had time to adjust their contracts.

"After that the lid goes on and stays on," the chief said.

He said he understood council would be asked to amend the closing ordinance, but until a change is made, the 1 a. m. closing ban will go into effect shortly after the first of the year.

SENT TO PRISON

Vice Racketeer Sentenced After Second Conviction.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Nick Montana, vice racketeer, who was granted a new trial after starting to serve a 25-year term in Sing Sing, was sentenced to the penitentiary today to serve not more than three years.

Judge Charles C. Nott, jr., gave him an indefinite term on his plea of guilty to a misdemeanor—living on the proceeds of prostitution.

MRS. HAHN SEES HUSBAND

COLUMBUS—(AP)— Mrs. Alma Marie Hahn was visited here yesterday by her husband, son and attorney in the Ohio penitentiary cell where she awaits electrocution March 10 for the murder of Jacob Wagner, a fellow Cincinnati resident.

Tickets For News-Journal Grid Banquet On Sale Today

Tickets go on sale today for the annual "Victory banquet," staged by The News-Journal in honor of the Mansfield high football team.

The banquet, you'll recall, will be on Dec. 15 at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, with W. F. (Pete) Henry, Mansfield's most famous gridder, an all-time All-American selection, as the principal speaker. Henry is athletic director at Washington and Jefferson college.

The tickets, costing $1.55 (tax included), go on sale at The News-Journal office, at the senior high school office, at Bates on West Fourth street and at Tawse pharmacy in the Mansfield-Leland building.

Just 250 of them have been printed — and when these are gone, there won't be any more. That's as many as can be accommodated for the dinner.

There'll be a lot of other interesting things on the program beside Henry's talk. We can't tell you right now what they are, but they'll be announced in plenty of time. One attraction will be football motion pictures—we'll tell you that much. And they'll be dandies.

So get your tickets, if you want to have a really big evening, and give Mansfield High's Tygers the hand they so richly deserve.

Meet Karen Mallare In Our New Serial Story Wednesday

Wednesday The News-Journal is going to introduce you to Karen Mallare. And we're sure you're going to like her.

Karen is a small town girl, with a longing to be an actress, who goes to New York. All right, we'll agree with you that lots of girls who want to be actresses go to New York—there's nothing new in that.

But this time there is something new about it.

Karen, you see, is the "leading lady" in The News-Journal's new serial story, "Remember That Night," written by Margaret Gorman Nichols, who has long been a favorite serial story author with readers of The News-Journal.

Something unusual happens to Karen on her second day in New York. She meets Philip Ashley, a successful playwright. And from there on, the story really moves. So fast, in fact, that it'll leave you breathless—breathless, that is, for the next installment.

The story will start Wednesday. We know you'll like it.

THE STATE vs. ELNA JEPSON

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

(Copyright 1937)

CHAPTER XXXI

"But you must see there was nothing I could do. If I had tried, there would have been a most awful mess. You must try to understand my position. It got worse and worse—"

"It did," Elna answered calmly.

"But it came out all right, my brilliant child. After six months waiting for appearance' sake we can get married."

Slowly Elna said, "I watched you when you testified against me and when you left the courtroom as soon as you saw that I would go to any lengths to protect you."

She was standing erect, her elbow on the mantel. The stab of memory was gone. She submitted quietly when he dragged her to the chair and laid his head on her lap.

"Elna—Elna—it can't be that you don't love me. I counted on you so, and now you are free!"

Her hand dropped on his bowed head, but her fingers had no feeling. "Roger," she said, "I will try to tell the truth as strictly as I can. I did love you, trust you, until you showed me, bit by bit, that I was mistaken. Your one thought was to remove all traces of your presence from this room when Holly died. I promised, and I kept that promise. I kept it, not so much because it was to you, but because I was taught to keep promises. I made a mess of it, of course, but you were responsible for leaving me to carry out your plan. Then you, of all people, testified against me, sure that you could trust me to lie for you."

"But don't you see it was necessity. . . .?" Roger lifted a ravaged face.

"Certainly I see that it was necessary—for you."

"But I thought you would love me—would wait—"

"If that transcript had ever gone to the supreme court, on appeal, an old man would have lost the reputation that has been dearest to him for many years—it was riddled with errors because that old man rose above law to justice and believed, because it was true, that I was innocent. If an old woman I had never seen had not rescued me, that first night in jail, I honestly believe I would have been in the psychopathic ward by morning. If a friend had not come to me one noon recess I should have pleaded guilty as an escape from more horror."

"But"—Roger rose to his feet, his hands clenched—"it can't be like this! I've been counting so—"

Elna held out her hand. "There is nothing left between us. But come," she smiled, "let us not part in anger." She poured another cup of coffee and saw Roger's fingers tremble as he took it. Suddenly he set down his cup. "But what shall I do—what shall I ever do without you?"

"I will tell you what will happen to both of us. I shall remember you always as the man I once admired, worshipped, if you like. I would not be like that with you. You will remember for a while that you betrayed a friend for your own sake and got away with it. Then you will begin to be proud of getting away with it. Then, shortly, you will find a way to make the woman to blame. And all the while you will keep on studying law until you are the terror of judges who would like to disbar you but know they can't. You will be a shell of greatness then, with only a little core of reality, of betrayal long forgotten inside."

"That is what you think of me—deeply?"

"I am sorry, but that is what I think—most deeply." Elna could hardly lift her voice to be heard. "All the rest was faith and illusion."

"Then you are wrong!" he shouted. The door slammed.

The quest of Judge Ashton's car, after he had been left at home, was wild and fruitless. It whirled around corners to back alleys, where James insisted that Graham take a "look—see" and ask questions of bartenders in obscure saloons. Finally James stopped the car with a jolt.

"Look here, it's time to quit running around in circles and do some heavy thinking. We both know Roger's been drinking a lot around the courthouse. Tonight it took three stiff jolts to steady his fingers. I gave him a couple more and he began to loosen up. Then he suddenly said, 'Excuse me, just a minute' and was gone."

"Looks as if he felt his tongue was loosening and ran away for fear we'd drink him into telling something. I'd swear that three blocks of walking in this brisk air would bring him to his senses."

"Three blocks—the key! But the nerve of it!" Graham exclaimed.

"Tired of riddles," said James crossly. "The answer please."

"Last year, when I went to Elna's to suggest a duck party, Roger used his own key when we went out. He went there now to use the brilliant Ainsworth tactics to make up with Elna."

They had not even reached Elna's apartment before they spotted Ainsworth on the sidewalk. They stopped the car and called out to him.

"Where'd you go? I was just looking for you. How about another drink?" he proposed.

"My uncle left me his car for the night, but it's time we took it back. He's a night owl and if he's up he has the best bourbon you ever drank. Shall we have a try?" Graham suggested.

"It will take a great deal of any kind of bourbon to get me as drunk as I want to be." Roger's voice was grave.

"Here's a start, anyway." Graham drew a bottle from the car pocket as Ainsworth clambered in.

Even in the dark they could see from the tilt of the bottle that he took a large swig. "I'm tired of thinking," he said a moment later. "How about another bit of the bottle—the uncle might be in bed, you know."

The "uncle" however, had turned on the hall light and had the door open, ready for the three roistering youths.

"Hello, Uncle." Graham held out his hand. "May we come in for a nightcap?"

"Certainly." Judge Ashton drew them inside just in time. Ainsworth caught the arm of a chair and lurched into it.

"A little bourbon?" Judge Ashton suggested, rolling in a two-story tea table.

"No, lots of bourbon, straight," Ainsworth said with a drunken leer. He pulled the judge down by his lapel and whispered into his ear: "Listen, they think they did this, but they didn't. There's something I want to say, but I can't say it until I'm drunk enough."

He drank another glass of bourbon, lapsed back in his chair. "I'd hate to have a drink of ginger ale and seltzer most of the night just to get me drunk enough to do what I intend to do anyway. Another bourbon, you think, Judge Ashton?"

Gravely the judge placed the glass before him. It was the first time Ainsworth had called him by name.

"Quick, while it's clear, turn on your gadget. I know you have it. I was a young assistant counsel in the gangster case—remember? I may be drunk—I had to be—but I am telling the truth. Ready?"

Roger leaned forward, his eyes red and bulging. Then he began in a steady, impersonal, almost legal voice, as if he were dictating a document:

"This is the statement of Roger Ainsworth, former husband of Holly Ainsworth. I was present at the death of Mrs. Ainsworth and witnessed her death. . . ." On and on, sparing himself nothing. When he found himself hesitating, he reached automatically for another glass of bourbon.

"This statement is made voluntarily, with full knowledge that it comes too late for any purpose except the full clearing of Miss Jepson's name, action and character. Witnesses to this statement are Judge Ashton, L. M. James, reporter, and Curtis Graham."

Roger's head drooped toward heavy slumber. He could sleep now. Sleep. Maybe stay asleep.

Miss Hetty, Judge Ashton's middle-aged secretary, came in on such a scene as she had never before witnessed in her employer's living room. The judge was shaking Roger back to consciousness. "One thing more," she said persuasively. "You made a statement a few minutes ago—now see if you can sign it—each sheet."

Roger held out the first long sheet of paper, typed on a silent typewriter in the judge's study. The paper rattled in his hand. "No, it all rattles."

Mayor Who Fought Utility Battle Leaves Jail.

MARION, Ind.—(AP)—Clare W. H. Bangs, who served several months in jail on behalf of his cause to sell electric power from a municipally-owned plant, has been freed to resume his duties as mayor of Huntington, Ind.

Circuit Judge O. D. Clawson ruled there had been no malfeasance or misfeasance in Bangs's office as his councilmen had charged in impeachment proceedings, and said he could serve the remainder of his term expiring Dec. 31, 1938.

Judge Clawson warned Bangs against repetition of his antics in defying court orders—an activity which kept him behind bars during more than half the time he held office.

LEGION SPONSORS HIGH SCHOOL ESSAY CONTEST IN COUNTY AGAIN

McVey Post No. 16, American Legion, and the Legion Auxiliary will sponsor an essay contest for high school students in Mansfield and Richland county, again this year, Herman D. Bishop, assistant principal of Senior high school and chairman of the essay contest committee, announced today.

The contest as in past years, is being conducted in high schools throughout the state by the American Legion, and is being sponsored locally by McVey post.

The subject on which contestants will be required to write their essays is, "My Responsibility As a Citizen."

The event will be open to all high school students in Mansfield and Richland county, of the 9th, 10th, and 12th grades, Bishop said.

Prizes for the best essays will be awarded by the American Legion of Ohio, and McVey post. To the 12 best essays in the state, written by six boys and six girls, the Legion will give all expense trips to Washington, D. C.

McVey post will award prizes of $5 for the first, $3 for the second, and $2 for the third best essays in each of the four grade groups. The local contestants will also be able to compete for one of the state prizes.

'PROBLEM' BOYS AIDED ON RANCH

Colorado Rancher Seeks to Restore Youths Threatening To Be Delinquents.

BOULDER, Colo.—(U.P.)—W. H. Mitchell, former psychiatrist at the Kansas state penitentiary, has gone into the business of rehabilitating youths who are on the verge of losing control of themselves at his Sunset ranch here.

His aim is to restore youths to normalcy when they are threatened with losing their grip on contact with others.

He accepts commitments by juvenile judges, but prefers to discover boys who are on the "ragged edge" before they appear in court. This contact is made through parents who realize that their sons are taking steps which are leading them toward trouble and beyond the barriers accepted by society.

Mitchell operates through consistent discipline in helping the boys solve problems with which they are confronted. The "split" discipline exercised by a doting mother and a stern father or the reverse is of no help to the maladjusted youth, Mitchell believes.

The Sunset ranch youths who become adjusted to school life are enrolled in Boulder high school, while those faced with maladjustment in their school work are tutored at the ranch.

Each boy has two horses for which he must care. He makes his own bed. Each has certain obligations to meet.

Western Union Messenger Here Receives District Award.

The Mansfield office of the Western Union won one of the nine prizes awarded in a safety contest conducted by the company for messengers during the third quarter of the year, R. G. Clarke, Mansfield manager, announced today.

Paul Wade, a messenger, attached to the Mansfield office, received the prize, $5 in cash. During the period, Clarke said, none of the Mansfield messengers was involved in a traffic accident.

Rules of the contest require that messengers on bicycles observe all traffic rules and signals, and that their bicycles be lighted at night. On short trips through downtown districts, where traffic is congested, they are required to walk instead of ride, eliminating a traffic hazard. The eighth district, of which the Mansfield office is a part, includes northern and eastern Ohio.

'ALL HARMONY,' ROOSEVELT TO BE TOLD BY AIDS

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Although President Roosevelt will discover on his return from Florida tonight that his legislative program has made little progress, congressional chieftains will report to him that several widely rumored revolts have not materialized.

When congress assembled three weeks ago, there was much speculation over the possibility that it would sidetrack the president's recommendations and substitute a business aid program of its own.

Instead, the two houses have devoted themselves exclusively to administration proposals, except for a week of debate in the senate on the anti-lynching bill, which had a preferred legislative status.

Many observers had commented that Mr. Roosevelt, in calling the special session, was inviting congressional back-fires on his nomination of Supreme Court Justice Black and on his foreign policies, particularly his failure to invoke the neutrality act in the Sino-Japanese conflict.

Kept In Background.

While there has been cloakroom discussion of both subjects, neither has been more than barely mentioned in the debates. Congress has not shown officially that it knew of Black's statement he once belonged to the Ku Klux Klan.

The most serious threat to the president's program early in the session was the campaign to force immediate corporate tax revision. Leaders were ready to report to Mr. Roosevelt that although some senators still wanted to try for prompt action, most legislators accepted the administration's decision to wait until the 1938 session.

There has been plenty of controversy over the president's own recommendations. The farm bill has run up against strong senate opposition, and may not be ready for the president's signature before January. Most other Roosevelt recommendations will not be reached at the special session.

Although house leaders succeeded in breaking the deadlock which had held the wage-hour bill in the rules committee since summer, the measure will face strong opposition during house debate next week.

TAKE OFFICE

Heads of Sons of Union Vets To Be Installed Tonight.

New officers will be installed at 7:30 p. m. today by McLaughlin camp No. 12, Sons of Union Veterans, at ceremonies at Memorial hall.

George L. Pfeiffer, former Mansfielder and now commander of the Wooster camp of the Sons of Union Veterans, will be the installing officer.

Both elective and appointive officers will be installed tonight, including the following who were chosen at the annual election two weeks ago:

DENIES CHARGE FILED BY GIRL

Youth, Returned From Arkansas, Bound Over to Grand Jury.

Sam Wilson, 18, of Macon, Ga., was held to the county grand jury under $2,500 bond today after he pleaded innocent in municipal court this morning to statutory charges filed by an 18-year-old Mansfield girl.

Wilson was returned to Mansfield Sunday from Ft. Smith, Ark., by Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman to face the charges. The offense allegedly was committed Sept. 10. The girl's accusations were supported by an examining physician who testified in court this morning.

OX TEAM TAKEN ABOARD TRUCK

Ohio 'Pioneers' Continue Pilgrimage; Animals Tire on Way.

SUDBURY, Mass. — (U.P.) — Displaying the fortitude of their 1787 predecessors, New England's modern Ohio company today set out on the fourth-day leg of their scheduled pilgrimage to Marietta, O., and the northwest territory, but their oxen, unable to keep pace, were carried the 25 miles by truck.

Swinging along over broad highways that once were Indian trails, the 37-man caravan covered 17 miles in 12 hours yesterday and last night lodged in historic Wayside Inn and surrounding farm houses as guests of Henry Ford, the owner.

Little more than half the distance had been covered when the oxen drawing a covered wagon proved they might be more hindrance than help. So a truck carried the animals.

COUNCIL NEAR 'LAST ROUND-UP'

Tuesday's Meeting to Be Last Regular One for Present Body; It'll Be Short.

City council, meeting in its last regular session of the year, is expected to wind up its business in jig time tomorrow night.

Although members have the water development program before them and Mayor Earl A. McFarland has said that the report will be presented at tomorrow's meeting it is not believed likely that much time would be devoted to the problem. The report of the state board of health has not been made and the complexion of council will change Jan. 1.

A report from the special committee, headed by Councilman Fred Miller, on the extension of civil service for city employees is also expected tomorrow. At the last regular meeting of council Miller promised a report on the committee's findings regarding the feasibility of extending civil service to cover all appointive positions.

Miller said today that the committee had met with City Solicitor Herbert Schettler and gone over the ordinance prepared by Trades council, and presented several weeks ago, and that he was prepared to report in full tomorrow night.

Although the present council ends its regime this month, there will be only two new faces when the new council takes up its duties. The new councilmen are Arthur L. Croak, representing the sixth ward, and Harry L. Emmons,, councilman at large. Councilmen Russell D. Porch, First; C. N. Shultz, Second George C. Kyle, Third; Lester D. Hunter, Fourth, and Fred Miller, Fifth were re-elected. So was James Crum, member at large. Berg, now representing the Sixth ward becomes councilman at large and Karl P. Troll, now councilman at large, becomes council president. Councilman Philip Smith, at large, who unsuccessfully sought the Democratic mayoralty nomination in August, will leave the council.

INDOOR FAIR

Four-Day Event Opens Tuesday at Mayflower Church.

The annual indoor fair at the Mayflower Congregational church will open a four-night stand Tuesday under the sponsorship of the Christian Endeavor society.

Each night a variety program including music and motion pictures will be presented. Displays will be shown by various merchants. Other displays will include Christmas gifts, antiques, fancy work, quilts and novelties.

The fair will open each day at 6:30 p. m.

LAW CATCHES UP WITH 100 WHO VIOLATED TOWN'S 'BLUE LAWS'

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. — (AP) — The "sins" of the forefathers today weighed heavily upon the shoulders of Windham county residents.

A blue Monday found at least 100 persons caught in the toils of a law laid down by Vermont's early settlers to ward off the "skulking Redskins" and the "devil."

Investigators yesterday scribbled down their names as they went about the grim task of enforcing a blue law banning on the Sabbath day "any secular business or employment except works of charity."

More might have joined those against whom State's Attorney Ernest F. Berry said he would seek warrants today in the "blue law crime wave." But weary police suffered an attack of writer's cramp as the day wore on.

Here's how enforcement of the ancient statute worked:

"There may be no argument about it among the duffers, but golf in this hilly state is a form of work. A foursome found that out when it ventured forth on a bleak course and was neatly stymied by officers who read them the blue law.

Enforcement of the law revived memories of prohibition days.

"Is it a necessity," whispered the girls, "can you get along without it?"

Here and there in the country, churchgoers toted guns, heeding Berry's warning that under the old law "menfolk" were required to carry guns to protect the women from the Indians.

Theater manager Raymond A. Kiniry shut down his two theaters last night for the first Sunday since his fight against the blue law began a month ago.

The current blue law crime wave broke out when Berry started enforcement of the old statute against Kiniry. The theater manager's retort was a petition demanding general enforcement. Berry took heed.

"The law is on the books to be enforced," said the state's attorney.

"I know it's ridiculous. But it's the best way I know to remove these antiquated laws from the books."

"It looks," he reflected, "like I'm the goat."

MENTAL AND SOCIAL HYGIENE DISCUSSED AT YOUTH FORUM

The first in a series of discussions on social and mental hygiene marked the third meeting of the Community Christian Youth Forum Sunday evening at the Park Avenue Baptist church. The meeting brought out 216 Mansfield young people.

Discussion leaders were Mrs. Henry Wendling and Dr. W. E. Wygant. Mrs. Wendling spoke on "The Lower Forms of Life," and Dr. Wygant talked on "The Beginning of Human Life."

Forum meetings are held each week at one to five Mansfield churches. Personal and social problems in relation to religion are discussed. Charles Atwell is general chairman of the group.

The devotional period last night was led by Willis E. Wygant, with Rev. Hayes M. Braker, pastor of the Baptist church, assisting. The song service was led by Lawrence Frank. Refreshments were served by Ruth Cyphers, Eloise and Ruth Husung.

The next meeting will be held Sunday at the First Congregational church, with Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, as discussion leader. A special program will be arranged for children under 14 years of age. Private interviews for young people will be held at 7 p. m. Wednesday at the Baptist church. A physician, minister, and business man will be available for these private interviews.

The forum is sponsored by the First Congregational, United Presbyterian, First Christian, First Presbyterian and Park Avenue Baptist churches.

MEET DEC. 13

C. of C. Committees Ready to Tackle Water Report.

With the engineers report of the water survey pending before the state board of health for approval, a joint meeting of water development and fire prevention committees of the Chamber of Commerce which has been arranged for Dec. 13, a week from today.

Paul W. Williams, C. of C. secretary-manager said that the meeting, at first planned for this week, had been postponed until the state health board has gone over the recommendations offered by George B. Gascoigne and associates of Cleveland, and has given its report.

The C. of C. has actively urged a long range water development program such as is recommended by the engineers.

MEET EARLY

School Board Hold Twilight Session Because of Foremen's Meet.

The Mansfield board of education will hold a "twilight" session at 5 p. m. today to permit three of the five members to attend a meeting of the Mansfield Foremen's club at 6:30 p. m., Supt. W. L. Miller said.

Board members H. W. Arlin and A. H. Fankhauser, both affiliated with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, and Harold A. Bruce, assistant factory manager of the Ohio Brass company, requested the early evening board meeting to permit attendance ot the Foremen's club session at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. P. S. Coler, educational relations executive of Westinghouse at East Pittsburgh, will speak.

SHOWS BOOST IN ARMS SALES

U. S. Report Reveals Impending Shipments to Far East.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Heavy impending arms shipments to China, Japan and the Soviet Union, all involved in or adjacent to the Far Eastern war, were revealed by the government today when it announced arms export licenses amounting to more than $3,000,000 were authorized to those nations in November.

China was the largest export market listed with $1,702,370, the bulk of which consisted of military airplanes.

DEMANDS PURGE IN G. O. P., BIDS FOR LEADERSHIP

Vermont Governor Proposes 9-Point Program to Avoid Threatened Revolt.

MONTPELIER, Vt. — (U.P.) — Gov. George D. Aiken of Vermont bid for leadership of the Republican party today with an open letter to the national committee demanding a party purge and a consecutive program.

The 45-year-old governor proposed a nine-point program to avert a revolt within the ranks and a possible turning to a third party. He said the party presently was in a "nearly complete state of demoralization."

The letter was released last night, less than two weeks before G. O. P.'s executive committee meets.

Aiken, one of the few Republicans to win an office in the 1936 national elections, demanded that the party organization be purged of "its reactionary and unfair element," that the "youth of our nation" be recognized and that the party "prepare immediately an affirmative program."

Apportions Vote.

To rid the national committee of the "baneful influence" of southern members, Aiken suggested that each committeeman be allotted a vote proportioned to the Republican vote in his state cast for president in the last national election. This would leave Vermont and Maine the only states with a full vote or more.

In his nine-point program Aiken urged the committee:

1. Accept the social aim which the opposing party has had the wisdom to adopt but has lacked the ability to put into efficient operaion.

2. Reject the use of enormous expenditures and special benefits as a political expedient to attr agriculture, industrial gro and other workers to the part

3. Invite youth "to work gether to produce and distrib by the labor of head and hand larger volume of goods and se ices for more people" instead offering "a place at the f trough."

4. Recognize both the fun mental importance and pecul difficulties of the business of riculture. On crops whose pri are made in the world mark provide a subsidy on domes consumption that is equivalent the tariff subsidy on manufact ed goods.

5. Restrict monopoly with minimum of regulation and recognition of the difference between large and small ind tries and their respective abilit to bear regulatory burdens.

6. Co-ordinate into a ratio system the present unrelated p icies of governmental borrowi expenditure, employment and lief on on one hand and priv employment, taxation and d repayment on the other.

7. Establish a proper relatic ship between government a business.

8. Defend the sovereignty the states. "The shift to fede rule results in an unwise reli quishment of local respon bilities."

25 SENIOR HIGH GIRLS WILL GET SPORTS AWARDS

Group to Be Honored Tomorrow at Recognition Day Assembly.

Twenty-five members of the Girls' Athletic association at the Senior high school will be given athletic awards at a special Recognition Day assembly at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday in the high school auditorium.

During the assembly five girls will receive G. A. A. pins, the highest athletic award, for earning 1,500 points or more during athletic competition, and 20 others will be presented with the G. A. A. emblems for earning 1,000 or more points.

The guest speaker at the assembly will be Miss Irma E. Voigt, dean of women at Ohio University, who will be in Mansfield tomorrow to address the annual meeting of the Ohio University Alumni association of Mansfield.

The assembly will be open to mothers of members of the association and all girls of the high school. There are about 200 members in the association.

Program for Assembly.

A program will be presented during the assembly. A welcome to the mothers will be given by Kathleen Gehl; the response will be given by Mrs. F. L. Hanson; Jabetta Bookmyer will sing a solo, and Miss Margaret Clapsaddle girls' physical education instructor, will make the presentations. The speaker will be introduced by Helen Sturgeon. Eleanor Frasher will be chairman of the program.

Those who will receive the emblems are Marilyn Todd, Thereso Hallabrin, Elaine Fox, Martha Moore, Naomi Giffin, Mary Thompson, Norma Harrison, Joan Ballfett, Katherine Huber, Jean Oswalt, June Mertz, Margaret Loesch, Mary Black, Mary Bair, Evelyn Johnson, Eleanor Bolesky, Betty Yuncker, Margaret Rizer, Myrtle Levering, and Mary Gage.

Ushers for the assembly will be girls of the 10-B class. They are Marian Birch, Virginia Casperson, Marjorie Boals, Rebecca Frampton, Jeanette Werner, and Marjorie Balbo.

SALE OF NEW CARS SLUMP

November Business in County 7 Under Previous Month.

Sales of new cars and trucks went into a slump in Richland county in November, with seven fewer cars and only half as many trucks sold as in October.

Automobile sales totaled 129 for the month as against 136 in October. Only 11 new trucks were sold last month as compared with 22 in the preceding month, according to figures compiled by Norman P. Henry, deputy clerk of courts in charge of registrations.

The drop in sales, which Henry attributed to the almost general slump in business, was marked as compared with sales for November last year. Records show that 213 cars and 18 trucks were sold then.

Says He Had Wrong Job For a Man Feeling Like He Did

Says He Was Lucky to Find World's Tonic Which Gave Such Wonderful Relief

Advises Everyone Taking It For Aching Joints and Muscles, Dizziness and Other Troubles When Caused by Stomach Trouble

It makes no difference whether you are a man or woman, it's no fun doing your work when your muscles ache, joints are painful, you feel dizzy, tired and worn out, all because you are full of poisons caused by stomach trouble.

This explains why Mr. A. L. Remleigh, of 825 W. Main St., Zanesville, O., is glad he began taking World's Tonic. Now read what Mr. Remleigh says.

"It wasn't much fun trying to keep at my work, feeling like I have been for some time past. And an easier job would have suited me better. I believe my trouble all started with constipation, because this was something that worried me for years. No matter how many laxatives I took, they left me as bad off or worse than before. I began to suffer with headaches, nervousness billiousness and dizzy spells. I thought I had high blood pressure and heart trouble and had such a poor appetite I didn't eat enough to keep up my strength. Worst of all, however, were those terrible pains, especially across my back and through my limbs, which came upon me more recently, and the amount of sleep I lost nearly every night was terrifying. I was so stiff in the morning it took me the best part of the day to get limbered up.

"Reading what people right here at home said about World's Tonic helping them, I began taking it and this great medicine has given astonishing relief from my troubles. It is the finest thing I ever tried for stomach trouble and when this trouble was relieved, I noticed the pains in my joints and muscles disappeared, headaches ceased, no more dizzy feelings and my rest became sound and unbroken.

"I think World's Tonic is a most remarkable medicine and advise everyone suffering like I did to get some at once."

'ALL HARMONY,' ROOSEVELT TO BE TOLD BY AIDS

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Although President Roosevelt will discover on his return from Florida tonight that his legislative program has made little progress, congressional chieftains will report to him that several widely rumored revolts have not materialized.

When congress assembled three weeks ago, there was much speculation over the possibility that it would sidetrack the president's recommendations and substitute a business aid program of its own.

Instead, the two houses have devoted themselves exclusively to administration proposals, except for a week of debate in the senate on the anti-lynching bill, which had a preferred legislative status.

Many observers had commented that Mr. Roosevelt, in calling the special session, was inviting congressional back-fires on his nomination of Supreme Court Justice Black and on his foreign policies, particularly his failure to invoke the neutrality act in the Sino-Japanese conflict.

Kept In Background.

While there has been cloakroom discussion of both subjects, neither has been more than barely mentioned in the debates. Congress has not shown officially that it knew of Black's statement he once belonged to the Ku Klux Klan.

The most serious threat to the president's program early in the session was the campaign to force immediate corporate tax revision. Leaders were ready to report to Mr. Roosevelt that although some senators still wanted to try for prompt action, most legislators accepted the administration's decision to wait until the 1938 session.

There has been plenty of controversy over the president's own recommendations. The farm bill has run up against strong senate opposition, and may not be ready for the president's signature before January. Most other Roosevelt recommendations will not be reached at the special session.

Although house leaders succeeded in breaking the deadlock which had held the wage-hour bill in the rules committee since summer, the measure will face strong opposition during house debate next week.

TAKE OFFICE

Heads of Sons of Union Vets To Be Installed Tonight.

New officers will be installed at 7:30 p. m. today by McLaughlin camp No. 12, Sons of Union Veterans, at ceremonies at Memorial hall.

George L. Pfeiffer, former Mansfielder and now commander of the Wooster camp of the Sons of Union Veterans, will be the installing officer.

Both elective and appointive officers will be installed tonight, including the following who were chosen at the annual election two weeks ago:

DENIES CHARGE FILED BY GIRL

Youth, Returned From Arkansas, Bound Over to Grand Jury.

Sam Wilson, 18, of Macon, Ga., was held to the county grand jury under $2,500 bond today after he pleaded innocent in municipal court this morning to statutory charges filed by an 18-year-old Mansfield girl.

Wilson was returned to Mansfield Sunday from Ft. Smith, Ark., by Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman to face the charges. The offense allegedly was committed Sept. 10. The girl's accusations were supported by an examining physician who testified in court this morning.

OX TEAM TAKEN ABOARD TRUCK

Ohio 'Pioneers' Continue Pilgrimage; Animals Tire on Way.

SUDBURY, Mass. — (U.P.) — Displaying the fortitude of their 1787 predecessors, New England's modern Ohio company today set out on the fourth-day leg of their scheduled pilgrimage to Marietta, O., and the northwest territory, but their oxen, unable to keep pace, were carried the 25 miles by truck.

Swinging along over broad highways that once were Indian trails, the 37-man caravan covered 17 miles in 12 hours yesterday and last night lodged in historic Wayside Inn and surrounding farm houses as guests of Henry Ford, the owner.

Little more than half the distance had been covered when the oxen drawing a covered wagon proved they might be more hindrance than help. So a truck carried the animals.

COUNCIL NEAR 'LAST ROUND-UP'

Tuesday's Meeting to Be Last Regular One for Present Body; It'll Be Short.

City council, meeting in its last regular session of the year, is expected to wind up its business in jig time tomorrow night.

Although members have the water development program before them and Mayor Earl A. McFarland has said that the report will be presented at tomorrow's meeting it is not believed likely that much time would be devoted to the problem. The report of the state board of health has not been made and the complexion of council will change Jan. 1.

A report from the special committee, headed by Councilman Fred Miller, on the extension of civil service for city employees is also expected tomorrow. At the last regular meeting of council Miller promised a report on the committee's findings regarding the feasibility of extending civil service to cover all appointive positions.

Miller said today that the committee had met with City Solicitor Herbert Schettler and gone over the ordinance prepared by Trades council, and presented several weeks ago, and that he was prepared to report in full tomorrow night.

Although the present council ends its regime this month, there will be only two new faces when the new council takes up its duties. The new councilmen are Arthur L. Croak, representing the sixth ward, and Harry L. Emmons, councilman at large. Councilmen Russell D. Porch, First; C. N. Shultz, Second George C. Kyle, Third; Lester D. Hunter, Fourth, and Fred Miller, Fifth were re-elected. So was James Crum, member at large. Berg, now representing the Sixth ward becomes councilman at large and Karl P. Troll, now councilman at large, becomes council president. Councilman Philip Smith, at large, who unsuccessfully sought the Democratic mayoralty nomination in August, will leave the council.

INDOOR FAIR

Four-Day Event Opens Tuesday at Mayflower Church.

The annual indoor fair at the Mayflower Congregational church will open a four-night stand Tuesday under the sponsorship of the Christian Endeavor society.

Each night a variety program including music and motion pictures will be presented. Displays will be shown by various merchants. Other displays will include Christmas gifts, antiques, fancy work, quilts and novelties.

The fair will open each day at 6.30 p. m.

LAW CATCHES UP WITH 100 WHO VIOLATED TOWN'S 'BLUE LAWS'

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt — (AP) — The "sins" of the forefathers today weighed heavily upon the shoulders of Windham county residents

A blue Monday found at least 100 persons caught in the toils of a law laid down by Vermont's early settlers to ward off the "skulking Redskins" and the "devil."

Investigators yesterday scribbled down their names as they went about the grim task of enforcing a blue law banning on the Sabbath day "any secular business or employment except works of charity."

More might have joined those against whom State's Attorney Ernest F. Berry said he would seek warrants today in the "blue law crime wave." But weary police suffered an attack of writer's cramp as the day wore on.

Here's how enforcement of the ancient statute worked:

"There may be no argument about it among the duffers, but golf in this hilly state is a form of work. A foursome found that out when it ventured forth on a bleak course and was neatly stymied by officers who read them the blue law.

Enforcement of the law revived memories of prohibition days.

"Is it a necessity," whispered the girls, "can you get along without it?"

Here and there in the country, churchgoers toted guns, heeding Berry's warning that under the old law "menfolk" were required to carry guns to protect the women from the Indians.

Theater manager Raymond A. Kiniry shut down his two theaters last night for the first Sunday since his fight against the blue law began a month ago.

The current blue law crime wave broke out when Berry started enforcement of the old statute against Kiniry. The theater manager's retort was a petition demanding general enforcement. Berry took heed.

"The law is on the books to be enforced," said the state's attorney.

"I know it's ridiculous. But it's the best way I know to remove these antiquated laws from the books."

MENTAL AND SOCIAL HYGIENE DISCUSSED AT YOUTH FORUM

The first in a series of discussions on social and mental hygiene marked the third meeting of the Community Christian Youth Forum Sunday evening at the Park Avenue Baptist church. The meeting brought out 216 Mansfield young people.

Discussion leaders were Mrs. Henry Wendling and Dr. W. E. Wygant. Mrs. Wendling spoke on "The Lower Forms of Life," and Dr. Wygant talked on "The Beginning of Human Life."

Forum meetings are held each week at one to five Mansfield churches. Personal and social problems in relation to religion are discussed. Charles Atwell is general chairman of the group.

The devotional period last night was led by Willis E. Wygant, with Rev Hayes M. Braker, pastor of the Baptist church, assisting. The song service was led by Lawrence Frank. Refreshments were served by Ruth Cyphers, Eloise and Ruth Husung.

The next meeting will be held Sunday at the First Congregational church, with Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, as discussion leader. A special program will be arranged for children under 14 years of age. Private interviews for young people will be held at 7 p. m. Wednesday at the Baptist church. A physician, minister, and business man will be available for these private interviews.

The forum is sponsored by the First Congregational, United Presbyterian, First Christian, First Presbyterian and Park Avenue Baptist churches.

MEET DEC. 13

C. of C. Committees Ready to Tackle Water Report.

With the engineers report of the water survey pending before the state board of health for approval, a joint meeting of water development and fire prevention committees of the Chamber of Commerce which has been arranged for Dec. 13, a week from today.

Paul W. Williams, C. of C. secretary-manager said that the meeting, at first planned for this week, had been postponed until the state health board has gone over the recommendations offered by George B. Gascoigne and associates of Cleveland, and has given its report.

The C. of C. has actively urged a long range water development program such as is recommended by the engineers.

MEET EARLY

School Board Hold Twilight Session Because of Foremen's Meet.

The Mansfield board of education will hold a "twilight" session at 5 p. m. today to permit three of the five members to attend a meeting of the Mansfield Foremen's club at 6:30 p. m., Supt. W. L. Miller said.

Board members H. W. Arlin and A. H Fankhauser, both affiliated with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, and Harold A. Bruce, assistant factory manager of the Ohio Brass company, requested the early evening board meeting to permit attendance ot the Foremen's club session at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. P. S. Coler, educational relations executive of Westinghouse at East Pittsburgh, will speak.

U. S. Report Reveals Impending Shipments to Far East.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Heavy impending arms shipments to China, Japan and the Soviet Union, all involved in or adjacent to the Far Eastern war, were revealed by the government today when it announced arms export licenses amounting to more than $3,000,000 were authorized to those nations in November.

China was the largest export market listed with $1,702,370, the bulk of which consisted of military airplanes.

DEMANDS PURGE IN G. O. P., BIDS FOR LEADERSHIP

MONTPELIER, Vt. — (U.P.) — Gov. George D. Aiken of Vermont bid for leadership of the Republican party today with an open letter to the national committee demanding a party purge and a consecutive program.

The 45-year-old governor proposed a nine-point program to avert a revolt within the ranks and a possible turning to a third party. He said the party presently was in a "nearly complete state of demoralization."

The letter was released last night, less than two weeks before G. O. P.'s executive committee meets.

Aiken, one of the few Republicans to win an office in the 1936 national elections, demanded that the party organization be purged of "its reactionary and unfair element," that the "youth of our nation" be recognized and that the party "prepare immediately an affirmative program."

Apportions Vote.

To rid the national committee of the "baneful influence" of southern members, Aiken suggested that each committeeman be allotted a vote proportioned to the Republican vote in his state cast for president in the last national election. This would leave Vermont and Maine the only states with a full vote or more.

In his nine-point program, Aiken urged the committee:

1. Accept the social aim which the opposing party has had the wisdom to adopt but has lacked the ability to put into efficient operaion.

2. Reject the use of enormous expenditures and special benefits as a political expedient to attract agriculture, industrial groups and other workers to the party.

3. Invite youth "to work together to produce and distribute by the labor of head and hand a larger volume of goods and services for more people" instead of offering "a place at the feed trough."

4. Recognize both the fundamental importance and peculiar difficulties of the business of agriculture. On crops whose prices are made in the world market, provide a subsidy on domestic consumption that is equivalent to the tariff subsidy on manufactured goods.

5. Restrict monopoly with a minimum of regulation and a recognition of the difference between large and small industries and their respective abilities to bear regulatory burdens.

6. Co-ordinate into a rational system the present unrelated policies of governmental borrowing, expenditure, employment and relief on on one hand and private employment, taxation and debt repayment on the other.

7. Establish a proper relationship between government and business.

8. Defend the sovereignty of the states. "The shift to federal rule results in an unwise relinquishment of local responsibilities."

9. Return to congress its "legislative and deliberate functions," and preserve the "authority, integrity and independence of our courts."

MEET TONIGHT

The monthly dinner meeting of the Social Worker's club will be held at 6:30 p. m. today at the United Presbyterian church.

The program includes a talk by Mrs. William Black on "A Freighter Cruise," comedy skit by Eugene Gump, and a saxophone solo by Louis Reddy.

Officers for the coming year who were elected at th last meeting will take office tonight, They are A. T. Sneeringer, president, E. W. Kissel, vice president, and Helen Hurst, secretary-treasurer.

25 SENIOR HIGH GIRLS WILL GET SPORTS AWARDS

Group to Be Honored Tomorrow at Recognition Day Assembly.

Twenty-five members of the Girls' Athletic association at the Senior high school will be given athletic awards at a special Recognition Day assembly at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday in the high school auditorium.

During the assembly five girls will receive G. A. A. pins, the highest athletic award, for earning 1,500 points or more during athletic competition, and 20 others will be presented with the G. A. A. emblems for earning 1,000 or more points.

The guest speaker at the assembly will be Miss Irma E. Voigt, dean of women at Ohio University, who will be in Mansfield tomorrow to address the annual meeting of the Ohio University Alumni association of Mansfield.

The assembly will be open to mothers of members of the association and all girls of the high school. There are about 200 members in the association.

Program for Assembly.

A program will be presented during the assembly. A welcome to the mothers will be given by Kathleen Gehl; the response will be given by Mrs. F. L. Hanson; Jabetta Bookmyer will sing a solo, and Miss Margaret Clapsaddle girls' physical education instructor, will make the presentations. The speaker will be introduced by Helen Sturgeon. Eleanor Frasher will be chairman of the program.

Those who will receive the emblems are Marilyn Todd, Thereso Hallabrin, Elaine Fox, Martha Moore, Naomi Giffin, Mary Thompson, Norma Harrison, Joan Balliett, Katherine Huber, Jean Oswalt, June Mertz, Margaret Loesch, Mary Black, Mary Bair, Evelyn Johnson, Eleanor Bolesky, Betty Yuncker, Margaret Rizer, Myrtle Levering, and Mary Gage.

Ushers for the assembly will be girls of the 10-B class. They are Marian Birch, Virginia Casperson, Marjorie Boals, Rebecca Frampton, Jeanette Werner, and Marjorie Balbo.

SALE OF NEW CARS SLUMP

November Business in County 7 Under Previous Month.

Sales of new cars and trucks went into a slump in Richland county in November, with seven fewer cars and only half as many trucks sold as in October.

Automobile sales totaled 129 for the month as against 136 in October. Only 11 new trucks were sold last month as compared with 22 in the preceding month, according to figures compiled by Norman P. Henry, deputy clerk of courts in charge of registrations.

The drop in sales, which Henry attributed to the almost general slump in business, was marked as compared with sales for November last year. Records show that 213 cars and 18 trucks were sold then.

Says He Had Wrong Job For a Man Feeling Like He Did

Advises Everyone Taking It For Aching Joints and Muscles, Dizziness and Other Troubles When Caused by Stomach Trouble

It makes no difference whether you are a man or woman, it's no fun doing your work when your muscles ache, joints are painful, you feel dizzy, tired and worn out, all because you are full of poisons caused by stomach trouble.

This explains why Mr. A. L. Remleigh, of 825 W. Main St., Zanesville, O., is glad he began taking World's Tonic. Now read what Mr. Remleigh says.

"It wasn't much fun trying to keep at my work, feeling like I have been for some time past. And an easier job would have suited me better. I believe my trouble all started with constipation, because this was something that worried me for years. No matter how many laxatives I took, they left me as bad off or worse than before. I began to suffer with headaches, nervousness billiousness and dizzy spells. I thought I had high blood pressure and heart trouble and had such a poor appetite I didn't eat enough to keep up my strength. Worst of all, however, were those terrible pains, especially across my back and through my limbs, which came upon me more recently, and the amount of sleep I lost nearly every night was terrifying. I was so stiff in the morning it took me the best part of the day to get limbered up.

"Reading what people right here at home said about World's Tonic helping them, I began taking it and this great medicine has given astonishing relief from my troubles. It is the finest thing I ever tried for stomach trouble and when this trouble was relieved, I noticed the pains in my joints and muscles disappeared, headaches ceased, no more dizzy feelings and my rest became sound and unbroken.

"I think World's Tonic is a most remarkable medicine and advise everyone suffering like I did to get some at once."

KIDNAPERS ASK $100,000 FOR RICH CAPTIVE

Wealthy New Yorker Seized While Getting In Auto; Negotiate Release.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.—(AP)—Reports that Arthur Fried, 32, member of a wealthy sand and gravel family, had been kidnaped and was being held for $100,000 ransom, brought federal agents to White Plains today. Fried vanished Saturday.

The reports said that Fried's five brothers had made a contact with a gang, believed to be holding the young man, and were trying to argue them into reducing the amount of ransom.

Calls Intercepted.

Telephone calls to the home of Fried's mother, Mrs. Emma Fried, who lives in a palatial house in Soundview avenue, were being intercepted at the Central Telephone Exchang and the caller's numbers relayed to police headquarters.

Fried attended a motion picture show Saturday night with his wife, a brother-in-law, and the latter's wife. On the way home they dropped him at his mother's house to get his automobile, which he had parked there. The others went on to Fried's own apartment.

His relatives waited for him and when he did not return they became anxious. At 1:30 a. m. Sunday and alarm that he was missing was flashed over the police wires and two hours later his car was found at Rosedale Gardens, in Mamaroneck avenue, at the edge of the city.

Harold Daniels, Fried's brother-in-law and a New York building financier, denied today a ransom note had been received so far as he knew, but the report was confirmed in county police headquarters.

Fried lives at Briarview Manor in Mamaroneck road with his wife and 8-year-old son, Arlen. He is a son of the late Joseph Fried, head of the Empire Sand and Gravel company and of Joseph Fried and Son, Bronx Cinder company. Fried is manager of the Bronx office of the Colonial Sand and Stone company.

NEARS CAPITAL

Roosevelt to Get Special Treatment For Jaw.

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Roosevelt, returning from a curtailed southern vacation for possible surgical treatment of an infected tooth pocket, traveled across the Carolinas and Virginia today on a schedule arranged to place him at the White House about 4:30 p. m.

Capt. Ross T. McIntire, his naval physician, told reporters the president's general physical condition was "excellent and the week of fishing and sunshine has benefited him greatly."

Replying to questions, the president said he would have no more messages for the special session of congress, but expected to confer with Democratic leaders soon after reaching Washington. No times had been set, though, he added.

SLAMS DUFFY

Attorney Says He'll Be the 'Goat' When Inquiry Ends.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy faced today an assertion that he would "be made the goat" in his grand jury investigation of the Ohio parole system and reports of freedom being bought for prisoners.

Attorney Raymond S. Logan at Cleveland defended his client, Arch W. (Stub) Naylor, who had been accused by Duffy of "lying like a trooper" before a special grand jury, and declared:

"I know he's told all he knows. I've talked with him repeatedly and I'm satisfied he can say nothing more. I think Duffy wants him to say things he doesn't know.

"I'm satisfied Duffy is out to make Dougan (Leland S. Dougan, friend of Naylor and former parole board chairman) the goat. Naylor couldn't do anything with Dougan. Before the investigation is over, Duffy will be made the goat."

GIVES GERMANY HELIUM SUPPLY

U. S. Board Allows Quota For Operation Of New Zep.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The munitions control board today granted an allotment of 17,900 cubic feet of helium to agents of the German Zeppelin company, presumably for operation of a sister ship of the ill-fated Hindenburg on a transatlantic route.

By act of congress after the loss of the Hindenburg at Lakehurst, N. J. the United States government was authorized to monopolize helium production in this country and to export it, provided officials were satisfied it would not be used for military purposes.

Helium has satisfactory lifting capacity without being explosive, as is hydrogen.

49 AT PARTY

CRESTLINE—Forty-nine were in attendance for the party Snyder corps, W. R. C., sponsored Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. I. G. Foster, East Bucyrus street.

Mrs. Daisy Tipton and her committee were in charge of the affair. Guests present were Mrs. Vernard Kinstle of Mansfield, Mrs. Robert Montgomery, Mrs. Early, Mrs. Jesse Swain and Mrs. Clara Huffman.

Ten tables were filled for card games, Miss Edna Hoffman, Mrs. William Roderick and Mrs. C. G. Kime winning the respective pries in rook, pinochle and euchre.

Economics Professor Says Labor Law Should Be Junked.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Lewis Haney, professor of economics at New York university, advocated "scrapping" the Wagner labor relations act in an address before the national industrial council today.

Haney said: "As a first step, the Wagner act should be scrapped, and such an agency set up that both employer and employee can expect equal and just treatment."

LINDYS KEEP PLANS SECRET

son, Charles jr.—at a time when they were receiving renewed public attention as the date for Hauptmann's execution approached.

Lindbergh, who is technical advisor of the Pan-American and the Transcontinental and Western Airways, has been engaged in England in work preparatory to establishment of a trans-atlantic air line sponsored jointly by Pan-American and the Imperial Airways of Great Britain. He has flown considerably around the British Isles, mainly surveying proposed landing terminals for the huge flying boats that will be used.

Two alternative air routes between the American continent and Europe were surveyed closely by planes of both lines during the summer, and the plans have reached the stage of a working out of the final but highly technical details.

It was believed generally that the chief purpose of Lindbergh's visit, was to work with Pan-American officials over these plans. This, however, was not confirmed.

Outside of the immediate Morrow family, and, presumably, Lindbergh's closest business associates, only one person knew in advance of their plans to return home. That person was Basil Harris, vice president of the United States lines, who had arranged their secret sailing on the freighter American Importer, on Dec. 22, 1935. Harris reserved two cabins on the President Harding with a connecting bath for "Mr. and Mrs. Gregory."

Arriving at the ship, on Nov. 27, Lindbergh wore smoked glasses. No one recognized either him or his wife and they went at once to their suite on "A" deck. They did not appear again for over 24 hours and their meals were served to them in the suite. By that time, the ship was at sea.

Calls At Cabin.

"Captain Roberts told me to ask Mr. and Mrs. Gregory to sit at his table when they wanted to come to the dining room," Second Steward Charles Holldorb said. He pounded on the door. Mrs. Lindbergh, wearing glasses, opened it, seemed confused, then smiled, asked him to please step in. Holldorb said he recognized Lindbergh at once, but, nevertheless, addressed him as Mr. Gregory, whereupon Lindbergh smiled.

The following day, Sunday, the Lindberghs informed Holldorb that they would dine at the captain's table that night. Holldorb asked: "What name shall I say."

"Our own name, by all means," said Lindbergh.

After the first surprise, the passengers paid no undue attention to the Lindberghs, though several who asked for autographs were politely refused.

Their stewards said they had tipped generously. Lindbergh shook hands with his night steward, Emil Versteapper, on departure, and Versteapper said he valued the handshake more than the tip.

When the ship docked here yesterday morning, Harris was the first man aboard. He went to the Lindbergh's cabin. They had a long consultation. Though no one was waiting on the dock for them, Harris took them through the ship to the third class gang plank, down it to the dock, thence into a freight elevator.

LABOR PARTY STIRS COMMENT

Jersey Leaders Map Plans For 1940 Presidential Election.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Establishment of a New Jersey labor party and steps toward a similar organization in Michigan occasioned new speculation today on the possibility of a national labor ticket in the 1940 presidential election.

Both CIO and American Federation of Labor representatives took part in the founding of the American labor party of New Jersey yesterday at Newark. The delegates to the founding convention declared they represented 150,000 organized workers.

No action was taken on the question whether the new party should back its own candidates in elections or endorse those of other parties.

before the election. Pfeifer also asserted that the polls had not been kept open the required two hours at last year's election of directors.

The society voted to waive the three weeks' notice requirement of the by-laws and to proceed with the election. Shafer contended that since notices of the meeting were mailed to members, the three weeks' notice clause was not necessary.

7 Directors Elected.

Two new members were elected to the board of directors of the agricultural society and five others whose terms expire Jan. 1 were re-elected at the meeting.

With contests for only three of the seven posts to be filled, C. F. Will defeated Hammett, incumbent, in the Jackson township race, and W. E. Smith was elected to succeed J. B. Zeigler in Cass township. Zeigler was not a candidate for re-election. Will received 21 votes to 12 for Hammett.

In Washington township, H. E. Miller, incumbent director, defeated H. K. Lanehart by a vote of 25 to eight.

Other directors re-elected without opposition were Harry Zody, Monroe township; C. S. Henry, Weller township; E. C. Shafer, Springfield township, and C. C. Hout, Mifflin township.

The seven directors will serve until Jan. 1, 1941. There are 22 directors on the board.

Although notices of the election were mailed to more than 200 members of the society, only 35 attended the meeting.

HELD TO JURY

Alleged Check Passer Bound Over by Galion Mayor.

GALION—At a hearing before Mayor W. M. King Saturday morning, William Mantz Curley, alias S. E. Hayes, who was returned to Galion Friday from Union City, Ind., was bound over to the Crawford county grand jury under $1,000 bond on a charge of issuing forged checks here.

The affidavit was sworn to by Charles Weitthoff of Galion. Four checks were cashed here totaling $151. Curley admitted in court here that S. E. Hayes was one of the many aliases which he had assumed.

He was arrested at Union City when he attempted to cash a check. Police there had recognized a circular that had been issued by the postoffice department, describing him. He had used the mails in his fraudulent check operations, it was charged.

PAYS $118,278,052 TAXES

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Ohio has paid $118,278,052 in liquor taxes to the federal government since repeal of prohibition Dec. 5, 1933, to rank sixth behind Illinois, Pennsylvania, New York, Indiana and Kentucky. The national total is $1,910,000,000.

Loot was estimated to exceed $1,500.

JAPS APPROACH NANKING WALLS

tze merge about 40 miles east of Nanking.

Japanese planes, meanwhile, were reported making heavy attacks on an allegedly bewildered Chinese retreat both from Nanking and Wuhu.

Chinese sources reported the 32,720-ton Japanese battleship Nagato sunk by aerial bombs on the lower Yangtze between Tungchow and Fushan. Japanese discounted the report.

A Japanese embassy spokesman acknowledged that British consular authorities had made a telephonic report on the bombing of a British warship and two British merchantmen yesterday at Wuhu.

He said, however, no question of a British protest or of demands for compensation had arisen. The spokesman added that Japanese authorities had no statement to make about the incident.

Japan's airforce, meanwhile, spread its wings over a broad area of the Central China front, apparently in preparation for a swift attack on Nanking.

A Japanese spokesman said air raiders bombed and set fire to fuel tanks, airdromes and Chinese defense positions in the vicinity of the deserted capital.

He said Japanese planes stabbed deep into China's interior and destroyed four large bombers and ten smaller planes, all allegedly of Russian manufacture, at Lanchowfu, capital of Kansu, the province bordering Tibet. Two Chinese pursuit ships also were reported shot down.

The commander of the British gunboat Ladybird and two other Britons were injured when Japanese planes raided the Wuhu waterfront.

OPPOSE LAW TO BAN RAW MILK

proposed ordinance was being opposed.

"We emphatically oppose the proposed legislation, now being considered by the Mansfield Board of Health, which calls for compulsory pasteurization of all milk delivered in the city of Mansfield," the resolution states.

It points out that "there is no public demand for such legislation and that no emergency exists making advisable the pasteurization of the city's raw milk supply."

It further states that the United States Public Health model ordinance, which the Mansfield board of health has adopted, recognizes grade "A" raw milk and there is at present a plentiful supply of the pasteurized product for those desiring to use it."

The association opposes the proposed ban on the grounds that raw milk sold in Mansfield has been good and that it has not been the source of any hazard to public health.

"A preference for raw milk has been expressed by a large number of the citizens as evidenced by their signing of a petition asking for the continuance of grade "A" raw milk," the resolution says.

"Mansfield's raw milk supply is produced on farms that are far above the average in health, sanitation and equipment as compared with the pasteurized product, and it is delivered to the doorstep much fresher than is possible with pasteurized milk."

The distributors contend that the proposed legislation would result in the loss of property and income to those now engaged in the production and distribution of raw milk products in Mansfield, due to the additional investment required.

Romance Rumored As Belgian King Visits England

LONDON—(AP)—England wondered today whether a British-Belgian royal romance was being unfolded.

Unexpected, private visits to England of Belgium's King Leopold, III, Queen-Mother Elizabeth and Prince Charles, the king's bachelor brother, had most Englishmen puzzled and guessing.

There were official denials of rumors that the Belgian king's visit to the Duke of Portland's Welbeck Abbey estate indicated a romantic attachment for the Duke's 21-year-old granddaughter, Lady Anne Cavendish-Bentinck.

Baron Capelle, the king's secretary, described the rumors as "childish fairy tales." The Count DeGrunne, chamberlain to the queen-mother, declared when he was asked if the widower king had come to England to choose an English bride: "No! No! No! I can not tell you anything. We denied those rumors before we left Brussels."

The 36-year-old king's name several times has been connected with various European princesses since the death of Queen Astrid in an automobile accident two years ago. On each occasion the reports were denied.

DRIVER FINED

SHELBY — George Walker, of Shelby, today was fined $100 and costs in Mayor D. B. Young's court for driving while intoxicated.

Walker had been arrested Sunday after he hit a car belonging to Dr. J. A. Ellery at the intersection of Gamble street and West Main street, Police Chief Leroy Coffey said.

Suggestions For Holiday Luncheons

By IRENE OBERLIN
Home Service Dept. Ohio Public Service Co.

With the coming holiday season and the planning of meals for hungry members of the family, too often the preparation of food requires much more time than one cares to spare and the following luncheon dishes may be helpful to you in preparing a delicious meal that requires little time.

Rice Supreme.

2 Cans chicken soup
1 Can mushrooms
2-3 Cup uncooked rice
Liquid from mushrooms
1 Tsp. salt
1-4 Pepper
2 Tbsp. butter
1 Pimento (chopped)
10 Stuffed olives (sliced)

Melt butter in frying pan with switch turned to high—Then add the mushrooms (drained) and saute slightly. Add soup, mushroom liquid, rice and seasonings. Cover. Let cook to boiling point and turn the current off. Cook thirty-five minutes longer without removing lid. Add pimento and olives just before serving.

Italian Surprise.

4 Cups egg plant (diced)
3 Tbsp. butter
2 Cups celery (diced)
4 Tbsp. onions (diced)
4 Tbsp. green peppers (diced)
1 Cup stuffed olives (chopped)
1 Cup uncooked noodles
1 Can tomato soup
Cup water
1 Tbsp. Worcester Shire sauce
1 Tsp. salt

Soak the diced eggplant in salt water for two hours. Drain and dry. Melt butter in frying pan. Add eggplant and the remaining ingredients in layers but do not stir. Cover until steam escapes freely, then turn off. Do not remove the cover during the cooking period. Turn out on platter. Try to keep the layers intact. Serve with a garnish of parsley and grated parmesan cheese.

Swiss Steak Royal And Vegetables.

2 Pounds Swiss steak
1 Clove garlic
1 Large Bermuda onion
Salt
Pepper
1 Bottle catsup
or tomato juice

Season and flour swiss steak well and cut in portions for serving. Cut garlic into small pieces and stick into meat. Brown in skillet, then place in kettle and add other ingredients. Steam for 1½ hours. If you like you may add pototaes cut in small pieces.

If you are interested in making fruit cake you will find these recipes especially nice.

Fruit Cake (Dark).

1 Cup soft butter
1 Cup sugar
5 Eggs
½ Cup orange juice
1 Glass grape jelly
2½ Cups flour
1 Tsp. baking powder
1 Tsp. cinnamon
½ Tsp. each of nutmeg allspice and cloves
½ Pound candied cherries
½ Tsp. salt
¼ Pound blanched almonds
½ Pound pecans
½ Pound white raisins
½ Pound puffed raisins
½ Pound candied pineapple
¼ Pound citron
⅛ Pound lemon peel
⅛ Pound orange peel
1 Can moist cocoanut

Shred fruit peel, citron and pineapple and dredge with the one-half cup of flour. Cut cocoanuts fine. Cream butter and sugar, then well beaten eggs. Beat thoroughly. Add dry ingredients alternately with the orange juice and jelly. Add the fruits and nuts. Line bottom of pans with heavy wax paper and garnish the loaf or loaves with nuts, cherries and pineapple. Bake according to size. If one large cake 275 degrees for 4 hours. If 3 small 325 degrees for 1½ hours.

Antidote For Ennui

An egg noodle and ham casserole, hot out of the oven, is a perfect pepper-upper for the child who walks home from school for lunch. A little cheese sauce poured over it increases the zest.

Suggestions For Appetizing School Lunches Given Today

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer

It's worth walking home from school to find a lunch that's a little special. And mother doesn't have to spend all morning to make that kind of a lunch, either. Here are some suggestions:

Home-made hamburgers and piping hot beans with some home-made chili sauce or catsup are a lot better than anything you can buy, for instance.

Soup for Wash Day.

Or you can put leftover meat, chipped beef or chopped hard-cooked eggs into steaming cream sauce and serve it on fresh, crisp, unbuttered toast.

On wash days, when you haven't a spare minute, serve soup. (If you serve different kinds of soup different days you can have soup meals more often.)

Egg Noodle Ham Casserole
(Serves 6 to 8)

½ lb. egg noodles
1½ cups diced ham
2 tablespoons but-
½ cup crushed pineapple (drained)
Salt and pepter to taste

Cook the egg noodles in rapidly boiling, salted water. Drain, but do not blanch. Combine with all the other ingredients. Place in casserole. Bake for one hour at 300 degrees.

If uncooked ham is used, cut into smaller pieces and use less salt in seasoning.

Cheese Sauce.

Cream of mushroom soup, vegetable soup or clam chowder, is awfully good when there's plenty of melba toast or nice crisp crackers on the side.

Add some fruit sauce or a small salad, milk and cookies to the menu and you have something to look forward to.

On bake-day morning it isn't much trouble to stick something extra in the oven—baking potatoes, macaroni and cheese, rice and tomatoes, escalloped corn, custard, gingerbread, or a rice, fruit or brown Betty pudding.

If you have a little extra time try using eggs. Creamed or scrambled eggs—or omelets or souffles—may be served alone or you can add leftover meats and vegetables.

Advice on Desserts.

Don't serve desserts that are too rich. Pastries, pies and steamed puddings aren't suitable for children's noonday lunches.

Canned or stewed fruits, baked puddings (rice, coconut, chocolate, caramel, bread or fruit), drop cakes or cookies, gelatin desserts or baked apples satisfy the sweet tooth just as well.

Milk is almost a must for children at all meals. It is especially important at noon. Of course, if it is mixed with cocoa and topped by a teaspoonful of whipped cream or a marshmallow that's so much the better.

Care With Glass

Always use a dry cloth in handling hot glass cooking utensils. If a damp cloth is used, the glass is likely to crack. When a glass dish boils dry allow it to cool before soaking it and then use warm—not hot—water and a cleansing powder.

Easily Made Goodies

Christmas wouldn't be Christmas without plenty of goodies on hand for friends who drop in during the open house season to extend holiday greetings and good wishes.

Candy is a grand Yuletide gift, especially when it is made in your own kitchen. It is an inexpensive present that nevertheless shows a great deal of thought.

Daintie.s.

4 envelopes plain unflavored gelatine
1 cup cold water
1½ cups boiling water
4 cups sugar
¼ teaspoonful salt
Red and Green Coloring (Paste or Liquid)
½ teaspoonful peppermint extract
1 teaspoonful cinnamon extract.

Heat sugar, salt and boiling water to boiling point. Pour cold water in bowl and sprinkle gelatine on top of water. Add to hot syrup and stir until dissolved. Boil slowly for 15 minutes. Remove from fire and divide into two equal parts. Color one part a delicate red and flavor with cinnamon extract; color the other part a delicate green and flavor with peppermint extract. Rinse two pans (size about 8x4 inches) in cold water, and pour in candy mixture to the depth of about three-fourths inch and put in a cold place (not a refrigerator), allowing candy to thicken for at least twelve hours. With a wet sharp knife loosen around edges of pan, turn out on board lightly covered with powdered sugar. Cut into cubes and roll in powdered or fine granulated sugar.

Rainbow Wafers.

1 envelope plain unflavored gelatine
1½ tablespoonfuls cold water
2 tablespoonfulls boiling water
Flavoring (Extracts or Oils)
1 package (1 lb.) confectioners' sugar
Coloring (Liquid or Paste)

Pour cold water in bowl and sprinkle gelatine on top of water. Add boiling water and stir until thoroughly dissolved. Add 2 cups sugar and mix thoroughly. Put on a board dredged with sifted sugar and knead until perfectly smooth. Divide into as many parts as you wish, and to each part add the desired coloring and flavoring. Knead in these colors and flavors and enough more sugar to make the mixture stiff again. (This will use the rest of the sugar in the package.) Roll as thin as possible and cut in rounds, about one inch in diameter. If you desire these rounds chocolate, knead in cocoa instead of part of sugar. Vanilla, peppermint, clove, cinnamon, sassafras, wintergreen, lemon or any flavor may be used.

Serve any of the following with lamb: currant jelly, spiced cranberry sauce, spiced grapes, pickle relish, mint sauce, mint pineapple sauce, cider jelly, plum jelly or crabapple conserve.

Cocoanut Pie Favorite

Have you been having trouble getting the family down to dinner on time? Then serve pie for dessert frequently — for there's nothing like the simple pronouncement, "There's pie for dessert tonight," to bring them scurrying to the table!

An all time favorite is Cocoanut Custard Pie! It is so delicate everybody can eat a big piece, and it's beautiful too—with the lightly browned shreds of cocoanut ruffling the smooth gold of the custard! Bake it so that it will still be a bit warm when served.

Cocoanut Custard Pie.

3 eggs
½ cup sugar
⅛ tsp. salt
½ tsp. vanilla
1 2-3 cups irradiated evaporated milk
1 cup water
½ cup shredded cocoanut
Unbaked pastry shell

Add sugar, salt and vanilla to beaten eggs. Add milk and water and pour into an unbaked pie shell. Sprinkle with cocoanut. Bake in a hot oven (425°F.) for 30 minutes, or until just set.

Note that this Cocoanut Custard Pie is baked quickly at a high temperature. This not only saves time but results in a better lower crust.

Decorate Pastry

Cut out tiny pumpkin shapes from rich pastry dough. Bake them on a shallow pan. When it is time to serve the individual pieces of pumpkin pie for dessert place one crust pumpkin on top of each piece of pie. Add a sprinkling of grated cheese to give added flavor.

Roasting hints: chicken and duck require thirty minutes roasting per pound; turkey or goose require twenty-five minutes per pound. Fowl should be placed in a roaster and covered with a white cloth and basted every fifteen minutes. The cloth should be rinsed in warm water every half hour and then replaced. The lid always should be placed on the roaster.

These Machines Make Doughnuts That Are Fluffy and Well Fried

1920 Doughnuts per hour are a pile of doughnuts in any one's kitchen. And that is the exact number of doughnuts these machines are capable of producing.

There is one great advantage these machines have over the old style of deep fat frying doughnuts and turning them over with a stick . . . these machines through temperature control of the frying compound take the raw dough, as it is automatically fed into the frying vats and cook . . . turn . . . brown . . . and put the doughnuts into the drip baskets.

Nickles doughnuts are not doughy, they are well filled, fluffy, well baked rings of delicious brown goodness. A real test for doughnut lovers is the . . . "Dunker's Test." Yes, just be sure they are from Nickles, then sit down to a steaming cup of coffee . . . the paper or magazine and "dunk." You'll say, "Nickles doughnuts are the best you ever tasted . . . no sogginess . . . just real honest-to-goodness well baked doughnuts.

FARM EXPENSE TO RISE WHILE PRICES SLUMP

Federal Economists Report For 1938 Not Encouraging For Rural Folk.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The farm outlook for next year is less favorable than this, department of agriculture economists report in a study of the agricultural situation.

Farm income will be lower and farm expense greater, they predicted. This would be the first reversal in the upward trend of farm prosperity begun in 1933. Farm income doubled during that period.

Costs of production next year will be increased by higher wage rates, higher prices for farm machinery, fertilizer, automobiles, building materials, equipment and supplies, the bureau of agricultural economics said.

Feed to Be Cheaper.

Partly offsetting this increased production cost will be substantially lower prices for feed and seed. Lower feed prices will be largely nullified by lower market prices for meat animals, especially in the latter part of 1938, the bureau said.

A growing shortage in farm labor already has boosted wages to 126 per cent of the pre-war level, the report said. Many farm hands are finding employment in cities at higher wages than paid on farms.

"Higher wage rates in 1938 are expected to encourage increased mechanization of the farm business in types of farming adapted to it," the bureau said. This will, in the long run, tend to minimize the effect of prospective increases in the demand for farm labor."

The number of farm workers has decreased steadily since 1929. Total employment on farms this year average 292 persons per 100 farms, compared with 340 in 1929. Increased farm machinery has offset decreased farm labor.

A rise in prices of farm machinery is expected next year, the bureau said, mainly due to increased costs of manufacture. Wage rates in manufacturing industries is 11 per cent higher than a year ago and 16 per cent higher than in 1929, the bureau said.

RICHLAND NATIVE DIES IN ILLINOIS

Services Held In Moline Sunday for T. W. Trimble, 82.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at Moline, Ill., for T. W. Trimble, 82, former Richland county resident, who died Friday evening at his home there following a two weeks' illness. Rev. Charles D. Pettit, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiated and burial was in Riverside cemetery at Moline.

Born Oct. 12, 1855, near Mansfield on the West Fourth street road, Mr. Trimble had been a resident of Moline for the past 63 years. He was a pioneer telegraph operator and for more than 50 years an employe of the Rock Island railroad and of express companies there. He retired Oct 13, 1927.

Surviving are his wife, Elizabeth; a daughter, Mrs. Fred Klann, and a grandson, Robert Klann, all of Moline, and several relatives residing in and near Crestline.

WINS REDUCTION IN SPECIAL TAX

Mansfielder's Assessment for Street Work Cut In Half.

Through a ruling handed down by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, William B. Mowry, 164 Raleigh avenue, won a reduction of one-half in special assessment taxes levied on his property for street improvements.

The tax, set at $201 by city council in 1932, was reduced by the court order to $100, one-third the appraised value of the property. The tax was to have been paid over a period of four years.

The ruling restrains the county auditor and treasurer and the city from collecting any amount over $100.

Try Blood Transfusions to Halt Deadly Baby Malady

DOCTORS SAY 7 YOUNGSTERS SHOWING GAIN

11th Infant Dies as Hospital Tries Out New Treatment to Check Death Toll.

CHICAGO—(AP)—A first step by medical science toward control of the virulent, unknown disease which has taken the lives of 11 newborn babies and threatens seven others at St. Elizabeth's hospital nursery was revealed today by a staff pediatrician.

The accomplishment was described as a "minor refinement of technique of treatment" but physicians held hope it may aid in saving the lives of the infants still isolated in the nursery ward.

Cause Unknown.

The malady, characteried by acute inflammation of the intestinal tract and usually fatal within 24 hours, has baffled pathologists and toxicologists. Physicians have recognized the ailment only in recent years as a new and distinct malady. Its deadliness and unknown cause have prompted widespread and, so far, relatively unsuccessful study.

Even as the death of the eleventh victim was announced, Dr. Benjamin Levin, head pediatrician of the hospital staff, announced a means had been determined to offset exhaustion of bodily fluids—one of the malady's principal symptoms.

"We have found a way to counterbalance such deficiencies by blood transfusions and saline injections," he said, "and can control dehydration before the infection has spread too far."

Another symptom of the disease, in addition to the intestinal inflammation, is vomiting, he said.

Mother Superior Adolphine, in charge of the hospital, said the seven babies apparently were holding their own.

"There appears to be a slight improvement in all except one case," she said.

The children remained isolated with special nurses on an entire floor of the hospital building.

In Oxygen Tent.

Blood transfusions from parents or close relatives were ordered in 15 separate instances. One child, regarded as desperately ill, was kept in an oxygen tent.

Sorrowing parents kept ceaseless vigil in corridors while physicians carried on their fight. Temperature in the nursery ward was kept at 90 degrees while the oxygen, transfusions and injections were used to keep life in the tiny bodies.

"We have absolutely no assurance that this emergency treatment will be effective," Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said. "We are hampered by the rapidity with which the disease strikes and claims its victims."

Leviathan, Once "Queen" of Seas, Sent To Junk Pile

NEW YORK—(AP)—The mighty steamship Leviathan was headed for the junkyards today to provide scrap iron for British armament after the United States lines refused to sell her to Japanese interests.

Basil Harris, a vice president who announced sale of "Old Levi" to Metal Industries, Ltd., of London, for "more than $800,000," said offers of Japanese interests which have outbid British and Italian firms in the world's metal markets were rejected.

"We did not consider it advisable at this time to consider an offer from Japan," he said.

The 907-foot liner cost at least $10,000,0000 when she was launched.

ASHLAND—Lloyd E. Faulk, 55, died here Sunday morning at the home of his brother, Grant, after a short illness.

Born May 24, 1885, at Jeromesville, he is survived by two brothers, Grant of Ashland, and David of Semple, Texas, and a sister, Mrs. Edward Arnold, of East Liverpool.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday at the home with Rev. A. A. Hunter, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be in Ashland cemetery.

JOHNSVILLE INFANT DIES

LEXINGTON—Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Snyder funeral home for the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Shafer of Johnsville, who died Sunday evening at the family home, with Rev. E. T. Shepard, pastor of the Johnsville Grace Evangelical church, officiating. Burial will be in the Schauk cemetery.

Davey, Legislature Push Plans for Relief

Up and Down THE STREET

There's been considerable comment made about President Roosevelt's ulcerated tooth, so there's no reason why the ulcerated tooth of John C. (Druggist) Davis shouldn't be mentioned. He's been suffering with it for a week now, and was away from his store for part of last week, but was back on the job today. Like President Roosevelt, he still has to see the dentist again. "I guess my tooth has hurt me about as much as the president's hurt him," Davis commented today.

Although he isn't old enough to obtain a hunting license, 12-year-old Ralph Winbigler of Bellville has his own way of bagging rabbits. He takes his little toy tractor, winds it up and with a cord attached, and starts it down the rabbit hole. Then he goes to the other end of the hole and catches the rabbit with his hands when it emerges. All very simple. Saturday he bagged two by this method.

Ice skating has now become Mansfield's most popular sport now that the cold weather has arrived. Large crowds of both adults and children took advantage of the cold spell over the week-end by skating at North Lake park. They report the ice is in good condition.

Home from Ft. Smith, Ark., where he went after a prisoner, Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman is convinced that you have to leave home sometimes to appreciate it. Adding up bridge toll bills that totaled nearly $5, Freeman remarked that "Ohio is a pretty good state after seeing some of the others. Why, in Tennessee and Arkansas," he commented, "you have to pay at least a dime to cross a creek and some places the toll was as much as 50 cents."

GOES ON TRIAL

First of Trio In Kidnap Case Faces Court.

Arnett A. Booth, 46, a paroled convict, went on trial in Huntington, W. Va., today for his life in the kidnaping of a retired minister, in which two paroled Mansfield reformatory inmates were implicated.

The two ex-inmates, John Travis and Orville Adkins, both 24, obtained separate trials and will be brought into court at a later date.

All three are accused of kidnaping Dr. James Seder, 79, a former missionary and prohibition worker. Dr. Seder was held captive in a cave in a woods near Huntington for 10 days before he made his way to freedom. He died four days later from pneumonia, resulting from exposure during his period of captivity.

Dingledine Trial Snagged by Slow Selection of Jury.

SPRINGFIELD — (UP) — The first degree murder trial of Harry B. Dingledine, 54, charged with the slaying of two Springfield officers following a hold-up here on Sept. 3, entered its fourth session today, with only 11 jurors seated tentatively.

In the first three days of the trial, two venires of 115 names have been drawn. Only eight names remain on the second venire as attorneys began their efforts to seat a 12th juror and an alternate.

"Santa Claus" in this case is an 84-year-old Ohioan. He used to work for a railroad. Now he has more money than he needs. He is givnng away $105,000.

The 21 persons over the country to whom he is sending $5,000 each are second cousins. Many of them he has never seen.

The story of the pre-Christmas gifts goes back to a death-bed promise. James A Costello is the survivor of a family of three brothers and two sisters. When the others died he became manager of their fortunes.

Included was brother Charles' estate of $500,000. To Charles he made the death-bed promise to take care of the cousins.

Costello was quite disconcerted over notice given him. He said politely but firmly that he "didn't send the checks for publicity and it is nobody's business."

"Letters of thanks alone will repay me," he said.

Like the Santa Claus story in real life, he made careful investigation of characters over weeks of time. Now the good receive presents —5,000 presents. And are they writing their letters to "Santa!"

HERROLD NAMED HEAD OF SOUTH MAIN SUNDAY SCHOOL 31ST TIME

About this time of the year, the South Main Street Evangelical Sunday school elects officers. Everyone knows who's going to be elected superintendent. Will G. Herrold has had the job so long that he's considered a fixture now.

Herrold was elected superintendent for the 31st time yesterday. Even he doesn't know when he's going to give up the job—if the Sunday school would let him.

Herrold first took office in 1907, two years after he came to Mansfield. The present church was built the year he arrived, in 1905, and Herrold has been superintendent of the Sunday school under every pastor the church has had.

He recalled today that the first Sunday he attended Sunday school—held then in the Y. M. C. A.—there were seven people present.

"And the minister and his family accounted for four of that number," he says smilingly.

It's a different story today. Yesterday, there were 407 at Sunday school, and the average attendance for November was 406. A year ago yesterday, the attendance was 300, and the average for November, 1936, was 336.

The Sunday school's so big, Herrold says, that it's cramped for space. There are accomodations for about 350 in the church building.

"If we had the right facilities, we could build a Sunday school of 750 in three years," Herrold said today. And no one will argue with him about that. He probably could do it.

The Sunday school, which has 65 officers and teachers, elected other officers yesterday, C. F. Wolf was elected associate superintendent for his 17th year. E. K. Tingley was elected for his third year and Russell Yarman became an associate for the first time.

Other officers elected were: Ira Kochheiser, treasurer. Dean Robinson, secretary; Harold Mumford and Harold Warner, assistant secretaries; Ray Loughman, librarian; Naomi Armstrong and Marcia Wolf, assistants; D. G Schooley, chorister; Arthur Schnittke and Walter Prichard, assistants; Geraldine Harley, pianist; and Kathryn Black and Mabel Eckert, assistants.

The school has an orchestra of 20 members, under the direction of Herbert Rinehart, and is now preparing its 18th annual yearbook and calendar.

VETERAN DIES

LUCAS—LeRoy P. Nolan, 41, died unexpectedly Sunday morning at the Mt. Zion parsonage near Lucas, where he had been a guest of his sister, Mrs. M. G. Bishop, wife of the pastor, for the past four months. Death was attributed to heart trouble.

A native of Illinois, the deceased was a veteran of the World war, who served 27 months overseas, participating in the Montidier-Noyan and Meuse-Argonne defensives and the Aisne-Marne offensive. He was cited for gallantry in action, but never fully recovered from being gassed.

Surviving are his father, Bernard Nolan; two sisters, Mrs. Irene Fair and Mrs. George Brodrecht, of Galena, Ill.; two half-sisters, Mrs. Bishop and Mrs. Della Wingard, of Shanesville; and a half-brother, Fred Studers, of McLeary, Wash.

The body, now at the Byerly funeral home in Lucas, will be taken to the Wingard home in Shanesville Tuesday. Funeral services will be held there at 2 p. m. Wednesday, with Rev. L. W. Sifferd officiating. Burial will be in Shanesville.

MRS. BOYER DIES

Widowed Mother of Two Succumbs In Bucyrus Home.

BUCYRUS — Mrs. Matilda Jane Boyer died Sunday at her home on here following a lingering illness. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ida Burgess, at home, and Mrs. Nineta Glasgow of Sheridan, Wyo., and a brother, Lincoln Freeburn of Toledo. Mrs. Boyer's husband preceded her in death several years ago.

Mrs. Boyer was a member of the St. Paul's Lutheran church. Funeral arrangements are incomplete pending arrival of relatives.

GOVERNOR GOES TO WASHINGTON FOR U. S. HELP

Seeks to Obtain Approval of Program For Early Payments of Job Insurance.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Efforts to solve Ohio's perplexing relief problem proceeded on both executive and legislative fronts today.

Gov. Martin L. Davey went to Washington to press personally his plan to advance by a year the date of paying unemployment insurance benefits. He advocated the change as a means of taking some of the relief load off the local subdivisions from whom he has demanded 50-50 matching of any state funds expended for relief.

"I am sure the (Federal Social Security) board can approve the plan and co-operate with us in establishing administrative machinery," said the governor as he prepared for conferences with federal officials.

Plans Amendments.

He would have the legislature amend the Ohio law to make benefits available next month instead of January, 1939, as provided in the system set up a year ago.

"We expect to call on various state departments and agencies to aid unemployment offices in registering the jobless. In that manner we probably can begin payments in January," he said.

Meanwhile, Chairman Al Kalb (D-Ottawa) sought a quorum of the House Finance committee to begin study of two radically different relief programs.

Governor Davey has proposed joint participation of state and local governments in a $15,000,000 annual system to aid the indigent.

A joint legislature committee has offered a plan, indorsed by the Ohio League of Muncipalities, calling for the state to supply $12,000,000 of a $16,000,000 program.

Several legislators were reported attempting to write a compromise program which might secure house approval. There also was a bloc opposed to all state relief.

Executive boards of the Ohio Federation of Labor will meet here tomorrow to decide on a relief policy. Representatives of more than 100 unions condemned the Davey matching proposal last week.

The senate, awaiting a house decision on relief, scheduled only two skeleton sessions for the week.

DIES AT AGE 87

William J. Garner Was Retired Cigar Manufacturer.

BUCYRUS—William J. Garner, 87, retired cigar maker, died Sunday at his home here following a lingering illness. He was born Oct. 2, 1850 in Sharpsburg, Pa., and came to Bucyrus a few years later.

Mr. Garner is survived by his wife, Caroline; a daughter, Mrs. Fred Croneis of Bucyrus, two grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m., Tuesday at the Muntz funeral home in charge of Rev. J. W. Patterson. Burial will be in Mt. Zion cemetery.

MRS. BLISS, 48, DIES IN WILLARD

Long Illness Ends; Funeral Services To Be Held Wednesday.

WILLARD—Mrs. Floyd Bliss, 48, died Sunday at her home here following a lingering illness. She is survived by her husband, Floyd; a daughter, Mrs. Paul Daugherty; a son, Forrest; three sisters, Mrs. C. E. Henry; Mrs. D. B. Bradford, and Mrs. Roy Steiert, and two brothers, Charles and Donald Reed all of Willard.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m., Wednesday at the Fink funeral home with burial in the Willard cemetery.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

The Fading Feud.

ALTHOUGH Mr.. William Green, of the A. F. of L., and Mr. John Lewis, of the C. I. O., were unable to reach harmonious accord as a result of their personal conferences of the last few days, there is no reason for pessimism about the labor peace. It is on its way. It will arrive. It has to.

FOR SEVERAL years now these two labor politicians, figuratively speaking have been at each other's throats, each thirsting for the other's blood and, in their less violent moods, implying that the other was a low, treacherous person, whose word was worthless and whose deeds were very black, indeed. The fact that they could be induced to enter the same room is proof enough that an amicable agreement is in the making, even though nothing concrete seems accomplished at the moment. It is also another proof of the well known impermanence of political enmities. In labor politics, as in all politics, there is no such thing as an unshakable friend or an implacable foe. It may be that Mr. Green and Mr. Lewis never will love each other again, but they are not going to continue fighting. There is a complete lack of nourishment in that. Neither can win; both are bound to lose. Soon or late, expediency will force them into each other's arms.

THE REASONS are clear. The pressure upon them is so heavy and from so many quarters that it is daily becoming more difficult to keep their personal feud going at white heat. Even before they went into conference the temperature had lowered perceptibly. It has been more than a month since either has called the other anything worse than a traitor or a demagogue. Early in October they began to pull their punches. They had reached the point where they could speak about each other without spitting. Six weeks ago it would have been impossible to have gotten them in the same room together. When they went in this time they bristled but bowed to the inexorable propulsion of economic law.

BEYOND question the business slump has hit them both pretty hard. So long as industry was thriving they could play their game with a full purse and lots of leeway. But when business sagged and thousands of men were laid off all over the country, their respective organizations began to lose revenue much more heavily than they like to admit. Men out of work cannot afford to pay dues to unions; and it is dues which pay the salaries and expenses of Mr. Lewis and Mr. Green, give them funds to finance strikes and contribute to political campaigns. They can afford to fight and splurge and spend when business is good, but when it is bad their style is cramped, their reserves are depleted and their activities restricted. It is ironical that the two men whose stock in trade is so largely denunciation of industry, should be so dependent for power upon its prosperity. Under existing conditions, for them to support measures calculated to hamper business, or to stand in the way of measures designed for the relief of business, does seem almost incredibly stupid. No matter how they talk publicly, neither is silly enough to do that. They do not proclaim the fact, but it is true none the less, that in strength and substance they rise and fall with the business tide—and know it.

A SECOND thing which, despite strong personal distaste, forces Mr. Lewis and Mr. Green together, is the great discontent developing among the rank and file in both camps. There is growing resentment at the continuation of the feud. The idea has permeated pretty thoroughly the great mass of dues-paying members that this has become now a personal struggle for prestige between the two men; that the cause of labor as a whole has suffered from the bitterness of the contest; that it has degenerated into a face-saving effort on both sides and that it is time for it to end. Manifestations of this feeling have been multiplying very fast recently and they have the same effect upon Mr. Lewis and Mr. Green that letters of protest from constituents have upon members of congress. In plain words, the boys are getting bored with this Lewis-Green quarrel. They are beginning to feel like suckers and, if it goes on much longer, are not going to be held in line.

THE THIRD peace-making factor is the pressure from the administration. Mr. Roosevelt, whose political debt is enormous, is embarrassed by the feud. He has had great difficulty in keeping on friendly terms with both Mr. Lewis and Mr. Green, and at times has not succeeded. Mr Lewis, particularly, has evidenced resentment at being invited to the White House just because the president had had a talk with Mr. Green and thought if he did not send for Mr. Lewis his feelings might be hurt. Mr. Lewis has expressed himself to that effect a number of times. As a friend of the president, the ubiquitous Senator George Berry, a labor leader of importance himself, has been working hard to bring the rivals together. The combination of all these things makes the merger inevitable. No matter how much Mr. Lewis and Mr. Green dislike each other, they can't go on fighting. Neither the temper of their followers nor the business slump, which affects the temper of their followers, will permit it. Those who know best the inside of the labor situation fix the date of an effective peace sometime in the early spring. These reconciliations take a little time, but this one is well on the way.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—About four years ago movie talent scouts raided the New York musical "Roberta" and came back with two finds—a member of the orchestra named Fred MacMurray and an actor-hoofer named George Murphy.

Both these boys now have a movie head-start on the show's leading man, Bob Hope, who belatedly makes a film debut in the new "Big Broadcast." As he has been signed for additional films, it appears he won't be long in catching up with the others.

Born in London, but reared in Cleveland, O., Bob made his vaudeville and radio reputation telling Scotch jokes. And he was a canny fellow, too, when the movies invited him out from "Roberta"—at $750 a week.

He was doing well enough on the stage and air to be able to smile at the figure. If he came out at that price, he reasoned, he might sit around a long time with nothing to do in pictures. The more an actor is paid, the more carefully the studio is to do right—and immediately—by him. He waited—proving that you don't have to be in Hollywood to know all about how it works.

* * *

Shirley Temple's future pictures will be half-and-half: half in "costume," half modern. They've stayed awake nights worrying about it, but a fan mag poll of juvenile readers was equally divided on the question, and Shirley's fan mail the same....

"Sally, Irene and Mary" will have the usual this-is-purely-fiction note at the beginning, but Louise Hovick's character is a much-married gal named in the script as Miss Joyce....

Even in Hollywood one gets startled occasionally. There was this sign on a set, for instance: "Carpenters please note. Lumber in this set finishes natural. Do not pencil mark it and do not walk on the walls."

MISS MARY FLOWERS BRIDE OF DECEMBER

Jack McKnight, Mansfield Girl Exchange Nuptial Vows Sunday Afternoon At First Christian Church.

WEARING a pure white satin gown with a brief train Miss Mary Flowers, daughter of R. C. Flowers, 4 Glenwood Heights, was married to Jack McKnight, son of Mrs. C. J. Pittinger, 146 Poplar avenue, Sunday at 2 o'clock in the First Christian church.

Amid a bower of white chrysanthemums, palms, and ferns Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger read the single ring ceremony as the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. McKnight's gown was made on close fitting lines wtih a petal neck-line and short sleeves. She wore a finger-tip length net veil made with a crown front cap and white lace mitts. Her arm bouquet was of white chrysanthemums and she wore a locket which had belonged to her mother. Her two attendants were Mrs. Hedges Princehorn and Mrs. Richard Armstrong.

Before and during the ceremony Miss Jane Weuthrich sang and Mrs. H. H. Clingan played the organ. Miss Weuthrich's numbers were "I Love You Truly" and "All For You," and Mrs. Clingan played "Oh, Promise Me," and "Indian Love Call" in addition to the traditional wedding marches.

After the ceremony the couple will take a southern trip. They will be at home at 508 South Main street about Dec. 9. Out-of-town guests at the ceremony were Miss Florence Smth and Mr. and Mrs. Murry Ricker, Galion.

Town Musicians Take Part In Play Saturday Night

Drama students of Mrs. William A. (Alice C.) Partello presented their benefit production at the high school Saturday evening with the assistance of several town musicians.

The two-act series of sketches entitled "The Show Is On" was laid in a fantastical toy land scene, but the dramatic roles included nearly everything from dances by three French dolls and four wooden soldiers to an interpretation of the character, Scarlett O'Hara by an eight-year-old dramatic student, Patsy Frank.

Persons in Mansfield's music and drama world who assisted Mrs. Partello with the production were Mrs. Walter T. (Edith Fletcher) Jameson, soprano, who sung an aria from Carmen; Mrs. Paul Williams, soprano, who sang "I Love You Truly"; David Ireland, who wrote the words and music for the flower masquerade, and John Grabler, who acted as maestro and accompanist. Members of the Episcopal church boys' choir offered incidental music.

Honor Two Children At Birthday Party

The birthdays of two children, Jesse Sheldon, age 8, and Patsy Estes, age 4, were observed Sunday at the home of Mrs. Mary Sheldon, 203 Raymond avenue. Aquamarine and yellow decorations were used at the refreshment table and games were played by the small guests.

Those present were: Thomas McNew, George McNew, Clarence Earl Feeman, Gordon Wyllis, Jeanne Strikler, and Robert Strikler.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of three articles advising women how to be well-dressed, smart, poised, and successful. The other two will appear on this page at a later date.

By ADELAIDE KERR
(AP Fashion Editor)

NEW YORK—Suave worldly fashions, largely inspired by the Duchess of Windsor, are the rule in the new winter mode.

Their coming has set a new mold for faces, figures and clothes.

The picture of insouciant youth, at which so many women aimed for years, lost its spot in the fashion sun when designers launched a form inspired by the clothes of the woman first in the news. It is slim, suave, figure-revealing—and worldly as a diamond brooch.

Women have come of age. The poised woman of 30—or more—holds the fashion stage.

More Time Shopping.

Every part of her mode is designed to "build her up." Dresses are cut in worldly simplicity, molding figures to show their curves. Almost every one is splashed with a bit of sparkle or a colorful touch Coiffures are designed to produce small heads with hair swept up in the back. The spirit of youth has been supplanted by suave mature chic.

Change like that calls for thought. Fashion-wise women are spending more time on their clothes this fall than they have since hemlines dropped, for they know they cannot achieve the desired effect with a few hours' nonchalant shopping.

You will need to plot every clothes move you make, if you want to look right this year. Study yourself and the fashion rules followed by the world's best-dressed women.

These will be doubly useful in a particularly perplexing season, but they will serve as long as fashion lasts as a guied to the goal of true chic.

A Few Rules.

1. Buy classic clothes for the foundations of your wardrobe. They last. They stay within the framework of the mode Choose coats, suits and some dresses which you can wear two or three years.
2. Get your effect of novelty with accessories. Some of the smartest women in the world show sheer genius in the way they enliven a classic dress with one vivid splash of color—a blazing pin-cushion clip with the plainest of wool frocks or a pair of paprika gloves (and no other color) with a simple black dress.
3. Avoid cheapness like the plague That does not mean you cannot take advantage of an inexpensive frock. But turn your back on shoddiness. Cheap clothes soon wear out. Cheap furs and jewels have a tawdry look.
4. Learn to go without with good grace, if you must If you need a new coat and dress and can't afford both, buy the best coat you can and invest part of your budget refurbishing last year's frocks.
5. Wear only the hues which become you. Try draping colored crepe paper capes or pieces from the scrap-bag around your shoulders until you know.
6. Select a color scheme and stick to it. Don't ramble all over the color card with, for evample, a black coat, a blue dress and brown shoes
7. Choose your hat almost as carefully as you did your husband—even though you dont' expect to keep it as long. Before you take it home, make sure it looks as well when you are standing as sitting, as smart on the sides and in the back as in front.
8. Pay attention to your feet and legs. All the men will.
9. Strive for individuality. In this age of ready-made clothes turned out in thousands of replicas, add something to your costume which is solely yours.

Girl, 19, Can't Have Boy Friend

By VIRGINIA LEE

JUDGING from the letters that reach my desk, the young folk have a pretty bad time with parents. Fathers and mothers seem to forget their own youth, or else, they expect their children to be much less free than when they were young.

Now, in all these cases, I do not hear the parents' side, you understand. I'd very much like to have a round table discussion with these same parents and get their views on these problems and tell them what I think.

DIANA says:

"Can you imagine, I, a 19-year-old, cannot have boy friends or entertain at home? I am considered a good dancer, although I very seldom go to dances, and even then I am chaperoned by mother and dad. I always refuse dates. I know if I keep refusing I will not be asked again later on.

"Often I cry to think of the rest of my girl friends having a wonderful time and I have to stay home night after night. Sometime I feel like committing suicide because I am not having any fun in life. Should I accept a date and go out, even if it is against my parents' will? I should think a 19-year-old could have the privilege of going out."

Of course you know my views in the case, Diana. I've stated it many times in this column. My opinion is that when young people begin to be interested in each other they should be allowed to mingle, with proper supervision. This means that they should be permitted to gather in groups in one another's homes, where parents can meet and chaperone them. That they should be allowed to go out together to early shows and to school parties, which are also looked after by older people, and on evenings not school nights. I think this is the wisest course for any parent to take and the most satisfactory.

To my mind it is ridiculous to expect a 19-year-old girl to stay in or go to a dance only with her parents. Parents who are jealous of their child's companionship or are afraid of her drifting away from them if she is allowed to have companions of her own age and the good times that every young person expects, will inevitably lose them later on when the youth is of age and can defy them.

Don't even think of suicide, Diana. That is silly. You have plenty of good times coming. Go out to dances when you can with your mother and father and have good times. If you are dependent upon your parents for support, you should do as they say. But in two short years you will be legally of age, and then you do not even have to live at home if you do not want to.

TRUCK SERVES AS LOCOMOTIVE

ABERDEEN, S. D. — (AP) — A unique carrier contraption and a standard highway truck are the locomotive power for a railroad line which operates on 18 miles of track between Leola and Mound City, S. D., near here.

Farmers and business men revived the defunct Mound City and Eastern railroad to fulfill their own needs. They cut operating expenses 40 per cent by using a simple pilot car conceived by W. W. Rabey, manager of the line.

The pilot car was constructed by dismembering an old flat car.

Favored Fashions

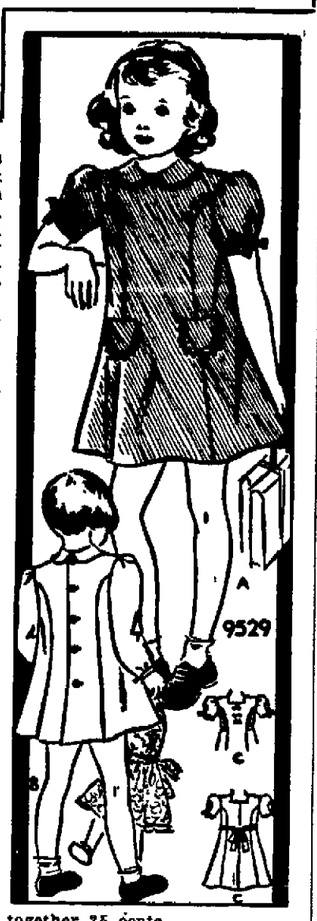
By MARIAN MARTIN

Every little girl who sees it is sure to want this dream of a frock —youthfully lovely, and cut on graceful princess lines! Mother, too, will want to stitch up Pattern 9529 when she discovers how easy its simple seams are to sew. Marian Martin has provided for two striking versions of this style. Make up model "A" for schoolwear in a vivid challis, with gay splashes of ric-rac trimming Peter Pan collar, puffed sleeves, and patch pockets. Style "C" omits the buttons down its back, and has a go-to-party air, with three fetching bow-ends, square neckline, and a dainty bit of ruffling for accent. Complete Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9529 may be ordered only in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6, view A requires 2 yards 36 inch fabric and 2 yards ric-rac braid.



BE SURE TO STATE SIZE

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I AM afraid my jaw actually dropped in amazement as I listened to Katie's calm comment upon the wrecking of Noel's car. How on earth had she learned of the scheme which I had imparted to Jim with the stipulation of secrecy?

Before I could find voice to question her, she giggled gleefully.

"I sure got you oop in air dees time," she chortled. "You tink I snoop at keyhole, or else Jeem coom running like little baby boy und tell hees mudder eferyting. But dot not vay I find oudt; no, not me.

"Goot Detecatuff."

"Vot dot Jeem forget, und maybe, for leetle bit, you, too," she said delicately, "ees dot I goot detecatuff. Und den, too, I tink of tings to do Ven I hear Mr. Noel say hees clutch acting oop, und he haf to put car in garage, I tink how nice eet would be eef clutch go bad altogedder. I alvays hear Jeem say eet vonder your clutch don't go snap, de vay you ride eet—oh, Meesis Graham—I no mean to say dot—Jeem he keel me und he ought to"

"Never mind, Katie," I said "You're not telling me anything new, you know. Go on with what you were saying before."

"Vy!" she resumed hesitatingly, then rushed on with her usual loquacity, "I know Jeem kin do all kinds of tings mit cars, und I find heem und say to heem, 'Loak here, vy you not feex dot clutch goot und plenty ven you take eet to garage? Mr. Noel nefer know deeference, und eet gif Mees Mary und Meester Noel anudder day here, und put a spoke in dot old fadder's wheel."

Suspected Plot.

She stopped short, patently out of breath, and collected it again with difficulty.

"Vell, you know sumtings?" she queried rhetorically. "In vun second I knew sumtings oop Dot Jeem he turn red as nine heets, und hees eyes roll round like tops und he no say anytings for almost a meenit. Und I, know vy. Hees brain not vork so fast, und he no kin tink of sumtings to stall, for he no vant me to know truth. Und at last he say, 'Vot kind foolish talk ees dot? You vant Meesis Graham to tink I fool mit cars? You keep your mout shut und don't meddle mit tings you no undestand.'

"Den he roosh oudt as if dayfel vere after heem," Katie went on, "und I sit me down und I tink, und I tink, und I tink. I know by vay Jeem talk und act, he already planning to do tings to dot clutch, but I know sometings else, too I know he nefer, nefer dare to do anytings like dot unless somebuddy told heem to.

Heard Conversation.

"Und you only vun around here smart enuff to tink of eet, so I deedooce you put up Jeem to job Und ven you und Jeem talk shoost now over telephone, I hear enuff to hear about clutch goin', so I know I deedoce eferyting right, shoost like my detecatuff correspondence course teach me."

"You are very clever, Katie," I told her, then added sternly, "but you are to say nothing to anyone about what you have deduced, do you understand? What has happened to the clutch was an accident. Everyone must believe so"

"Me, I no fool," she said, "I say nuddings to nobuddy. But I tink plenty."

"That's your privilege," I said weakly. "But I don't want you talking to Jim about this or questioning him until I give you permission. Promise me that, now."

"Sure ting," she answered easily—too easily, I thought with a little qualm. "Dot poor feesh' I no bodder mit heem. He haf enuff troubles ven Meester Graham get talking to heem. Dot talk about accident no go down mit Meester Graham; he too smart for dot."

Scrub Hands With Brush For Beauty

By GLADYS GLAD

"America's Most Famous Beauty"

Back in the days when the Ptolemys ruled Egypt, one of the loveliest princesses of that dynasty gained great renown because of her beautiful hands. This lass, however, gave her hands perfect care, massaging them frequently with a preparation made of milk, marrow and perfumed oils.

Hands do tend to show their age. Indeed, back in the 19th century, hands were considered a dead give-away of a woman's age. But that's not true any longer, for women have become really "hand conscious," and they try to keep their hands as youthful in appearance as they do their faces.

As a rule, it is on the grooming and polishing of their nails that women today lavish most of their attention, and that, of course, is entirely commendable, but as Marion Davies, screen star, will tell you, too many women seem to forget the hands need a good scrubbing every day. Too many women, Marion says, do their cleansing in a rather slipshod fashion, and, as a result, their hands do not possess the soft, fine-textured skin that really beautiful hands should possess.

Handbrush Necessary.

A well-made handbrush is something that no woman should be without, for careful cleansing with a good brush constitutes one of the most effective ways of acquiring soft, smooth looking hands. Every woman should have a handbrush amongst her toilet articles Each schoolgirl should keep one in her desk for mid-day cleansings. And the office worker should keep one in her locker or desk drawer, for filing, typewriting and the like begrime and discolor the hands.

When using your handbrush, however, be sure that you use only a pure, bland soap with it. Harsh, caustic soaps are too hard on the hands, and tend to dry and crack the skin. The really good soap must be free from any excess of alkali.

A high grade of pure castile soap is ordinarily excellent for cleansing the hands, and there are a good many pure vegetable oil soaps that can be safely used. When selecting soap, however, a woman should look for a product that lathers smoothly and creamily, that removes dirt and grime effectively, and leaves her hands feeling soft, smooth and velvety.

HOROSCOPE

TUESDAY, Dec. 7.

ACCORDING TO the lunar transits, this should be a day of fair activity, with much gainful effort and reward for industry, application and sound judgment. Real possessions should increase and solid investments thrive, possibly because of the advice or support of elders. Be wary, however, of duplicities or schemes. Social, domestic and affectional relations should bring happiness and new friendships.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those born on this day may have a rather active year, with definite returns for fidelity, hard work and through increased property values and wise investments. In private affiliations, much happiness, possibly a desirable new friendship, is presaged.

A child born on this day may be talented and versatile in business as well as in social attributes, also in art or literary ability. It may be industrious and have good judgment, winning the benefices of its elders.

Waffles will be very crisp if twice the amount of butter that recipe calls for is added. In addition to having delicious waffles you will avoid the trouble of having them stick to the waffle iron

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

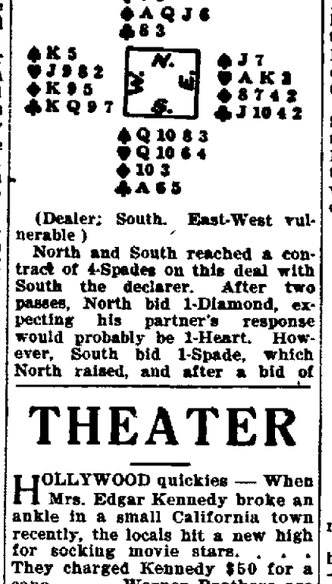
"The Authority on Authorities"

REVERSING THE ORDER

RUNNING a side suit before starting the trumps reverses the usual procedure. On certain hands it is absolutely essential to do so, as a means of discarding losers in another suit, if the opponents are virtually certain to get in the lead when the trumps are tried.



(Dealer; South. East-West vulnerable)

North and South reached a contract of 4-Spades on this deal with South the declarer. After two passes, North bid 1-Diamond, expecting his partner's response would probably be 1-Heart. However, South bid 1-Spade, which North raised, and after a bid of three by South, North took the contract to four.

The club K was led and South won with the ace. It was immediately evident that the contract would be difficult with that lead, as a trump would be lost, two hearts, one club and possibly a diamond. The declarer, however, decided to go after the diamonds first before he lost control with trumps. He finessed the diamond 10, which held, then the diamond J and on the diamond A discarded one club. He then led the diamond Q, discarding his last club, and West trumped.

West's club return was ruffed by South, who then led a small spade to the A, which picked up West's K. Two heart tricks in addition to the diamond that was ruffed were the only tricks taken by the opponents.

Stars From Broadway.

Described as a merry, mad whirlwind of mirth, "Merry-Go-Round of 1938," new comedy musical, is the current attraction at the Madison theater through Tuesday. Hollywood reached to Broadway and the airways for such talent as Billy House, Jimmie Savo, Bert Lahr, and Joy Hodges, radio songster. The screen world tosses Misha Auer, Alice Brady and John King into the film. The picture deals with the activities of Auer to help along the love affair of his foster daughter.

Football Drama.

As American gridiron heroes figure in the headlines, a football story of Annapolis, "Navy Blue and Gold," from a novel by George Bruce, moves across the screen at the Ohio. The cast is headed by Robert Young, James Stewart, Lionel Barrymore, Florence Rice and Billie Burke. The film portrays the devotion of cadets pledged to their country's service, the heartaches of stern, character-building discipline, the thrilling sportsmanship of the Navy's football games and the love of two players for the sister of their quarterback pal.

"They Won't Forget."

The interesting story of how an innocent man, a school teacher, is convicted of the murder of a pretty high school girl forms the plot of "They Won't Forget," opening Tuesday at the Majestic. The film also shows the results of mob violence. Heading the cast are Claude Rains, Gloria Dickson, Edward Norris, Otto Kruger and Allyn Joslyn. The second feature on the twin bill will be "Some Blondes are Dangerous," with Noah Berry, jr., William Gargan and Dorthea Kent. The picture is the story of a prizefighter who, after a quick rise to fame, ditches the girl he loves to marry a glamorous gold-digger.

"Confession."

Kay Francis in "Confession," comes to the Ritz theater beginning Tuesday. The story concerns a famous opera singer who kills her betrayer in order to save from ruination her young daughter whom he is leading toward the fate of the mother. Supporting the star are Basil Rathbone, Ian Hunter and Jane Bryan Constance Bennett and Cary Grant in "Topper," completes the double feature attraction. The two are co-starred as the young married couple who, upon meeting a violent death, find themselves imprisoned in spiritual space and who can only advance to a higher plane by achieving one good deed.

Young Man Asks How To Treat Girl

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a young man almost thirty, and unmarried. A young woman with whom I was very much in love during my college days, but who has been married to another for some years, is returning to this town to visit her parents. She is coming alone, I understand, as her husband has to be abroad for several months on a business trip I have not seen this girl for years. Her sister told me about the visit when I met her on the street the other day. I supposed that telling you about this background of our friendship is necessary before asking you just how far an old friend of my sort may go in asking her to do things while she is here. This is a fast growing city but it has not yet outgrown its small-town eyes and ears and tongue.

Answer: The ancient Romans had a very wise proverb: "It is best to let sleeping dogs lie." The particular dog I have in mind is not the town's leading gossip. The dog that should not be wakened is the love you once felt for her. Had you seen her constantly all these years you would be quite safe. But emotion is a very treacherous dog that all too often "plays dead" and then just when you feel sure it is dead, it goes mad and bites you! Of course if you feel sure your dog is quite tame and toothless, then enjoy seeing your old friend by all means.

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister is just home from a visit to see her not-yet fiance' Mother claims that sister's easy attitude will probably soon change the hopeful "not-yet" to the final "never-will-be!" But naturally sister thinks she is right and that mother is a victorian prig. But as I'm growing up very fast and only a few years behind sister, I'd like to get some of these questions on this subject straightened out in my mind. To begin with, sister went, on the man's invitation, to stay at the hotel in his town. He lives at his club and his family does not live there at all. When sister arrived he said that he had not engaged her a room at the hotel because some friends of his wanted him to bring her to their house for the week-end. Apparently she said "fine!" and had a grand time. But mother is terrible upset that her daughter should have no sense of dignity. Sister just laughs and says she'd never get anything except "left" if she took advice from Mother.

Answer: Your mother is right on principle, and right according to good taste, and she is on the right side of a winning average. On the other hand, it may very well turn out that your sister is right in knowing how to get what she wants—because she happens to understand this man. The apparent answer in this one case is not so much one of right or wrong as of whether wedding bells ring or not. But even if they do, your mother will not have been proved to be wrong

My Neighbor Says:

Butter may be easily cut into small pieces by using a wet thread instead of a knife.

Dip onions after peeling and slicing in milk and they will fry more easily.

If a small piece of butter is added to cocoa it may be substituted for chocolate in cake recipes.

To curl celery cut the inner stalks into 4-inch pieces and split each down into thin strips, stopping within an inch of the end, then drop into cold water and curl.

If you wish to have a smooth custard you must always dip custard cups in cold water before filling with the mixture And always bake in a slow oven.

Becker, Davis Collide, Main Match at Armory Tonight

Tonight will be another big night for the followers of the demons of the mat.

At 8:30 p. m., Promoter Tim Nolan of the Quality club will present another all-light-heavyweight show at the Armory and one of the old Mansfield favorites will appear in the headline bout.

He is George Becker, handsome German boy of New York City, who caught the fancy of Mansfield mat fanatics last winter. Becker's opponent will be Sterling Davis, a rough 'n' tough hombre from the cow country of Oklahoma.

This match will be a two- out-of-three-fall affair with a 90-minute time limit.

The semi-final match pitting Jose Rodriguez, Mexican mat artist, against Clyde (Slash) Clifford of Texas is scheduled for the same distance, and it is expected to provide practically as much action.

Rodriguez has compiled an enviable record on the mat since his invasion of this country, and may pack too many guns for Clifford.

Fred Donley, who hails from Indianapolis, a newcomer to the Mansfield ring, will meet Joe Wolfe of Columbus in the curtain raiser, a one-fall 20-minute bout

AT ARMORY TONIGHT

Hunting Tags To Be Ready This Month

Hunting license tags, which will be displayed on the backs of hunters during the 1938 season, will be ready for distribution sometime this month, but it will not be necessary to wear them until Jan. 1. The tag bears the wording, "Hunting license, number, Ohio 1938. Display on middle of back."

The number of the hunter's license will be large enough so it can be read from aistance of approximately a half mile through field glasses.

The purpose of the tags is to allow for an easier identification of hunters by landowners and game protectors.

Now comes Homer Austin of Falmouth with a report of having found five young squirrels in a leaf nest in a tree, the little fellows being hairless and did not have their eyes open. Others have reported young squirrels seen late in November. This is said to be unusual and some of the weather prophets claim that it indicates a mild, open winter.

Trappers desiring to obtain top prices should prepare pelts carefully before selling. Saveral simple rules are given here and if followed will bring greater returns.

Dry skins in a cool, airy place —never in the sun or by a fire. Never use salt or any preparation for curing skins. Skin each kind of a pelt in the manner it is supposed to be, following the method established by the manufacturing trade. Never cut off heads, except rabbits. Tails and legs of muskrats, opossum and rabbit should be cut off. Never overstretch. This thins the fur and it appears poor. Get a square effect on raccoon. This is to be done by stretching and not trimming. Feet and claws should be left on fox.

Inmates Drop Second Tilt

The Ohio State Reformatory quintet dropped its second game of the season Saturday night, bowing to the strong Worthington Dry Cleaners of Elyria, 39 to 33, on the Reformatory court.

The Elyria club hopped into the lead in the opening frame and was never headed. Trailing 18-10 at the half, the Inmates, who recently bowed to the Yuncker Sports, put on a 15-point rally to cut the invaders lead to a 27-25 count. Moore led the Reformatory team with 15 points, and Roach paced the winners with nine.

King Levinsky, Broke, To Try Grunt Sport

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO—(AP)—King Levinsky, one time night mayor and pride of Maxwell street, swelled his chest with a sucking-in sound today until the buttons of his coat nearly popped off.

It was preliminary to an announcement of tremendous importance to him. "Hey, you louse," he bellowed, pulling up in front of a beer tavern. "You're just the guy I'm looking for."

"I want to make it a wrestle," he parried, squinting his eyes. "There ain't no more mazuma for me fighting any more. From now on I'm a wrestle, a murder of the mat."

The strapping Kingfish, who earned $300,000 with his fists since 1929 and then lost it, is going in for what he regards as important dough grunting and groaning on the mat.

"I gave all them big guys hell in the ring, didn't I?" he quizzed. "You tell 'em pal. Now, I'm going to do the same thing in a wrestle I'm still the king. I'll pin their ears lopsided. Too bad my sister Lena ain't here to back me up. She knows I'm a tough guy. Hot cha."

Big-Time Official Praises Pete Henry

J. Y. Clinton Regards Mansfield Boy As One of Greatest Tackles of All-Time; Slated to Appear at Banquet.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

THEY were talking about football the other evening in the lobby of the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Included in the group was a big, white-haired fellow, who looked as though he might have played a little football in his day.

Who was the greatest tackle you ever saw, he was asked? "The greatest tackle I ever saw?" he answered. "Why, that's easy."

"Pete Henry, of course," said the man without a hesitation. Knowing Pete, or "Fats," as he called him, was a Mansfield boy, the broad-shouldered talker explained that his choice was not made because of this fact.

"There was only one tackle who can be compared with Henry," he continued. "I mean Arthur Brides, who played for Yale back in 1906, '07 and '08."

Who was this rather grayish gentleman, still, apparently, on the sunny side of 50, who could answer ever question on football? Where did he learn about Henry, or about football in general?

Clinton—that was his name. Not familiar around these parts, but the name is pretty well established in football circles in the east.

He was J. Y. (Jack) Clinton, a recent addition to the sales promotion department of the Mansfield Tire & Rubber company. Jack is a former football star—at Yale, many years ago. Now he is ranked as one of the leading officials in the east.

Clinton never played against Henry, but he officiated in many games in which the Mansfield boy participated in professional football.

"Henry's on my all-time All-America . . . along with Brides at the tackles," Clinton said as the conversation continued.

Who are Clinton's other choices on his all-time All-America. Clinton, who has seen them all during the last 27 years, thought a minute. "You couldn't keep Huntington Hardwick off the team."

Hardwick is just a name to modern football fans, but "he was quite a player at Harvard" a few years ago. "He was the greatest all-around player I ever saw," Clinton thought.

* * * * *

Picks Jock Sutherland at a Guard.

HARDWICK and Skladny of a recent Pittsburgh team were his choices for ends. "I'd place Jock Sutherland, who played at Pitt before becoming a coach, and Jack Tobin of Dartmouth would make a fine pair of guards for any All-America team," Jack contended.

Picking a backfield was easier than selecting a line. "My backfield would be Eddie Mahon of Harvard, a great kicker and defensive player; Ted McCoy of Yale, Bronko Nagurski of Minnesota and, of course, Jim Thorpe, the old Indian star."

They were all great backs, Clinton said. "But the best of them all was Nagurski."

Clinton, who hails from Philadelphia, has been officiating in big-time football for 26 years. He figures he has worked in 500 games. His busiest year was in 1928 when he handled 55 games.

He officiated in the Pittsburgh-Pen State, New York U.-Georgetown, Dartmouth-Brown, Dartmouth-Harvard, Syracuse-Penn State, Duquesne-West Virginia Wesleyan, Michigan State-Temple, Michigan State-Manhattan, Princeton-Cornell, Yale-Cornell and Penn State-Cornell games this year.

While he has confined activities mostly to college games, Clinton has also officiated in pro and scholastic contests.

His record also includes four officiating appearances in the Army-Navy series, the last being in 1936, and twice in the Rose Bowl. He handled the Columbia-Stanford affair a couple of years ago and the Harvard-Oregon game in 1920.

* * * * *

Handled Odd Lafayette-Pen State Game.

CLINTON has witnessed many oddities on the gridiron. "The most unusual game in which I ever officiated was in 1929—the Lafayette—Pen State game," he said.

"Perhaps you remember it. Lafayette was leading Penn 3 to 0 with only five seconds of play remaining. It had the ball on its own 18, and first or second down."

"Time for only about one play remained and Lafayette surprised everybody by punting, instead of bucking the line to stall for the end of the game."

"The punt was taken by French of Penn State on the other side of the 50-yard line, and he lateraled to Deitrich, who went all the way to score and win the game."

Clinton has seen all of the great teams of the east in action. "The greatest team I ever saw was the Pittsburgh club of this year," he claimed." It had power to burn."

The group was still talking football at past midnight, and how long the conversation continued is a question.

But every little while the talk would return to Pete Henry, who will be the principal speaker at the third annual banquet to be tendered Mansfield high school football squads by The News-Journal at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Wednesday, Dec. 15.

Although on a business trip at present, Clinton agreed to be here for the banquet, and he will be on the speaking program. You'll like Clinton, we know.

"FOLDING MONEY" BACK

Big Ten Receipts Expected to Exceed $2,000,000 Mark.

CHICAGO — (AP) — Return to general circulation of what the boys call "folding money" is reflected in football attendance and receipts for 1937 in the Western conference.

Receipts probably will exceed the $2,000,000 mark for the season just closed—the highest figure since the peak year of 1927, Major John L. Griffith commissioner of the athletics for the "Big Ten" said today. The all time high was $2,770,600 in 1927. Last year the receipts were $1,750,000. The bottom was reached in 1932 when the cash amounted to $972,389.

ANOTHER TOUGH SKED

Notre Dame to Again Tackle Back Breaking Card Next Fall.

NOTRE DAME, Ind. —(U.P.)— Notre Dame will play another "back breaking" football schedule in 1938 according to the card released today by Elmer F. Layden, athletic director.

The Irish will play on successive week-ends Kansas, Georgia Tech, Illinois, Carnegie Tech, Army, Navy, Minnesota and Northwestern and then have an open date before tangling with Southern California in the final game.

MT. EVRNON SEEKS PEDAN

MT. VERNON — The annual banquet honoring the Mt. Vernon high school football team will be held Dec. 13. An attempt is being made to secure Don Pedan, Ohio U. coach, as speaker.

NAMED CO-CAPTAINS

Murphy May Change Lineup For Columbus South Game

Shelly, Dials May Figure In Tyger Plans for Second Game of Season Here Friday Night; County, N. C. O. Team Continue.

MANSFIELD court athletes returned to hard work today to smooth-en up their play for their tussle with Columbus South basketeers on the Tyger boards Friday night.

Coach Russ Murphy was not disappointed over the performance presented by his new cage edition in the opener with Akron Kenmore, which it lost, 22 to 20, but he believes he can strengthen the lineup with a change or two.

Murphy did not mention the players who might be involved in the shake-up, but indicated that he was dissatisfied with a few departments of the team's performance.

More Experienced.

Dave Shelly and Elmer Dials will be given opportunities to win starting berths for the Columbus game. While Jack Dugger shows considerable promise at center, Dials is more experienced, and the football end may get the call at center this week.

Murphy is by no means dissatisfied with Dugger, who is a sophomore, and figures he will develop into a dependable center. However, his lack of experience will make it necessary for him to share the pivot post with others.

Dials is the other No. 1 center prospect on the squad, but Shelly may be used at the position as an experiment. Shelly has been used mostly at forward in drills, but has the height of a center.

Freddy Lewis and Tommy Scott fared well in the opener. Lewis' shooting was sensational, and the ball handling of the little Scott boy was spectacular. It may be difficult for the other candidates to oust either from a first-string berth until mid-season when Lewis graduates.

Hallabrin Steady.

John Hallabrin is a steady player at a guard, but not a dangerous scoring threat. His experience serves to steady his teammates, however. Jack Lyons is expected to develop into a good scoring guard.

Mansfield faces anything but an easy assignment Friday against the Columbus club, which opened its campaign with a 39 to 25 victory over Columbus Grandview last week.

Four Games Billed in County League.

THE Richland county league teams will swing back into action this week with a program of four games.

On Friday night, Ontario, which handed Lucas its first setback last week, travels to Lexington. Madison, victorious over Bellville by a one-sided score, is host to Butler, and Lucas attempts to regain its winning stride at Bellville.

Union, still seeking its initial victory, will go to Bellville Saturday night.

N. C. O. Cage Quints Play This Week.

ALL of the N. C. O. conference quintets will be in action this week in non-league conflicts. Galion plays at Willard, Ashland invades Norwalk, Bucyrus entertains Plymouth and Shelby is host to Bellevue on Friday night. A Saturday night engagement will find Mt. Vernon entertaining Columbus North.

Cage Leagues Attract 150

More than 150 boys are participating in the intramural basketball leagues at John Simpson junior high school, according to Athletic Director Bob De Haven.

The three leagues include 16 teams of seventh, eighth and ninth grade players, and a regular schedule is played by each circuit The schedule opened last Monday, and two games are played each day. The season will end March 4.

Members of the Simpson varsity squad do the officiating, score keeping and timing for the games.

LEXINGTON LOSES

The Lexington Minutemen bowed to the sharpshooting Johnsville cagers, 63 to 47, Saturday night, before a large crowd on the winners' court.

Although being swamped in the first frame, 20 to 6, the Minutemen were able to hold their opponents on even terms, with 11-all, in the second period.

Shaffer and Ferguson led the winners with 29 and 18 points, respectively. while Rule and France were high scorers for Lexington.

Johnsville also won the preliminary game, 25 to 18.

REDSKINS WIN, 49-14

Baugh, Battles Lead Club to Eastern Title.

NEW YORK—(AP)—What possibly is the most effective scoring combination in football history—Cliff Battles, the ball-carrying will o' the wisp, and Sammy Baugh, the peerless passer—has shot the surprising Washington Redskin through to the championship of the eastern division of the National Professional Football league.

Sammy and Cliff and the rest of the remarkable Redskins did it the terrific way yesterday, terrorizing the New York Giants, 49 to 14, before 58,000 enthralled fans at the Polo Grounds. Among those who witnessed the electrifying battle were 7,000 wild-eyed Washington rooters, who ripped up the goal posts and everything.

The way Cliff and Sammy cut didoes behind their savagely thrusting forward wall, it is difficult to picture them as losers next Sunday, when they meet the Chicago Bears, champions of the western division, at Chicago's Wrigley Field in their play-off for the league title. The Bears, with nothing at stake, steam-rollered the Chicago Cardinals, 42 to 28, in their final yesterday.

Battles and Baugh took the Giants' line apart and held it up so the crowd could get a laugh. Battles, a wraith in silk panties, carried the ball 170 yards in 24 tries from scrimmage, not counting a 76-yard run-back of an intercepted pass. Baugh completed 11 passes for a total gain of 135 yards, running his total completions for the season to 81 and breaking a previous league record of 77.

Shelby Loses Opening Game

SHELBY — The Shelby Whippets got off to a bad start Saturday night, bowing to Norwalk, 26 to 21, in their opening game at Norwalk. Norwalk rallied in the last chapter to edge the Shelby quintet.

Shelby held a 13 to 11 advantage at the half, the only time it was ahead. The two outfits went into the final stanza with the score deadlocked at 17-all. Called Norwalk with 10 points, while Lehman topped the Whippets with eight.

LIBRARY ADDS EL INDIO, PRIZE WINNING NOVEL

The book, a dramatic story of the life of Indian tribes in Mexico, is illustrated by Diego Rivera, and the atmosphere and vivid descriptions of the Indians and their home life, affords interesting reading.

"The Imperial City," by Elmer Rice is a kaliedoscope of life in New York City. The activities of the Coleman family makes up most of the story. The family is important in financial circles because of their investment house. The book follows the battle as they attempt to gain society's top rung.

Other New Fiction.

Among the other fiction books on the new library list are "No Hearts to Break," by Susan Ertz, the story of Jerome Bonaparte's first wife, Elizabeth Patterson of Baltimore; "Rumelhearts of Rampler Avenue," by DeLavan; "Murder at Government House," by Huxley; "King of the Bush," by Raine, and "Lost King," by Sabatini.

"The Life of Paul Gauguin," by Robert Burnett, which tells the true story of the famous artist's life, tops the non-fiction additions. Since Gauguin's death in 1903, numerous tales have been told which make him a romantic figure, but Burnett's book reveals the artist to be the opposite.

Other non-fiction includes: "Human Mind," by Menninger. "Story of Tunnels," by Black. "Social History of American Agriculture," by Schafer. "Hungarian Dances," by Viski. "Plays of Story and Legend," compiled by Sanford. "Uncle Toby's Christmas Book." "After the Genteel Tradition, by Cowley. "Old Churches and Meeting-Houses in and Around Philadelphia" by Faris. "Road My Body Goes," by Gessler. "Lord Bothwell & Mary Queen of Scots," by Gore-Browne.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Christmas is only three weeks away, and everyone is busy shopping for the family and relations. Books always make ideal presents. For the youngest children we suggest:

Dick Whittington and His Cat—Holiday.

The Night Before Christmas—Holiday.

How Percival Caught the Python—Holiday.

Other new children's books are: Twin Kids by Inez Hogan, Ezekiel by Elvira Garner; The Stage-Struck Seal by James Hull; Walter the Lazy Mouse by Marjorie Flack; The Castle Number Nine by Ludwig Bemelmans; The Polar Bear Twins by Jane Tompkins; Hans Christian of Elsinore by Eva Kristoffersen and The Pig With a Front Porch by Emma Brock.

GEM FOR MUSEUM

LONDON, (U.P.)—A rare Byzantine gem, said to be the finest in any museum, has been acquired by the Victoria and Albert museum, South Kensington The gem is a cameo, in jasper, of the crucifixion, with the Virgin and St. John. The 12th century has been suggested as its date.

FINANCING PLAN VITAL FACTOR IN GROWTH OF AUTO INDUSTRY

It has often been remarked that the growth of the automobile industry has been one of the wonders of the modern world. In 1895 there were but four automobiles registered in the United States. Today there are over four million, eighty percent of them owned in the United States.

Many factors have contributed to this modern colossus—mass production and labor saving machinery together with scientific sales organizations, each of which has played its part in bringing the automobile to the American family.

Another vital factor in this great growth has been the development of installment buying or what is more commonly known as automobile financing. Starting as the industry itself did in a small way, it has gradually grown and spread out from its early beginning until it has taken in almost every article that goes into furnishing a home.

The companies which originally engaged in financing automobiles were small and they moved cautiously. They were local in their operations and operations were spread out to take in wider and wider territory. Small local companies multiplied and the business seemed to be on the verge of stumbling over its own feet.

Gradually, however, the larger companies, formed in some cases, by the combining of small ones, began to dominate the field.

The disadvantage of this condition is that in a typical town of 45,000 people, perhaps 25,000 own cars, each one of which is insured for certain things to the amount of perhaps $30. The money for the payment of the automobile comes back to the dealer but the great volume of insurance premiums goes out of town.

The insurance is placed in the hands of some agent or company totally unknown to the purchaser and in case of an accident, the real service of the local agent is lost to the person whose car is damaged.

There is the trite stying that anyone can deliver a policy and collect the premium but the real service which is to be given with the policy which a person buys can only be rendered by someone who is interested in carrying out the promises made in that policy. Your local agent is the one to whom you should naturally turn and as he is your agent, he will be interested in you and in your claim. It is, therefore, of great advantage to the purchaser of a new car that his financing and his insurance arrangements be made by someone who has these interests in mind.

The Davis Agency, 207 Bowers building, is equipped to take care of these arrangements and it has for many years prided itself for the service that it renders to its clients. This has been the foundation upon which the agency was builded and the principle factor in its growth.

DO YOU KNOW DRY CLEANING?

Garment Must Be Thoroughly Rinsed In Solvent to Be Properly Cleaned.

Do you know that when a garment is properly dry cleaned, there is or should be, hundreds of gallons of clean solvent passed over it.

The purpose of this is to remove all the loose dirt and dry cleaning soaps that will cling to the garment during the cleansing process.

Use of the solvent treatment is one of the features of the dry cleaning system of the Sowash Bros., 125 North Main street, who operate not only the city's oldest dry cleaning establishment in years of service, but also in northcentral Ohio.

After the garment is rinsed thoroughly in the solvent, Sowash's use the germfree treatment of hot air until the clothing is free of cleaning odor and germs. The garment is then ready for spotting and pressing.

Every step in the Sowash cleaning system has a definite part to play so that the garment can be sent back to the customer looking as good as new.

Celenese, a material of which many of women's dresses are made today, needs skillful and competent operators to clean, as material of this type calls for extremely careful application of chemicals in removing spots and stains.

INSURANCE AND SAVINGS

In 1900 only one person out of ten in the United States had a life insurance policy and only one in six had a savings account. This year every other person has both.

HE'LL SAVE YOUR FAVORITE CHAIR

Bechtler Specializes In Rebuilding Furniture as Well as Making New.

If your favorite chair or davenport looks like it has seoen better days and appears headed for the junk-heap—don't discard it. There's a place in town whire it can be rebuilt and made into a new piece of furniture.

Bechtler's Upholstering Shop, 104 North Mulberry street, specializes in this kind of work. It not only repairs and recovers furniture, but it builds it from the ground up.

If you have some particular design or idea for a davenport, chair, table or any other piece of furniture, it can be made to order at a nominal price. Custom made furniture is another specialty at Bechtler's.

When it comes time for new coverings on a chair or davenport, there is a wide variety of patterns to choose from at this shop. Samples of scores of tapestries, velours, mohair and friezes are on hand from which to make a selection.

The "hospital" department for broken furniture is another service maintained by Victor Bechtler, proprietor of the shop who has had years of experience in the upholstering and furniture making business, during all of which time he has served Mansfield and Richland county.

According to the Bureau of Census, the country's population is only 700,000 short of 130 million population estimated for '37.

CHAIRS, TABLES!

This Company Has Them For Rent by Hundreds.

When it comes to chairs or tables, the Chair Rental company, 258 South Main street, can answer your problems.

The firm rents chairs and tables for all occasions. The euipment is suitable for social gatherings, public meetings, card parties, or any size event. More than 1,000 chairs are available in addition to a large number of bridge tables and banuet tables.

Chairs are rented for five cents each or 50 cents a dozen, while the charge for tables is 15 cents each. The charges are even lower if the eulpment is rented in large numbers. Orders amounting to 50 cents and up are delivered free.

Both plain folding chairs and chairs with leather seats are available. The latter rent at a few cents a piece more than the plain chairs.

The Chair Rental company was organized three years ago and follows the trend in larger cities of having firms handle exclusively the rental of chairs and tables.

Business and Industry in Brief

By the end of this year, nearly 4.4 million motor trucks will be registered in the U. S., as compared with 2.7 million in '26 . . . Xmas toys this year will have a total value of $230 million, 10 percent greater than '36 . . . During the last fiscal year, over 22,000 miles of modern roads were completed with Federal funds amounting to $337 million . . . 578 miles of road have been constructed with special cotton fabrics . . . More than ½ of auto owners in the U. S. earn less than $30 weekly . . . At the present rate of coal consumption, U. S. reserves are sufficient for about 3,000 years to come.

NATION'S STEEL PRODUCTION UP

Output for First Half of 1937 42 Per Cent of World Total.

Steel mills in the United States produced a larger share of the world's output of steel during the first half of 1937 than during the same period last year, production figures show. During the first half of this year 41.9 per cent of the world's steel was made here as against 39 per cent last year.

Approximately 69,800,000 tons of steel were made throughout the world during the first six months this year. American mills, the world's largest producers, furnished 29,265,000 tons of the total.

COFFEE ON THE RUN

Approximately 1,000,000 pounds of coffee and 250,000 pounds of tea are consumed annually on dining cars operated by American railroads.
